SAAR WILD WITH JOY AS CHICAGO VOTERS ARRIVE

25,000 Cheer Group of Expatriates.

SAARBRUECKEN, Saar Basin Territory, Dec. 23.—(AP)—The first group of 450 expatriates from North and South America arrived today with free round-trip tickets to vote in the Jan. 13 plebiscite, and were greeted by cheers and weeping from excited Saarlanders.

Chicago contributed the largest numbers among the voters. Two hundred Chicagoans were in the party, the remainder of those from the United States being from New York, Buffalo, Los Angeles, San Francisco and midwestern towns. The South Americans were from Buenos Aires, Rio de Janeiro, Montevideo and Santos, Brazil.

25,000 Wait at Station.

Twenty-five thousand persons from all parts of the Saar territory jammed the squares in front of the railway station shortly after breakfast and stood there three hours waiting to see the 450 Nazi votes from across the seas.

The visitors received a boisterous reception punctuated with deep-lunged "heils" and Nazi salutes and frequent singing of the "Horst Wessel" anthem and "Deutschland Ueber Alles."

The special train from Bremen and Hamburg, where the expatriates debarked from the ships Bremen, New York, and Monte Oliva was fêted at all stopping stations as it crossed Germany last night and entered the Saar early today. Beer, coffee, and sandwiches were carried in to the passengers.

Taken to Nazi Café.

German front leaders, city officials, and relatives met the train here and took the group to leading Nazi cafés for breakfast.

Families that had been separated, some of them for more than a decade, mingled their tears with joyful manifestations of reunion.

It has been estimated that 55,000 expatriates will participate in the plebiscite, of which 48,000 will be from Germany. The Nazis are providing free transportation for every one.

Sons and daughters returning to the "old country" found the Saar in the midst of the Christmas political truce. The Nazis decided to obey the flag decree of Commissioner Geoffrey G. Knox, and consequently not one flag was hoisted over the territory today. Even the large swastika over the German front headquarters was hauled down at midnight.

Troops Plan for Christmas.

Troops of the league of nations' international army here to guard against trouble have turned their thoughts to a Christmas dinner, now that housing difficulties have been ironed out. The British will feast on French turkeys and English plum pudding.

The soldiers of the various nations are well housed. Some are in hotels and others in dormitories with central heating and big kitchens.

Members of a British contingent at Heinitz, near Neuenkirchen are the only ones to complain. Facilities there are taxed since 300 soldiers are quartered in a village of 800 mining families.

Cæsar's Legions Entered Saar.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAARBRUECKEN, Saar Basin Territory, Dec. 23.—The clock was set back some twenty centuries today as Italian military forces began helping to police the Saar.

It was not the first time the Italians had appeared in the Saar to preserve order. In fact, Saarbruecken—bruecken in German means bridges—was named after a military bridge which the Roman legions built during the early years of the Christian era.

In those days there was no plebiscite and no league of nations—except the league of Roman conquests. But Cæsar's legions had the same mission that Premier Mussolini's troops have now—to prevent the 100 per cent Aryans across the nearby Rhine from crossing the frontiers and creating a disturbance.

Since the last Roman legion was withdrawn from the Rhineland, presumably sometime in the fourth century, no Italian force has set a foot in the Saar, unless some unsung band of mercenaries from below the Alps entered the region in the pay of one or another of the many feudal lords who throughout the centuries have disputed this rich bone among themselves.

Cop Now Fears Young Wilbur Isn't So Good

Policeman Michael Shannon of the stolen automobile division is disillusioned. He used to believe that young auto stealers could be reformed.

Some months ago Wilbur Armstrong, 17 years old, 8542 St. Lawrence avenue, was paroled to Shannon. The youth had been mixed up in a little auto thievery and it was Shannon's opinion that only a little boyish exuberance and no real criminality lay behind Wilbur's stealing.

For a time events seemed to uphold this theory. Wilbur reported regularly to the policeman, each time informing him of the good life he was now leading.

Sighs Over Bad Boys.

The last report was on Dec. 17. It contained not only Wilbur's high recommendation of himself but information about some boys who, he said, might be going bad.

"I hope they are as fortunate as I was," sighed the probationer.

"You are a good boy," said Policeman Shannon. "You are making me confident that probation is a good thing."

But alas, Wilbur and Leroy C. Bollinger, 17 years old, 6015 South Troy street, were pursued last Wednesday by Indiana state troopers as they drove a stolen car through Michigan City. Because they didn't stop quickly enough the policemen shot and wounded both. They gave up and were sent back to Chicago.

Worse and Worse.

It was discovered that the automobile the youths rode in had been stolen on Dec. 16. Even more serious, Wilbur had driven around to Policeman Shannon's home in it when he made his report. Worse yet, he laughed about it.

"Why not?" he said. "Wasn't it funny?"

He and Bollinger named four other youths who had assisted them in stealing 20 cars. All were arrested. They are Earl Toomey, 18 years old, 8439 South Aberdeen street; Charles Bailey, 17 years old, 8141 Prairie avenue; Earl Hannion, 17 years old, 1144 West 79th street, and Shelby German, 20 years old, 8041 Muskegon avenue.

They all boasted of their ability to open automobile locks. All they needed, they asserted, was a bent pin. Nobody cared for the demonstration, so the youths contented themselves with laughing at Shannon.

SANTA TO BRING ARCTIC WEATHER AND MORE SNOW

When the white whiskered old gentleman from the north pole makes his big swing down from the frozen wastes in the early morning hours tomorrow, he's going to bring Chicagoans a lot more than his usual good cheer and gifts. Snow and colder weather will be in his pack, according to advance information released last night by Forecaster C. A. Donnel.

Last night's frigid weather will be eased somewhat this afternoon by southeast winds, Mr. Donnel said. But a new cold wave, spreading southeastward, is expected to extend over the Dakotas, the upper Mississippi valley, and the western portion of the Great Lakes region by tomorrow. With the new cold will come snow for the northern half of the country, the forecaster predicted.

Chicago experienced the severest cold of the season yesterday. Shortly before noon the mercury began a steady descent. At 2 o'clock this morning the reading at the Chicago airport weather bureau was 7 above, bearing out the forecast of near zero temperature for the city and suburbs. Unofficial readings taken in the loop were several degrees higher.

THE WEATHER

Lindy Reveals Plant Germs in Polar Air

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23.—[Special.]—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, by his flights across arctic regions in 1933 has enabled the department of agriculture to demonstrate conclusively that the spores of plant disease can be borne on remote air currents. That was announced here today.

With a spore trap of his own devising, which he called "the skyhook," Col. Lindbergh obtained specimens which confirmed the previous theories of government experts that plant diseases may be carried even across continents by air currents.

That was announced by Fred C. Meier, the department expert who interested Col. Lindbergh in the work.

Wife Helps in Work.

Col. Lindbergh obtained the specimens while he and Mrs. Lindbergh were flying back and forth from Denmark to the North American mainland by way of Greenland and Iceland during the summer of 1933 in an effort to chart a northern trans-Atlantic route for regular air commerce.

Col. Lindbergh devised his "the skyhook," a light, strong contrivance, easy to operate and well adapted to protecting sterile glass slides from contamination except for the time they were exposed. Mr. Meier prepared the slides and has examined and photographed them. He credits Col. Lindbergh with careful work.

The Lindberghs exposed 26 slides and returned them with field notes and free-hand maps indicating exactly where and for how long and under what conditions each slide had been exposed. Mr. Meier has taken care of the preservation of the slides and has examined and photographed representative sections. He has been able to identify the genus and in some cases the species of many of the objects trapped in the petroleum jelly which covered the slides.

Await Further Identification.

More complete identifications will in many cases have to await the assistance of botanists familiar with the characteristics which identify various kinds of pollen, and of scientific workers who are specialists in different groups of fungi, mosses, lichens.

On one slide, exposed far north of the arctic circle, Mr. Meier was able to discover under the microscope more than 40 different types of objects in a space five centimeters square. This was on a slide exposed 3,000 feet above sea level along the northeastern coast of Greenland.

"This Lindbergh collection" says Meier, "is the first of its kind to give concrete evidence of the part played by air currents in the distribution of fungi between northern lands."

STATE CHARGES MOVE TO SWAY LINDBERGH JURY

Chicago Pamphlet Is Under Fire.

Flemington, N. J., Dec. 23.—[Special.]—With the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann for the murder of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr. little more than a week off, prosecuting officials of New Jersey announced today that they had come upon what looked suspiciously like an attempt to prejudice prospective jurors.

Anthony M. Hauck Jr., prosecutor of Hunterdon county, called a conference of counsel to determine what steps should be taken to insure a fair and impartial trial of Hauptmann.

Mr. Hauck revealed that a veniremen had come to him with a booklet which he said he had received through the mails and that investigation disclosed that virtually all of the veniremen drawn on Dec. 12 had received similar printed matter.

Charges Effort to Tamper.

The prosecutor said the sending of the booklet constituted a deliberate and malicious effort to tamper with the jury. He described the contents of the booklet, which contains an imaginary report of a trial closely resembling the kidnaping and murder of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's infant son, as an attempt to distort the state's case against Hauptmann.

The booklet was copyrighted in 1933 by Mary Belle Spencer, a Chicago lawyer whose address is 155 North Clark street, Chicago, which is also the address of the "Confidential News Syndicate."

Upon its cover the pamphlet bears the title "Criminal File 2,310," above the word "Expose," and the subheading "Aviator's Baby Was Never Kidnaped or Murdered." Accompanying the pamphlet a member of the jury panel told Mr. Hauck was a letter warning him not to divulge the contents of the booklet because the "news of this trial has been suppressed by court order."

Imaginary Trial Described.

According to prosecuting officials, the booklet, written before Hauptmann's arrest, purports to give an account of an imaginary trial of a suspect who eventually is acquitted of a crime similar to that of which Hauptmann is accused.

In the booklet, Mr. Hauck said, the characters and names of many of the witnesses in the impending trial are mentioned but disguised by misspelling. Col. Lindbergh, in the booklet is "Col. Limberg," Betty Gow, the child's nurse, becomes "Elizabeth Gah," the commandant of New Jersey state police becomes Col. "Schweartupf," and the county in which the trial is held becomes "Hunter," instead of Hunterdon.

Although the Lindbergh baby was found nearly five miles from his parents' home minus the sleeping suit which he was wearing when he was snatched from his crib, the booklet sets out to prove that the infant never was kidnaped, but strayed from home by himself and met death from natural causes.

All members of defense counsel who could be reached disclaimed responsibility for distributing the booklet.

May Call Al Capone.

Counsel would not comment upon reports that the defense is planning to subpena Al Capone, now a prisoner at Alcatraz Island, Harry Sita-

Dies by Poison at Bedside of Dead Brother

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Seven members of a family were found dead today in what police described as a case of murder and suicide by a distraught mother. It was believed her grief over the recent death of a son drove her to slay a sister in Dunkirk, N. Y., and then come here to complete the annihilation of the family.

Amid the modest Christmas decorations in the suburban home of Walter Dempsey, the crazed mother, Mrs. Kathryn Schoch, 37, turned a revolver on the sleeping forms of six members of the family and left four dead and the other two seriously wounded.

Mrs. Schoch, a sister of Dempsey, then swallowed poison and fell dead at the foot of her brother's bed.

Find Her Sister Slain.

A few hours later police at Dunkirk, which is 260 miles north of Pittsburgh, broke into the apartment of Mrs. Ruth Dempsey Hughes, a sister of Mrs. Schoch, and found her shot to death. The two sisters had lived together and Mrs. Schoch came here last Friday for what the family considered a holiday visit.

In addition to Mrs. Schoch and Mrs. Hughes, the dead are:

Walter Dempsey, 42, a welfare worker; Robert Dempsey, 12, a son; Walter Dempsey Jr., 10, who died late tonight; Thomas Dempsey, 8, a son; David Dempsey, 15 month old son, shot while sleeping in his crib at his parents' bedside.

The wounded:

Mrs. Clara Dempsey, wife of Walter, shot in the head, expected to recover.

Plays Santa to Children.

Only a few hours before the shootings in the Dempsey home, Mrs. Schoch, a trained nurse, had played Santa Claus to the Dempsey children, affording them one last taste of Yuletide joy before taking their lives with a revolver police said she purchased in Buffalo, N. Y., last week under a fictitious name.

Chief of Detectives George W. Murren of Allegheny county, reconstructing the shootings and suicide, said Mrs. Schoch went into her room after all the others had retired and apparently waited until the family was asleep. She then tip-toed to the bedsides and opened fire.

He quoted Mrs. Dempsey as saying from her hospital bed that Dempsey was first slain, that Mrs. Dempsey was awakened by the shot and leaped from her bed screaming. Mrs. Schoch turned the weapon on Mrs. Dempsey, wounding her, but the injured woman was able to escape and run to the house of a neighbor for help.

Finds House a Shambles.

When they returned, Mrs. Schoch, the father, and three sons were found dead and the fourth son wounded.

Chief of Police John D. Warren of Dunkirk said he was certain Mrs. Hughes had been shot by Mrs. Schoch before she left for Pittsburgh. Dr. Joseph R. La Paglia, making an examination for Coroner George Blood of Fredonia, said Mrs. Hughes had been dead about 24 hours.

Dr. La Paglia reported he found the woman clad in night attire and there were two bullet wounds, one in the right wrist and one in the right side. He said it was possible Mrs. Hughes may have lived for several hours after being shot.

In a pocket of Mrs. Schoch's kimono, detectives found the partly emptied bottle of poison and 12 empty revolver shells.

Slayer Leaves 4 Notes.

Mrs. Schoch left four notes, one of which, expressing sorrow over the death of her son, Jimmy, 7, who died last month, said:

"Dear God, it's hard to do all this but I just cannot go on any longer. Not to feel my darling boy's arm around me nor hear his precious voice makes living unbearable."

150,000 CAROL TODAY IN CLIMAX OF HOLIDAY RUSH

Loop Events Start at 11 A. M.

Chicago, in holiday mood, will conclude its Christmas preparations today and start its real celebration.

For small Chicagoans it is a day of impatient ecstasy—Christmas eve! For their parents it is a day of scurrying—the final chance to wind up their Christmas shopping of a holiday unsurpassed in Chicago since the golden predepression era.

The holiday exaltation will be manifest particularly at 11 a. m., when carolers gather at State and Madison streets to offer jubilant song to the heavens, which, the weather bureau has predicted, will be cold but clear.

The Program of Song.

From the "busiest corner in the world" massed choruses and all shoppers who have the inclination to join in will raise their voices in joyous melody with Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink as honorary conductor, Reinald Werrenrath as guest conductor, and Noble Cain as director.

Starting with "Adeste Fidelis," the program will include traditional Christmas melodies of all the ages, from the lusty Welsh "Deck the Halls with Boughs of Holly" to the sacred "O, Little Town of Bethlehem." Brief Yuletide messages will be given by Lieut. Gov. Thomas F. Donovan, Mayor Kelly, Rabbi G. George Fox, and Bishop Bernard J. Sheil, and the ceremony will end with the singing of "Silent Night," led by Mme. Schumann-Heink.

Throng of Vocalists.

For the caroling throng of some 150,000 which is expected, 200 police will be on hand to handle trafic. The costumed choruses, riding in open cars of the Chicago Surface Lines' cars and in buses, will be massed in State street, from Wacker drive to Congress street. The music, which will continue until 1 p. m., will be broadcast through all downtown Chicago by the public address system.

Among the choristers will be members of what is believed to be the youngest choir in the world, the "little Gold Coast choir" of the Little French school, 31 East Elm street. Its members, children of prominent Chicagoans, range in age from 3 to 6 years, and at 12:20 p. m. their childish voices will resound through the loop in the strains of "Jingle Bells." They will sing to the accompaniment of the Deagan chimes, played by Peacock Kelly.

Among the Wee Carolers.

In the group are to be Rufus Dawes, 3 years old, the leader; Ira Couch, 4; Emily Jane Evans, 4; Jane Forrest, 4; Colleen Lynch, 5; Joan Limback, 5; Nancy Aitkins, 6; John Krupp, 5; Nancy Krupp, 6; Tommy Winans, 3; John Bryan, 5; Harrison Flick, 5; Jean Robinson, 5, and Scotty Kelly, 5½.

Along with the ancient Christmas eve customs of caroling and last minute shopping comes a third, outshadowing both the others in the extent to which Chicago participates in it—bringing Christmas to the poor.

Chicago's Christmas philanthropy is many faceted this year. It ranges from Good Fellow baskets to Christmas dinners, from $10 bills thrust surreptitiously into a little mother's hand to the adoption of orphanage babies for the holiday season, from a Christmas tree for two to Christmas parties for 1,000.

Give Parties for Children.

The philanthropists come from all walks of life. Chicago's school children, for instance, prepared 4,439 baskets for needy families. The Michigan Cleaners company is distributing 500 baskets. Thomas Schmitz, a night watchman, gave a party for 200 poor children yesterday, while Blue Devils, a group of Franco-Americans headed by Rene Weiller, the French consul general, dined and fêted 100 children at Hotel La Salle.

The largest party held yesterday was an entertainment for 1,000 children given at 2220 South Michigan avenue by the authorized Ford dealers of Chicago. The Breen-Sechs Athletic club entertained 100 in the club rooms at 771 Forquer street, distributing toys and baskets.

Officials Are Hosts.

Frank B. Alt, chief clerk of the city engineer's office, had a Christmas party for 200 children from the Sauganash district in the Queen of All Saints church, Peterson and Knox avenues. The Volunteers of America, who Saturday night entertained 500 children, had a party for an additional

In the interest which its news columns hold for readers may be seen a newspaper's ability to get results for advertisers. The Chicago Tribune is read daily by over 640,000 families in Chicago and suburbs alone. This is 260,000 more families or a coverage of the metropolitan market 68% greater than is delivered by any other Chicago daily newspaper.

250 yesterday in their headquarters at 2841 Washington boulevard.

The 11th annual Christmas party given by Albert J. Horan, chief bailiff of the Municipal court, for 3,000 west side children and the Spalding School for Cripple Children will be held at 9 o'clock tonight in the Senate theater, 3128 Madison street. The party, which Santa Claus is to attend, will last three hours.

A Judicial Santa Claus.

Another public official, Judge Harry A. Lewis of the Superior court, will act as Santa Claus to more than 400 poor families at noon today when, on behalf of the Graemere hotel, 3400 Washington boulevard, he is to give out Christmas baskets. Free luncheons and a program of Christmas music will be provided. Money for the baskets, which go to families selected by various west side churches and charities, was raised at a dinner given by the hotel.

The annual "from the skin out" Christmas party of the Central Y. M. C. A. will be held this afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. headquarters, 19 South La Salle street, when baskets will be given to 100 boys and girls. In each basket are underwear, stockings, leather mittens, mufflers, caps, Christmas fruits and candy.

City and county institutions, enthusiastic over recouped finances, anticipate the merriest Christmas in many years, with many of the celebrations beginning tonight. At the Bridewell today 30 prisoners whose terms expire on Christmas day will be set at liberty today as a Christmas gift.

Special Christmas Problems.

At the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium toys to the 300 children will be distributed tonight, as well as gifts for each adult. At the Chicago State Hospital for the Insane, Christmas trees on the lawns , and in wards will be illuminated for the first time tonight, after which Christmas gift bags will be given to each inmate.

Into two institutions the advent of Christmas occasions a problem that has been met with rare ingenuity. At the Municipal Contagious Disease hospital, segregated patients clamored for Christmas trees. Attendants placed the trees in the glass corridors running through the building, visible from every cot. At the Home for the Blind a fully decorated balsam tree has been set up. The patients, although not able to see it, can exult in the pungent odor of the balsam.

Deliver Benefit Boxes.

Before nightfall, the entire 50,000 outfits of warm clothing provided for needy Chicago children through Chicago's Own Christmas Benefit will have been delivered, officials predicted.

Fifteen thousand of the boxes were distributed yesterday, and packers worked briskly yesterday in order that the remainder might be ready for delivery today.

In the 8th ward, Mayor Kelly's home ward, some 700 Christmas baskets of food, procured with proceeds from a benefit ward dance on Dec. 15, will be distributed along with the boxes.

The Chicago Flat Janitors' union, local No. 1, will distribute 300 Christmas baskets to needy families at 11 o'clock this morning from the office at 5126 North Kostner avenue. The recipients, while not on relief, are in distressed circumstances. Each basket will contain clothing, a $1 bill and food worth $5.

FIRST CHRISTMAS SHOW OF PARKS' SERIES PRESENTED

The first of a series of community Christmas festivals sponsored by the park board took place last night in East End park when some 400 persons ventured out into the icy air to view a silhouetted pantomine of the coming of Christ.

The performance, in which 12 miracle scenes were acted in silhouette against a large outdoor screen, was directed by Alfred Stury, with whom the idea originated. Appropriate Christmas melodies, sung by a chorus of school children, accompanied each scene.

The "festival" will be repeated throughout the week on the north and west sides, but because of the cold, it will be held indoors, rather than outdoors in Garfield and Lincoln parks, according to Ralph Pierce, superintendent of sports for the south parks. On the west side, choristers plan to sing the carols in foreign tongues as well as in English.

CHRISTMAS TO BE RIGID FAST DAY IN ZUNI PUEBLO

Gallup, N. M., Dec. 23.—(AP)—The Christmas season, time of bounteous repast and gayety, finds the Zuni in solemn fasting.

Residents of the largest and among the oldest American Indian Pueblo villages, 40 miles south of here, began observance of "Zeshque," the most severe of many fast periods.

No fires will be tended, no food cooked, no trade or barter of any sort will take place while tribesman complete the cycle of their calendar in solemn purification.

In nine days, and by coincidence this year on Jan. 1, the Zuni begins a new cycle—a cycle which will include a change in customs centuries old.

Following "Zeshque," new officers will take up their duties. This year, those who will govern the village will be selected by popular vote in the village's first election.

DIVER SEEKING MRS. SCHAFFNER FIGHTS OCTOPUS

Carmel, Cal., Dec. 23.—(AP)—A diver searching underwater ledges for the body of Mrs. Eliot Boke Schaffner, missing wife of a Chicago clothing manufacturer, reported he battled for his life with an octopus today.

The diver, Oscar Lagar, brought up dismembered parts of the fish.

"The thing had me in its grip," he said, "but I was able to get my knife and slash it."

Lagar and two other divers reported to Joseph Schaffner, husband of the missing woman, that they had concluded further efforts to find her body were useless. A search of vacant houses in Carmel and vicinity was also dropped.

Aviators Scatter Corn on Snow to Feed Birds

Caldwell, N. J., Dec. 23.—[Special.] Bent on a yuletide mission of mercy, ten planes soared aloft from the Caldwell Wright airport 2 o'clock this afternoon. The planes distributed cracked corn from the air as a Christmas gift to hungry birds in northern New Jersey. The corn was donated by the Consolidated Sportsmen of New Jersey.

PILGRIMS MASS IN BETHLEHEM TO HONOR HOLY BABE

Many Lands Ready for Christmas Day.

BETHLEHEM, Palestine, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Thousands of pilgrims were gathering here today from all parts of Palestine to participate in the Armenian, Greek and Franciscan Christmas services that will be held tomorrow in the Church of the Nativity.

This ancient town, nestled on two hills and surrounded by olive groves, is ringing with the hushed joyousness of brightly-garbed men and women recapturing the spirit of devotion and piety associated with Christ's birth. Unlike previous Christmas celebrations, however, there are few tourists here to join in the sacred services. There is a very limited number of American and English visitors. The tourist agencies explain that these have changed their holy land visit to the Easter season.

5,000 to Throng Church.

Some 5,000 pilgrims and natives of Bethlehem throng the various passages of the church tomorrow night as the carols ring out to climax the revelation of the Holy Babe precisely at midnight. Hymning a paean of joy as the sweet-voiced children intone "Glory to the New-Born Child," the bells will herald another Christmas day.

The acting Latin patriarch, gorgeously robed, and attended by a procession of priests who later will celebrate the mass, will place the infant in the niche of the Grotto of the Nativity beneath the apse. The grotto itself, opened by a marble door, is distinguished by the star where the babe lay. This particular spot belongs to the Latins but the surrounding property is Greek.

Throughout the grotto are varied evidences of numerous peoples and races that have worshiped at the shrine of the infant. There is even one part of the basilica which has a black virgin dedicated by the Greeks to the Ethiopians.

Cathedral Ready for Ceremonies.

Protestants, Catholics, Armenians and other western denominations will join in the observance of the mass as the heterogeneous crowd testifies to the cosmopolitan character of Christendom in the holy land. The great rafted cathedral, echoing with the centuries of pious worship, is ready for the ceremonies of the adoration.

The town of Bethlehem itself is animated, in sharp contrast to the slumbering atmosphere which prevailed here the year around.

In Jerusalem the annual shepherd's feast will be celebrated by the Y. M. C. A. Roast lamb and Arab bread will be served in the open air near the caves which are believed to be the spot where the shepherds sat when the angels heralded Christ's birth.

Day for Handouts in Italy.

ROME, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Millions of itching palms will be stretched forth in absolute security of seasonal gifts tomorrow morning as workaday Italy swings into celebration of Christmas eve.

It will be the day of universal handouts. The whirl of gift-giving will be stimulated on every side by that cheerfully suggestive cry, "Buon Natale, Signore." In English this would be "Merry Christmas, Sir."

Cash reply to this greeting is so traditional that it is almost compulsory in modern day Italy. Offices and individuals will be compelled to pour out shoals of coin of the realm to the tune of this greeting tomorrow. If they don't they are apt to find untold small accidents happening to their mail, telegraph and telephone message deliveries during the coming year. Their heat, lighting and janitor services may be marred by countless small inefficiencies.

Tomorrow janitors will be spruced up in their best uniforms. Charwomen, garbage men, and window washers may be expected to put in an appearance at the crack of dawn. Grocer's, milkman's, baker's and butcher's boys can be counted on to swarm apartment house entrances, parcels in hands, long in advance of the customary telephoned reminders.

"Buon Natale," will be on all these lips, while clinking millions of small coins change hands.

Chile Hails Santa Claus.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Dec. 23.—(AP)—A serious minded Santa Claus who jumps from an airplane instead of climbing down chimneys was introduced officially and more or less formally to the children of Chile today. In previous years they haven't known much about the old gentleman.

Through their foreign playmates, native tots have heard about Santa Claus, and a few fortunate ones from rich homes have learned to expect gifts at Christmas time. But Chileans generally have not linked Santa Claus with Christmas gifts.

So Chile decided to have a "Santa Claus week," and started celebrating it today.

Santa Claus jumped from a parachute at the grounds of the Jocky club in front of a crowd of 20,000 gathered to watch the ceremonial opening of the "week." Arturo B. Hurle, son of a famous Chilean actor, impersonated Santa Claus for the stunt, and will continue to impersonate him all week. The show consists of religious pageants, parades and sports.

Jorge Delano, a distant relative of President Roosevelt and Alvaro Puga, a journalist, are in charge of festivities.

Chinese Will Celebrate.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Santa Claus will go down many a Chinese chimney Christmas eve, just as he will in the United States and Europe. His name in this part of the world is "Dung Che Lao Ren" or "Christmas Old Man."

Childhood's patron saint is an increasingly familiar figure here, although China is called a non-Christian land. In the words of Chiang Kai-Shek, generalissimo of the Nationalist armies, "the Christian spirit is spreading" and St. Nick's annual cruise is heralded far and wide.

Chinese Christians are leading here in honor paid the Spirit of Giving. Under auspices of the Chinese Y. M. C. A. 10,000 poor Chinese children will receive gifts, be entertained and fed. American marines will play Santa to swarms of Russian children of the huge Muscovite colony in Shanghai.

Works a Year on Christmas Display

Miniature Manger

After a year's effort Oliver Harber, 63 years old, 742 North Central avenue, civil engineer, completed yesterday his miniature, "Progress of Times." The miniature made of wood from grocery boxes includes the manger in Bethlehem, an Indian reservation, a log cabin, a Colonial church and residence, and a modern bungalow. It was placed at the foot of a Christmas tree for relatives and neighbors to view.

GOOD FELLOWS CARRY HAPPINESS TO NEEDY TODAY

Way Still Open to Aid Poor Families.

BY PHIL MAXWELL.

For Good Fellows this will be the happiest day of the year. More than 1,800 baskets of food, toys, candy, and nuts will be delivered to unfortunate families throughout the city before night falls. By private automobile and on public transit lines these Santa Clauses will carry out the fulfilment of a message suggested to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE 26 years ago by the late Albert F. Fitch, attorney and educator of Vandalia.

Though the time is short, there is still a chance for all who would become Good Fellows. It's too late to give money, but the names of deserving, investigated families will be given all those who telephone or call in person.

Help Drive Out Gloom.

On many fronts the Good Fellows will attack the gloom and sadness to be found in poor homes. Into all sections of the city they will find their ways, without ostentation, taking their baskets. The last ones will be delivered Christmas morning.

Among the groups which will take the greatest number of baskets today will be Aviation Good Fellows, following a brief ceremony at the administration building at the Chicago airport at 11 o'clock; the grade schools of Cook county; the Goldblatt stores; the Boy Scouts of America, the Newspaper Carriers' association, and the drivers of THE TRIBUNE'S circulation department trucks. Drivers who have worked their regular shift delivering newspapers throughout the city will take a brief rest and return to the loading platform of THE TRIBUNE to take on another kind of cargo—baskets brim full of happiness for those less fortunate.

Reward Will Be Ample.

Many a weary driver and his helper will turn in late this afternoon, worn out physically, but inspired by the laughter and smiles that greeted them at the doorways.

In order to accommodate those who yet would wish to become Good Fellows, the department at 1 South Dearborn street will remain open until midnight tonight. Just pick up your telephone and call Superior 0100 and you'll be given the name of an investigated, needy family. Stores will be open until late and you'll have plenty of time to shop for the contents of the basket.

Be on your way, Good Fellows. Good cheer to you and to the members of the families who will receive your gifts.

MANY SANTA CLAUSES TODAY TO BE REALLY JUST VISITING NURSES

Nurses of the Visiting Nurses' association will be visiting Santa Clauses today, according to Miss Edna L. Foley, superintendent of the association.

Among the contents of their Santa packs will be 1,000 toys, collected from private schools, gay shawls for shutins and woolly sweaters for babies sent by the Needlework Guild, clothing for 20 families from the Christ Child society; a set of quintuplets, the gift of Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy, for three little sisters who never have had a Christmas doll, and toys, blankets and underwear for crippled children, all the gift of one friend.

In addition, Christmas dinners will be taken to some 400 families. This has been made possible by gifts of money, ranging from $1 to $100, from friends of the association.

Field Museum Will Stay Open for Yuletide Visitors

The Field Museum of Natural History will be open tomorrow from 9 a. m. until 4:30 p. m. to accommodate Christmas visitors. Toys and festival objects of primitive peoples exhibited in the anthropological collection have been an annual attraction to visitors at Christmas.

CHURCHES PLAN DAY OF DEVOTION FOR CHRISTMAS

Glad Music Characterizes Observances of All.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

For Christians throughout the world tonight is the vigil of the Nativity, commonly known as Christmas eve. The day will see heightened religious preparation looking toward the solemn but joyful feast of the Christ-mass tomorrow. Telegraph wires, cables and radio will carry dispatches from every corner of the world tonight telling how the richest and poorest homes will observe the great festival.

While religious observance of the feast will naturally center at stately altars of cathedrals or before lesser shrines in more modest churches, yet the feast of Christmas, probably more than any other of the religious year, has a way of overflowing to reach harths and homes in every land.

Observance in Old World.

In England this overflow reaches families of all castes in heavy eating and fireside fun, though a modernism is gaining ground which tends to take Christmas from the home and send it out into travel, sports and hotel gayety. Custom now tends to make the English Christmas festivities extend over three days, though religious canons call for the "octave" or duration throughout eight days of this as well as other major feasts.

In Rome, pilgrims and natives will gather tonight and tomorrow to offer their devotions before sacred relics—relics said to be from the actual manger at Bethlehem in which the Savior was born. Like the humblest parish priest, Pope Pius may avail himself of the special privilege of offering as many as three masses early tomorrow morning.

Throughout Scandinavian lands and wherever those peoples have migrated, the simple service of Julatta will be observed at very early hours in all churches. Swedish churches of Chicago long ago transported this ancient service to this city. The service, composed of carols, scripture reading and sermon, will take place as early as 3:30 o'clock tomorrow morning in some Chicago Lutheran and Mission churches. In others, four o'clock, or five, are the hours announced.

Plans of Episcopalians.

Episcopal churches lay chief emphasis on midnight eucharists. Practically all churches of this name will celebrate the Christ-mass at the hour tradition says the infant Jesus was born. At St. Luke's procathedral, Evanston, Bishop George Craig Stewart will sing the eucharist, assisted by Dean Gerald G. Moore, and the Rev. John Heuss. At the Church of the Redeemer, 1420 East 56th street, a choir of men's voices will feature tomorrow morning's eucharist at 11 o'clock, while tonight at midnight, the eucharist will be sung by combined choirs of that church.

Yesterday afternoon, the children's choir of St. Luke's Episcopal church, Chicago, sang carols for the inmates of the women's division of the house of correction. Tonight the same choir will sing the midnight service. Children's singing will also be the feature of services tomorrow at the Drexel Park Presbyterian church, 6359 South Marshfield avenue. A special baptismal service for children will be conducted at that church at 10:30 o'clock Christmas day.

Music Dominates Programs.

All the neighborhood of Thoburn Methodist Episcopal church, 64th and Paulina streets will ring tonight with carols sung by its choirs. Homes of illness or of shut-ins will be favored by these carolers. At the First Unitarian church, 1174 Woodlawn avenue, ancient Christmas anthems are to be sung in Latin at tomorrow's 11 o'clock service.

At Holy Name cathedral, the first mass will be offered by the Very Rev. Joseph P. Morrison at 4 o'clock tomorrow morning. The cathedral male chorus will sing Regina Lacis high mass will be offered by the Very Rev. ices in this cathedral will come to a climax at 11 o'clock tomorrow when solemn pontifical high mass will be celebrated by Cardinal Mundelein.

Robber Wounded After Robbery of Home Dies

Joseph Nelson, colored, 26 years old, 3310 Calumet avenue, died yesterday in the Bridewell hopital of wounds incurred Saturday when he was shot as he fled after committing a holdup. With a companion Nelson went into the home of Oliver Fillmore, 1111 West 110th place, and after tying the members of the family, robbed them. As the two started away Fillmore worked free of his bonds, seized a pistol and fired through a window, striking Nelson.

SOCIETY FLYERS EAT A 7 COURSE DINNER AT EACH OF 7 PORTS

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 23.—[Special]—More than seventy aviators, many of them well known in Philadelphia society, today had a "progressive" Christmas dinner, one course of which was served at each of seven airports in the metropolitan area.

Thirty-eight planes flew about 150 miles from the time the diners started the meal with cocktails at Patco field, near Norristown, until coffee and cordials were served at Boulevard airport, more than four hours later.

Leaving Patco field, the flyers went to Wings field, Ambler, for a fruit cup. At Pitcairn field, near Hatboro, they took soup. Turkey was served at Central airport, Camden, N. J. The flyers had salad at the Northeast Philadelphia airport and pie at Somerton airport.

EMBREE STRIKES BACK AT HUEY ON COLLEGE STATUS

A roster of the first twelve universities of the United States would include no southern college or university, in the opinion of Edwin R. Embree, president of the Julius Rosenwald Fund. He made this assertion yesterday in a statement replying to the charge of Senator Huey P. Long of Louisiana that Mr. Embree had "swallowed his words" when he denied saying that the Louisiana State university "is about to be included in the first twelve universities of the country."

"More than half of the country's great universities are in the middle west and far west," Mr. Embree said. "The University of Chicago is maintained as a standard for educational institutions. The great south has no such school."

Harvard should head any list of leading educational institutions, Mr. Embree said. The others on his list of the first twelve were in the order given: Columbia, University of Chicago, Yale, University of California, University of Minnesota, Cornell, University of Michigan, University of Wisconsin, University of Iowa, Princeton, and Johns Hopkins.

CONGRESS PLANS BRING CHILL TO BUSINESS MEN

Inflation Fears Revive; Other Schemes.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23.—[Special.]—A new and more ominous menace of currency inflation by the incoming congress, together with another leftward swing of the White House pendulum has given business another chill.

Business leaders, who a few weeks ago were setting great store by their newly proclaimed coöperation with the administration, because of its apparent conservative trend, are losing their enthusiasm. They are far less confident now that a marked revival of business is at hand. Recovery is being halted, they feel, by current developments with business manifesting a tendency to mark time pending the resolution of new uncertainties.

Recall Football Metaphor.

Of such swings of the pendulum, however, business men cannot complain they were not forwarned. Long ago Mr. Roosevelt compared himself to the quarter back of a football team. Sometimes he gives the signal to carry the ball in one direction, sometimes in another. The trouble is, according to some of his critics, he gets his signals mixed now and then.

For some weeks before the Nov. 6 election the President was at great pains to conciliate capital. Business men were saying with relief that he was swinging to the right. Ever since his sojourn at Warm Springs, however, where Rex Tugwell, Harold Ickes, Harry Hopkins, and the chiefs of the TVA were in the ascendant, it has just been one chill after another for the business community.

The President answered the peace plea of the public utilities with a blast from the power commission and a move for a municipal lighting plant in New York city. The recovery platform issued by 90 industrial leaders at the White Sulphur Springs meeting, with its plea for budget balancing and monetary stabilization and its objections to colossal made work relief undertakings was coldly received at the White House.

Sticks to New Deal.

Mr. Roosevelt gave business effectively to understand that he refuses the plea to modify his course, that recovery must take place, if at all, on the terms of the New Deal. It became abundantly apparent that he purposes to ask congress for more power and more money, including four or five billion dollars for public works construction to make work for the unemployed, notwithstanding the opposition of business to the government competition with private initiative involved therein and the cost of made work relief, which is estimated to be 50 per cent greater than straight relief.

Meanwhile the inflation bloc in congress has made tremendous headway with its projects. The Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage moratorium act, which the President signed with professed reluctance, has been thrown into the shade by another bill of the same authorship, Senator Lynn J. Frazier [Rep., N. D.], and Representative William Lemke [Rep., N. D.].

This measure, which the inflationists have embraced with alacrity, provides for the liquidation and refinancing of farm mortgages to be paid for by issuing 3 billion dollars in new money.

Bonus Another Factor.

Then there is the bill for immediate payment of the soldier bonus by the issuance of 2 billion 200 millions in greenbacks, which is apparently certain of passage by both houses early in the session beginning Jan. 3. The President is prepared to veto this measure, but it commands such strength that the house is certain to repass it over the veto, and confidence that the senate would not is waning. If the senate should sustain the veto, the bonus advocates are prepared to bring forward a compromise that would cost about 1 billion.

The silver bloc also is preparing to press for legislation involving enormous additional silver purchases by the treasury, if not the coining of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1.

Inflationists Are Busy.

The inflationists are polishing off all the old arguments that what the country is suffering from is low prices and too little money. According to the conservatively minded, currency inflation brought about by such means would be relatively ineffective in raising the general price level, if the public continued to place confidence in the dollar. In that case, the billions paid out in benefits to farmer debtors, silver spectators, and veterans would find their way back into the banks and thereafter cease to be a stimulus to buying.

But in the more probable event of the public's losing confidence in the currency, as a result of resort to the printing presses, the start toward inflation could quickly gather momentum and lead to catastrophic price advances. If a panic flight from the dollar ever began, the basis for a money and credit debauch of unexampled magnitude would be present in the excess reserves of the banks, the devaluation profits of the treasury, and even in our revalued gold holdings. The gold reserves, indeed, might be made an excuse for issuing a great volume of irredeemable paper ostensibly "secured."

Fear Involuntary Expansion.

Behind this immediate threat to dollar stability, say the conservatives, lies the ever-present danger of involuntary monetary inflation, if the government's spending program continues to produce a series of deficits. Effective inflation can only come through spending activities which are not offset by taxes. It is theoretically immaterial whether the deficit is covered by paper money issues, disbursed to pay a bonus to veterans, or represented by bank deposits created by borrowing and used to meet various government expenses. Practically, however, the former method is more apt to excite alarm and to damage the government's credit irrevocably.

On the other hand, the public may remain calm during a period of deficit financing, if flat issues are avoided and if there is reliable assurance that the spending program will be carefully controled.

It would be useless, however, to make the sacrifices necessary to bring the federal budget into balance, and thus block one of the main roads that lead to inflation, if congress should decide to cut loose and authorize new kinds of expenditures to be covered by printing promises to pay, according to the anti-inflationists. There can be no certainty regarding the future of our monetary system, and therefore no real recovery, so long as congress continues to hold a threat of fiat money over the country.

The President has indicated repeatedly that he is strongly opposed to inflation. But his program has entailed some inflation already and there is much uneasiness among business men regarding the extent he may be relied upon to head off the currency inflation movements in congress.

Other Compromise Recalled.

It is recalled that he set out to stop the inflation schemes of the silver bloc in the last session of congress, but he compromised in the end and finally signed the bill providing for the purchase by the treasury of what the orthodox and even some of the unorthodox economists regard a totally unnecessary amount of silver.

Incidentally the silverites contended that this legislation would increase our trade with China and other silver using countries. Our trade with them, however, has fallen off instead of increasing and our silver purchases have produced an economic crisis in China.

AUTO HITS WAGON, FREES MULES THAT KILL AN EDUCATOR

Greenville, S. C., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Howard Dykman, 38, assistant dean of the college of business administration at the University of Florida, died in a hospital here early today. His automobile struck a team of mules last night. The tongue of the wrecked wagon penetrated Dykman's windshield and struck his head.

Just before that crash, Glover Hart, Greenville county farmer, who was driving the mules, suffered a brain concussion when his wagon was struck by another automobile. The impact detached the two mules and the wagon tongue. The animals trotted along the highway until near a curve, where they were struck by the Dykman car.

POPE TO REVIEW EARTH'S JOYS AND SORROWS TODAY

Grieves Over Political Murders of Year.

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 23—(AP)—Deep sorrow for a world that to him has been eminently sorrowful during the last year, coupled with exalted gratification for a popular capacity to strain toward higher spiritual things, is likely to be expressed by Pope Pius tomorrow in his annual Christmas review of the religious affairs of the universe.

This review of events is pronounced by the pope on the afternoon of every Christmas eve. His audience is by rote, the cardinals of the curia, or that body of churchly princes who reside in Rome.

In it the pontiff speaks of his "joys and sorrows" of the last twelve months. His allocution will be preceded by an address from the dean of cardinals, Granito Pignatelli di Belmonte, who expresses the wish of the sacred college that the pontiff may enjoy another happy year, ending the equivalent of the English "Long Life."

Three Cardinals Die.

Despite the happy trend of the season's greetings tomorrow the pope is expected to dwell more upon his sorrows than his joys. He has the deaths of three of his best beloved cardinals to lament, they were Pietro Gasparri, Francis Ehrle, and Giuseppe Mori.

Then there have been the assassinations of the last year. The late Chancellor Dollfuss, who was known to be particularly beloved of the pontiff, may be specially mourned. There will be an expression of papal sorrow over the rampant violence which ended in the martyrdom of King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia and Minister Louis Barthou of France. The situation in Spain has been a recognized irritant among those wearing the crimson.

Prelates believe that he is certain to unbosom himself concerning the recent church-state developments in Mexico which culminated with the expulsion of an archbishop and the accusation of treason lodged against various other churchmen.

Pleased with the United States.

Another cause for grief may easily be found by his holiness in the unsettled political conditions of Europe. Last year he counseled his cardinals to bring the people back to prayer. He said that only in silent, sincere communion with the Lord, could the harassed peoples of the nations find their way out of the hopeless morass into which the modern world had been plunged.

Since then the political tension, in Europe, at least, cannot be said to have slackened. His holiness may take note of that fact with renewed exhortation and command to prayer.

Spiritual and economic recovery noted by his envoys throughout the world probably will form the keynotes of the pope's remarks concerning his joys.

In a long succession of quinquennial visits from American bishops his holiness has been assured that in the United States, at least, people have begun to seek the teachings of Christ as antidote to collapse of artificial and material standards. At the same time these bishops have reported that Americans have revised their conceptions of material solvency and are on the road up economically.

The pope's other great joy is the happy outcome of the International Eucharistic congress at Buenos Aires.

BELGIAN JUDGE ASKS FOR FINGER PRINTS; GETS TEN FINGERS

BRUGES, Belgium, Dec. 23.—(AP)—A carefully wrapped parcel containing eight human fingers and two thumbs, neatly packed and labeled, reached a surprised magistrate here today.

It had been sent in response to a request directed to a communal guard at Vlisseghen to send the finger prints of a person who had committed suicide by drowning.

The guard, being unfamiliar with modern identification methods, resorted to amputation for the necessary information.

BOLIVIA DRAFTS MORE MEN FOR CHACO WAR DUTY

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Dec. 23.—(AP)—The government today issued a general mobilization decree which includes the conscripts of the 1936 period and the reservists of 1911 and 1914.

The chancellory had not received the proposal of Pope Pius for a Christmas armistice in the Chaco, but high government circles expressed the opinion the proposal would be rejected by both Bolivia and Paraguay. The newspaper Ultima Hora said the "Generous suggestion of the Vatican is impractical at this time."

The ministry of war issued a communique stating that Paraguayan forces after eight days of preparation had launched a violent offensive in the Capirenda sector, and added that Bolivian forces after hours of fighting repelled the last of a series of attacks against Bolivian positions and the activity on this front had diminished considerably.

The communique also forecast that the results of the most recent fighting indicated Paraguay would be unable to advance, and refuted the Paraguayan claims of recent successes under their leader, Gen. Jose Estigarribia.

HUNT FOR PISTOL IN GRILL OWNER'S MYSTERY DEATH

The Chicago Lawn police last night were still questioning Mrs. Anna Ericksen, 38 years old, mother of six children, in connection with the mysterious slaying of her husband, George Ericksen, 46 years old, saloon owner, who was found shot to death on the walk beside his home at 6221 South Keating avenue, Saturday morning.

Mrs. Ericksen's son, George Jr., 17 years old, Edward Wilkins and John Bowman, both of 6113 South Kilpatrick avenue, acquaintances of the slain man, were also being questioned by the police. Efforts are being made to find a .32 caliber automatic pistol which disappeared from Ericksen's saloon, the Airport Grill, 6001 South Cicero avenue. This pistol is believed to have been the weapon which caused his death.

Mrs. Ericksen, who managed the grill during the day, admitted having quarreled with her husband frequently. According to the police he was jealous of aviators who patronized the place while she was there.

PLANS DECISIVE TESTS IN FIGHT ON DYSENTERY

Dr. Lloyd Arnold of the University of Illinois College of Medicine yesterday received 26 amebic dysentery blood specimens from Panama with which he hopes to prove the value of his new diagnosis for the disease and which is expected to be of value in combating the disease.

Dr. Arnold described the new test as a modified Wasserman examination of the blood. Heretofore, diagnosis of the dysentery has been made by direct intestinal tests. A skilled laboratory worker could perform no more than 25 such examinations daily at a cost of $3 each. The Arnold test, if successful, would cost but twenty cents and 200 could be conducted in a day.

Because dysentery is as common in the tropics as measles in northern latitudes, Dr. Arnold plans a trip to Panama late next month to explain his analysis to the medical society of the isthmus.

IERC Distributes Beds to Relief Shelters Here

Officials of the Illinois Emergency Relief administration began yesterday distributing beds to relief shelters throughout the city to replace army cots. The cots have been in use to care for the overflow which has occasioned a scarcity of beds throughout the city.

CAPITAL AWAITS JOHNSON'S BOOK ON NRA SERVICE

Some New Deal Leaders on Anxious Seat.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23.—[Special.]—The nation's capital, from the White House down, is waiting a little nervously for the publication of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson's forthcoming book, it was learned today.

The tempestuous general has promised to rip the lid off many a secret New Deal intrigue, much to the anxiety of many a New Dealer. That Johnson left the administration with bitterness in his heart toward Donald Richberg, Secretary of Labor Perkins, and others, and that his dealings with the White House itself were not always friendly is now common knowledge.

Richberg's letter, which became public today, warning the publishers of Johnson's book that they must accept responsibility for libelous statements, is only one evidence of the capital's jitters, inquiry discloses.

President Peacemaker.

President Roosevelt himself is said to have sought peace with Johnson and to have discussed his book with him during Johnson's secret luncheon at the White House two weeks ago. When Johnson returned to New York after that luncheon, word immediately went around that he was deleting certain sections of his book.

The President was responsible for provoking the volatile general's ire and disappointment on two occasions, each one involving an important point of recovery policy. The prospect of these two events being chronicled in Johnson's crackling style are reported to have brought no joy to the White House.

On both occasions Johnson had stalked from the White House so fuming mad that he had sought immediately to resign. Both times he was dissuaded. He has promised in private conversation to set forth the full details of these two disagreements for the first time in his book, and to say flatly why he believes the course which the White House chose to be wrong.

First Flare-up Early.

First flare-up between Johnson and the White House came before the NRA had been fairly launched. It was Johnson's plan, and he believed he had White House approval, to handle both the NRA and the public works programs himself, welding them together into one coherent drive for reëmployment.

One day he was summoned to the White House by the President, who, in the presence of several cabinet officers, told him that they had bad news for him. The public works program was to be taken away from him and given to Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes.

Seeing his recovery plan split asunder, Johnson stormed out of the conference room bent on resigning. Secretary of Labor Perkins, one of the cabinet members present, followed him out of the room, bundled him into her car, and drove him around the city for an hour while he cooled off and she convinced him that he should not disrupt the recovery program at its inception.

Second Disagreement Comes.

Ironically enough, Miss Perkins and Richberg, whom Johnson accuses of wanting a position on the Supreme court, were the cause of Johnson's second and final disagreement with the White House. When the President decided to reject Johnson's plan for reorganizing the NRA and adopted one drafted by Miss Perkins and Richberg, Johnson once more blew up, resigned, reconsidered at the President's insistence, but finally withdrew.

Johnson left the administration feeling, and intending to say so bluntly in his book, that Miss Perkins and Richberg forced him out. His resignation was preceded by a long campaign of sharpshooting which Miss Perkins conducted against him at White House conferences. Labor relations were their chief bone of contention. Secretary Perkins is understood to have resented the general's intrusion into labor situations such as the San Francisco general strike and the Chicago stockyards strike, when she already had arbitrators at work.

Incidentally, it is reported here that Johnson expects to realize $100,000 from his book. He is reported to have received the highest word rate ever paid by a magazine.

Seriously Wounded

STANLEY FRANKOWSKI.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Stanley Frankowski, 22 years old, 1936 Armitage avenue, student at the University of Michigan and formerly a member of the varsity football squad, was shot in the head and possibly fatally injured late last night in a quarrel outside the Roseland dance hall at 2023 Milwaukee avenue. His brother, Sigmund, 19 years old, was shot in the right arm. John Miraglia, 19 years old, 2015 Emerson street, the alleged gunman, was arrested.

Witnesses told the police that Stanley Frankowski and Miraglia came to blows inside the hall when they bumped each other, and that the former struck Miraglia. They were separated then, but met again outside and renewed their fight. West Park Policeman Andrew Socki, James Peterson, and Walter Trycha, who were passing, heard the shooting and seized Miraglia.

The brothers were taken to St. Mary's hospital. Policeman Stephen Frankowski of the Shakespeare avenue station, a brother of the wounded pair, said that Stanley, who is known at the University of Michigan as Wallace Frankowski, was captain and full back of the Carl Schurz High school football team in 1930. His chances to recover were regarded as slim.

OFFICIAL SLAIN FROM AMBUSH; WIFE WOUNDED

Bayfield, Wis., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Hector Lamont, 50, chairman of the Russell township board, was killed by an unidentified assailant about 1 a. m. today and his wife was critically wounded by a rifle shot when they were fired upon from ambush as they returned to their farm home near Radcliffe. A rifle bullet grazed their daughter, Margaret, 15, who was with them.

The Lamont family was returning from Bayfield to their home. As they entered their yard a rifle bullet hit Lamont, killing him instantly. Two more shots were fired, striking Mrs. Lamont in the head and body. Another shot grazed the daughter. Mrs. Lamont and Margaret crawled to nearby woods, then went to the basement of their home, the daughter carrying her wounded mother.

Fearing the assailant still was in the yard, Margaret waited several hours before notifying authorities. Her mother was taken to a hospital.

Authorities said the shooting was done from the chicken coop of the Lamont farm. A pair of overalls were found in the coop. Authorities late last night had not decided whether a coroner's inquest would be held.

Robbers Caught in Saloon Killing Admit 50 Holdups

Two youthful robbers captured late Saturday during a pistol battle in the saloon of Michael Kilmartin at 6601 South Halsted street, confessed at the detective bureau last night that they had committed more than fifty stickups in the past three months. They said there were three other youths in their gang. One man was killed and four wounded in the saloon.

The young men who confessed are Mario de Staffino, 19 years old, of the Coolidge hotel, 3950 Jackson boulevard, and Daniel Mara, 20, of 1844 West 13th street. Both were compelled to surrender by Policeman Thomas Lydon, who was wounded in the fray.

As a result of disclosures made by De Staffino and Mara to Lieut. Richard Barry and Sergt. Charles Moore, police squads arrested two girls, alleged companions of the robber band. The girls are Catherine Popenka, 21 years old, 2721 South Kostner avenue, and Wanda Satka, 20 years old, 2629 South Kildare avenue.

Seek Three Who Fled Saloon.

They were taken into custody when they called at the Coolidge hotel for De Staffino and Joseph Milleta, another of the gang. Milleta and the other two members of their gang, named as Joseph Orelli, 3835 Lexington street, and David Cunningham, 1023 South Wood street, are being sought. This trio fled from the Kilmartin saloon as Lydon caught the others.

Although the girls declared they knew nothing of the criminal acts of the youths, the police held them.

According to De Staffino, most of the band's robberies were in meat markets, fruit stores and taverns. They met no opposition, he asserted, until they ran into Policeman Lydon in Kilmartin's place Saturday.

Victims of Pistol Fire.

Lydon was a patron of the bar and when the men marched in and demanded that all present line up he drew his pistol and started shooting. The fire was returned. Benjamin Yoder, 67 years old, 5614 South Union avenue, was killed. Earl Hutton, 33, Yoder's son-in-law; Michael Boyle, 33, of 5354 South Peoria street, and James Griffin, 34, of 5517 South Union avenue, and Lydon were wounded.

At the Evangelical hospital it was said yesterday that the condition of the policeman, who was struck in the hip, was serious.

AAA FRUSTRATES ECONOMICAL USE OF FARM POWER

Engineers Advise Against Idle Machinery.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

America's agricultural adjustment plan not only entails leaving millions of acres of arable land untilled but it also enforces idleness upon horses, tractors, and stationary engines on the farms. The reduced use of "farm power" was inescapable in 1934, when the AAA removed 40,000,000 acres from cultivation. Next year's schedule envisions comparable cuts in land use, hence in requirements for animal and machinery power.

When farmers utilize fewer acres, farm engineers face new and puzzling problems in attempting on a large scale to guide agriculturists to more efficient use of their machines. Investment charges, depreciation, and other fixed costs pile up whether the farmer operates his implements a reasonable number of hours or allows them to sit and rust. Horses eat and grow older pulling a plow or lolling in a pasture. Accordingly, farmers computing the additional costs of operating under present conditions look upon the power problem as a tough knot.

The Engineering Viewpoint.

Experts peeking into stables and machinery sheds on farms find many idle horses and tractors. Even before the reduction program introduced new problems in farm power, engineers were urging farmers to work their horses and tractors to the fullest extent as a means of cutting down unit costs of production.

Harry G. Davis, director of research of the Farm Equipment institute, discussed farm power problems yesterday. He said that when work calls for more than three horse power, even though a stationary gasoline or electric motor can do the job more efficiently, a farmer usually finds it economical to use his tractor for the task rather than to double up on power equipment. For operating a small corn sheller, a water pump or any such apparatus that requires only a one to three horse power motor, Mr. Davis does not recommend the tractor.

Maximum Use of Equipment.

It is pointed out that since about half the cost of using a tractor is occasioned by the investment, the machine should be put to maximum use.

The farmer needs to find sufficient work for his tractor during the year to cut down the cost per hour. He must figure interest at about 3½ per cent and annual depreciation at approximately 10 per cent.

A survey in Iowa of 400 tractors on farms averaging 154 acres indicated that the average use was 465 hours a year, with about $115 fixed charges for depreciation and interest. The fixed charge, based on these data, is approximately 23 cents an hour. Engineers point out that if each of these Iowa tractors had been used 1,000 hours annually the fixed charges would have been around 11 cents per hour.

Frank J. Zinc of the Kansas State Agricultural college, Manhattan, Kas., gives figures on a silo filling job. He says that 1½ to 2½ gallons of fuel an hour will be consumed in operating a tractor running an ensilage cutter with a 6 to 15 ton capacity per hour. The cost of the fuel per ton of silage will be 2 to 4 cents.

The Tractor and Electricity.

Using an electric motor of 5 to 7½ horse power, a filler with a capacity of 5 to 8 tons per hour would require electric energy of ½ to 1 kilowat hour per ton of silage. At a fairly standard rate of 5 cents per kilowatt hour for the electricity, it would cost 2½ to 5 cents a ton to fill the silo with an electric motor, as compared with 2 to 4 cents a ton with a tractor furnishing the power.

The farmer using his power units most efficiently must plan carefully his labor operation in the field and in the barnyard, keeping the tractor busy as much as possible, and stretching out the power jobs over the year.

The Farm Equipment Institute reports the experience of a group of Illinois farmers with tractors and horses, singling out the costs of an individual farmer.

A Typical Case Study.

Among the farmers whose operations were studied was C. P. Mills of Homer, Ill. In 1931 he had on his farm of 336.79 acres 28478 acres in crops and handled his work with four horses and a tractor. He did most of his work with the tractor and found only 1,352 hours of work for his horses, or an average of 338 hours per horse per head. His cost were 22.3 cents per horse per hour. The cost on 19 other farms in the survey was 10.9 cents per hour per horse, the 19 farmers using their horses on the average of 711 hours in a year.

In 1932 Mr. Mills increased his crop acreage, disposed of two horses and kept the tractor and one team. He found 2,270 hours of work for the horses, or 1,135 hours for each horse during the year, and used his tractor wherever it was possible. By increasing the use of his horses his costs came down from 22.3 cents to 3.8 cents per hour per horse. The other 19 farmers cut their costs to 6.2 cents per horse per hour.

How to Effect Savings.

By increasing the use of his tractor from 674 hours in 1931 to 971 hours in 1932, Mr. Mills cut his costs from 45 cents to 34.2 cents per hour, while the other 19 farmers cut their tractor costs from 48 to 38.3 cents per hour.

Engineers emphasize the fact that each farm presents an individual problem in power and management. It is their opinion that the farm machinery industry must develop more machinery that fits the individual labor problems on farms of various sizes.

Where the crop was harvested the yield per acre is indicated in the fields numbered 1 to 27. Where more than one crop was grown in a single field they are indicated by first and second.

News of The Tribune Experimental Farm By Frank Ridgway

A Long Hard Year.

December 23, 1934.

TODAY Clarence Thurow, manager, and his coworkers, at THE TRIBUNE'S Experimental farm, began making preparations to close up the books and business generally for 1934, the driest and most discouraging year any of the men have ever experienced. It is the end of the first year in operating the farm for experimental purposes in which an attempt was made to introduce to farmers in this part of the corn belt new and more profitable crops and practices in breeding and feeding live stock.

As Thurow and his associates tore off the sheets of the old 1934 calendar they were reminded of the hard work and long hours in the face of pest attacks, scorching winds and rainless days that left many of the fields with dusty barren surfaces. In many fields they planted a second crop after the first had failed and then reaped small harvests for their extra work.

Clarence and Louis Thurow do not like to discuss the low yields on most of this year's crops. Although the men at the farm could not prevent the crop failures that occurred here and there over the farm, they are just proud enough of their past records to hang their heads low when asked to give the yields on this or that crop grown in 1934.

The 1934 figures of crops grown at the farm near Yorkville, Ill., are not given by Mr. Thurow to boast of yields—although the showing is satisfactory considering the conditions under which the crops were grown—but rather to help readers follow the activities of THE TRIBUNE'S Experimental farm. The results of the harvest on this farm are similar to that of other farms in the dry areas of the corn belt and indicate the discouragement that comes to farmers who are almost helpless when drouth and pests overtake them.

A summary of the final figures of crops produced at THE TRIBUNE'S farm this year show that on 325 acres planted to corn there were harvested only 511 tons of silage, 225 tons of fodder and 440 bushels of ear corn. The soybean crop of 151 acres produced only 108 tons of hay; 107 acres of alfalfa, 60 tons of hay; 200 acres of oats, 1,034 bushels plus a small amount of grazing for steers; 26 acres of flax, 648 pounds of uncleaned seed; 6 acres of buckwheat, 90 bushels; 115 acres of clover, furnished only a fair amount of grazing for steers and no hay, and the 13 acres of barley was killed by chinch bugs. The woodland pastures, mixed timothy and clover, and mixed timothy, clover and alfalfa fields were all used for pasture, producing skimpy grazing most of the time throughout the summer.

The map of THE TRIBUNE Experimental farm, appearing in this issue, gives more details concerning the crops—where they were grown, yields per acre and the use made of the fields not harvested. It also indicates where attempts were made to grow more than one crop. The area covered is 1,320 acres with 1,275 acres devoted to field crops and pastures.

44 Congressmen Still Engage 'Clerks' with Own Surnames

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23.—(AP)—There's been a lot of talk and dispute about relatives on the pay roll, but apparently it hasn't bothered some congressmen.

At any rate, 44 clerks with the same names as the representatives for whom they work drew checks the last pay day.

Five thousand dollars a year, with a 5 per cent pay cut slashing it to $4,750, is the amount a congressman is allowed for clerks. He can hire two, and split his allowance any way he chooses so long as one of them gets no more than $3,900 yearly.

Here are the 44 house members and the persons of the same names they have as clerks, together with the amount of the latter's monthly salary for November:

ROPER REPORTS DEFINITE GAINS IN U. S. BUSINESS

Unemployment, Relief on Darker Side.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23.—[Special.]—The past fiscal year saw definite improvement in the business and financial state of the nation, Secretary Roper informed the President today in his annual report as head of the department of commerce.

"Of special significance," wrote Secretary Roper, "is the gain of approximately 24 per cent in industrial production, of 26 per cent in factory employment, and of 43 per cent in factory pay rolls.

Finding that July of 1933 marked the culmination of a four month increase in production without parallel in the history of the nation," Secretary Roper pointed to a falling off in the succeeding months and another rise starting in November, 1933, and continuing for six months until the adjusted index for those six months stood at 86 per cent of the 1923-1925 monthly average. The index fell 3 points in June, 1934.

Capital Goods Trade Depressed.

"While evidences of the progress made are concrete and numerous, the fiscal year closed with the capital goods industry still greatly depressed, private construction very low, unemployment large and relief demands making a steady and severe drain on the national budget," the report read.

Furthermore, the report pointed to the fact that the volume of bank loans outstanding remained at a "very low level" despite what the report termed a "plethora" of available bank credit.

Although total deposits of banks during the year covered by the report increased sharply, the volume of outstanding loans reported by banks in 91 cities decreased from the previous year by 438 million dollars, or 5 per cent, the report said. Investments by banks, on the other hand, increased 1 billion 510 million dollars with all but $99,000,000 of this increase being accounted for by increased holdings of government securities.

The report found that unemployment had been reduced but was still a major problem. Purchasing power in the farm areas made great increases, according to the report, which attributed the increase to higher prices on farm commodities and to the benefit payment of the Agricultural Adjustment administration.

Rail Trafic Expands.

Railroad trafic was higher, although the financial position of the carriers was still difficult, railroads earning 2.09 per cent on their investment for the year.

A "considerable" expansion of foreign trade was noted by the report, with exports increasing 18 per cent in quantity and 42 per cent in value, and with import gains of 20 and 47 per cent.

Outstanding in world trade developments of the year, according to the report, was "the almost universal effort, largely through the medium of reciprocal trade agreements, to arrest and reduce the hitherto steadily tightening restrictions on the flow of international commerce."

The tarif bargaining after the passage of the trade reciprocity act last June was the United States' share in this movement, the report said.

PARKS CUT COSTS BY 1½ MILLION IN BUDGET FOR 1935

Board Plans to Expand Use of Facilities.

The 1935 budget of the Chicago park district, embracing the broadest recreational program ever offered by the parks and providing for the improvement of the Oak street beach, will total $8,231,481, or $1,489,841 less than the 1933 operating cost of the 22 park units superseded by the consolidated district last spring, Robert J. Dunham, president of the park district, announced yesterday. The budgetary reduction exceeds 15 per cent.

While the $8,231,481 corporate fund appropriation is tentative, it is likely to be unchanged in park board deliberations, Mr. Dunham said. A public hearng on the budget will be held at 10 a. m. Saturday, and it is scheduled for passage on Dec. 31.

The debt service portion of the budget, fixed by past obligations of park units taken over by the district, totals $12,289,531. The board hopes, Mr. Dunham said, that a park refinancing program to be brought before the legislature for approval, will make possible in 1935 the abatement of $3,000,000 of this amount.

Plan to Use All Facilities.

"The tentative budget contemplates the operation of the recreational division of the parks with a full staf and on a larger scale than was done under the 22 park units," Mr. Dunham announced. "We believe that in depression times, with the incident unemployment, public welfare demands the operation and utilization of the park recreation facilities to the maximum of park resources.

"Upon assuming office May 1, the Chicago park district commissioners found many field houses, gymnasiums, swimming pools, and athletic fields in the superseded districts denied to public use because of lack of funds. We propose to end that situation."

The budget will include a sum of $20,000 for the materials necessary to construct comfort stations at the Oak street beach, Mr. Dunham said. These stations are to be constructed in three pedestrian tunnels which the state highway department will build under Michigan avenue at Oak street, Division street, and North avenue.

The Refinancing Proposal.

The refinancing program which the park board hopes to effect would spread the $100,000,000 existing bonded debt of the superseded park districts over a 20 year period, equalizing the tax burden, and preventing possibility of default.

The proposal is similar to the West park refinancing system. It contemplates the issuance of sinking fund bonds for which payment would be secured by a tax levy at least double the interest rate on the total debt, estimated at $4,500,000 annually. Thus a 50 per cent collection would assure the payment of interest, and any additional collection could be applied to retirement of principal.

"The 1935 corporate fund figure was reached after reducing the estimates of heads of departments approximately $850,000," Mr. Dunham said. "The estimates committee has been able to arrive at this figure only on the assumption of a continuation of the major part of common labor being supplied by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission."

The Tentative Itemization.

Mr. Dunham listed the tentative park budget items as follows:

Administrative department—
Office of commissioners	$ 31,000
Secretarial	147,310
Auditing	35,520
Treasury	132,160
Total	$ 345,990
Law department	$ 79,480
Personnel and civil service department	143,342
Operating department—
Office of general superintendent	22,440
Office of district supervisors	28,980
Engineering	2,591,521
Recreation	1,494,230
Landscape	1,420,838
Special service	398,720
Purchasing	81,240
Police	1,624,700
Total	$7,662,669
GRAND TOTAL	$8,231,481

The debt service budget was listed as follows:

Bonds	$ 5,411,000.00
Interest	2,917,883.75
Sinking fund	227,276.93
1932 tax collection deficiency	2,406,352.87
Interest on defaulted bonds	209,787.81
Loss and cost in collection of taxes in 1935	1,117,230.12
Total bond and interest levy	$12,289,531.48

The Chicago park district 1935 tax levy for corporate purposes will be $7,197,718, Mr. Dunham said. The difference between this amount and the $8,231,481 budget is made up by receipts from park licenses and fees.

Over 25 Million Depending on U.S. for Support or Help

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23.—(AP)—The closing days of 1934 find more than 25,500,000 persons—one out of every five in the nation—looking to the federal government for all, or a substantial portion of their support.

These range from the President downward through the army of officials and employés to the millions who depend upon the Federal Emergency Relief administration.

A survey today of federal office holders and employés disclosed that those receiving salaries and other payments from the government — aside from processing taxes — total well over 6,500,000.

The federal relief administration estimates that the average family of four has only one wage earner.

Many Employed Indirectly.

In addition, the Public Works administration estimated that 400,000 were employed directly, and a total of 2,000,000 indirectly on Public Works administration projects. This organization has spent around $3,500,000 in an effort to crank the business motor.

Routine employés, including the White House, congress, the departments and miscellaneous commissions, and some of the numerous independent agencies created by the present administration, number 680,181.

As for the rest—some 19,000,000 are on federal relief, including 750,000 single persons and 4,500,000 families. Public Works administration construction projects employ 406,283, the Civilian Conservation corps 333,708.

AAA Has 6,683 Employés.

Employed in emergency recovery agencies are: Agriculture Adjustment administration, 6,683; Farm Credit administration, 6,846; Public Works administration, 4,999; Emergency Relief administration, 485; Home Loan Bank board, 171; Housing administration, 1,195; Home Owners Loan corporation, 20,538; National Recovery administration, 3,933; Tennessee Valley authority, 12,360.

Those drawing pay [mostly as employés of private contractors] from the Public Works administration include 241,376 of federal projects, such as the Grand Coulee dam on the Columbia river; 144,800 on non-federal; 19,965 on relief highway construction; 142 in the housing division.

As for the "regular" branches of government, including however such new agencies as the National Labor Relations board, employés numbered 622,771. Military forces were over 210,000. Congress, which votes all the money, accounted for less than 2,000, including members and clerical force, 1,905 for the house and 805 for the senate.

STATE CHARGES PLAN TO SWAY LINDBERGH JURY

more, a confidence man and Salvatore Spitale and Irving Bitz. Spitale and Bitz were named as intermediaries by Col. Lindbergh during the period when he was trying to ransom his baby son from the kidnapers.

A high official of the state, however, declared that he had information that the defense was planning to call several underworld characters in an effort to prove that Isadore Fish, from whom Hauptmann says he obtained the ransom money tried to sell it to certain outlaws before he sailed for Germany Fish died abroad before Hauptmann's arrest.

CHICAGO LAWYER IS AUTHOR.

The booklet distributed among the prospective jurors in the Lindbergh kidnaping case is believed to be that written two years ago by Mrs. Mary Belle Spencer, Chicago lawyer. The title of the book is "Number 2310, Criminal File Exposed, Aviator's Baby Never Kidnaped or Murdered." It refers to the Lindbergh case only by inference.

It was described yesterday by its author as a "satire on ineffectual law enforcement in this country."

Mrs. Spencer declared that if the book is being distributed to the New Jersey venire that she has no knowledge of that. She said that there are 26,000 copies in circulation and that any agency may be distributing them.

JAPS ORDERED TO DISCUSS BRITISH NAVAL PROPOSAL

LONDON, Dec. 23.—(AP)—The Japanese naval delegation received instructions from Tokio today to discuss with the British possibilities for a future compromise on the basis of British suggestions for a new naval limitations treaty.

The British suggestions recognized only equality in principle for Japan, but there was no indication whatever that Japan was surrendering her original demands for actual tonnage equality. It was stated in official quarters that the renewed contact does not mean reopening the naval conversations, but that informal discussions between the two delegations, British and Japanese, will be held for several weeks.

Naval and diplomatic circles regarded the move as an effort of the Japanese to bring about future conversations or a conference in the spring.

NEW DEAL LEADERS SET RECORD IN USE OF TIME ON RADIO

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23.—[Special.]—Led by President Roosevelt, the New Dealers are making a greater use of the radio as a means of spreading their propaganda among the people than any other administration on record, a survey by a national broadcasting chain revealed today.

President Roosevelt himself made 23 radio speeches during 1934, an average of almost two a month. This was five more than he made during 1933, the hectic opening year of his term.

Mrs. Roosevelt, the most radio minded first lady in history, spoke 28 times this year, bringing her total for two years up to 45. Mrs. Hoover, during the entire time she was in the White House, spoke only 10 times, and Mrs. Coolidge made even fewer radio appearances.

Other New Dealers, such as cabinet members, little cabinet members, and heads of alphabetical agencies, took to the air on 133 occasions to argue their doctrines to the people. Cabinet members had a total of 78 broadcasts. Postmaster General James A. Farley, political generalissimo for the Democrats, had 22 broadcasts for the good of the New Deal and his party.

Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes spoke over the radio 11 times, as did Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

Little cabinet members made 34 radio appearances, while among the special administrators, Gen. Hugh S. Johnson as NRA chief spoke 11 times and AAA Administrator Chester Davis spoke 10 times.

CUMMINGS SEES U.S. EVENTUALLY IN WORLD COURT

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23.—[Special.]—Conviction that the United States sooner or later will "fall into step with sixty other nations" and join the world court is expressed by Attorney General Cummings in the foreword of a pamphlet published today by the American Bar association.

The pamphlet contains the texts of eighty-eight resolutions of bar associations urging American adherence to the court and is edited by Prof. Manley O'Hudson of the Harvard law school.

"Proposals for the support of the world court by the government of the United States," the attorney general wrote, "have been before the American people for some twelve years. Throughout this period they have been received with enthusiasm, wherever and whenever associations of members of the bar have had occasion to give expressions to theor opinions."

REALTY TAX BILLS CUT $61,000,000 BY ADJUSTMENTS

Collections for 1928 to 1932 Are Affected.

Property owners of Cook county have been the beneficiaries of tax reductions on real estate amounting to 61 million dollars on 1928, 1929, 1930, 1931, and 1932 bills through revisions exclusive of current tax rate reductions, it was disclosed yesterday by County Collector Robert M. Sweitzer. The report is based on a survey made by the chief county auditor, George F. Hagenauer.

All of the reductions result from corrections of assessment errors, from the 15 per cent reduction orders of the board of appeals on small improvements against 1931 and 1932 bills, and from the reduction of 10 per cent in the 1932 rates ruled illegal by County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki.

Many of the errors in assessments of the five years were corrected voluntarily by former Assessor J. L. Jacobs, many by the appeals board, and many following hearings in the county court.

Bales of Error Certificates.

As evidence of the tremendous number of adjusted tax bills, Auditor Hagenauer yesterday displayed the bales of certificates of error piling up in his vaults. He estimated that already at least 700,000 county court writs authorized separate corrections have been accumulated, with thousands arriving daily. The 1932 reduction order of 15 per cent on homes and dwellings was, he pointed out, fortunately on one document covering 435,000 parcels of property.

The greatest single benefit to the taxpayers came in the extensions of 1930 bills—a year in which real estate taxes reached a peak of $221,452,089. That high total was one of the chief inspirations of the general tax strike which resulted in the record number of 300,000 tax objections filed in the county court. In the last year and a half practically all of these protested property assessments have been corrected or adjusted, and an aggregate of $22,140,000 has been cut off from the original extension.

Higher Collection Ratio.

As a result of the various revisions, Mr. Hagenauer pointed out, the collection percentage of real estate taxes is considerably higher than is shown on the books. His survey places the 1928 collections at 95 per cent, those for 1929 at 85.70 per cent, 1930 at 86.54 per cent, 1931 at 83 per cent, and 1932 at 75 per cent. The percentages are greater because of the lessened original tax extensions. The exact corrected extensions will not be known until the books are balanced in 1939, he said, since many of the delinquent tax bills are being paid on an instalment plan, the final payment of which is due in that year.

Mr. Hagenauer prepared the following table, as the result of his analysis, showing the number of items adjusted and the sums of taxes reduced exclusive of the current tax rate changes:

Tax Year.	Items.	Total Reductions.
1928	50,000	$4,213,000
1929	150,000	5,060,000
1930	300,000	22,140,000
1931	100,000	12,600,000
1932	1,100,000	16,869,360
Total		$60,882,360

The total of items changed against the original 1932 bills includes the blanket 15 per cent cut order on 435,000 items by the board of appeals and the recent order of Judge Jarecki which affected every one of the 1,100,000 parcels of realty in the county. The order held that 10 per cent of the rate applied against the 1932 assessments was illegal.

The order of the board of appeals to reduce small home and dwellings assessments 15 per cent for 1931 affected only the 100,000 persons who filed legal objections. Legislation to rebate the cut on the other 335,000 items is expected to be introduced in the legislature when it convenes in January.

TWO DIE IN AIR CRASH; WRECK OF MAIL SHIP FOUND

Kingsford-Smith on Way After Plane Fire.

BULLETIN.

Ventura, Cal., Dec. 24 [Monday].—(AP)—Reports that an airplane crashed and burned in the Piru mountain region south of Camulos, near here, early today sent searchers to the rim of a deep gorge. Searchers hurried to the region, but were unable to climb down the steep incline. They pitched camp to await daybreak. The party, made up of Ventura county deputy sheriffs, said they were guided to the ravine by smoke curling upward and that when they got nearer they could see flames.

THREE DIE IN WRECK

Delaware, O., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Two fast trains of the New York Central crashed two and one-half miles northeast of here early today, killing three members of the locomotive crews and injuring fourteen employés and passengers.

Wrecking crews, working with cutting torches, succeeded in freeing the body of one of the dead men, Engineer F. E. Springer, 42, of Cleveland, from the overturned locomotive of the midnight express more than ten hours after the crash, which occurred at 4:30 a. m. The other train was the eastern mail.

Delayed two hours by the crush of holiday travel and baggage, the midnight was running with two locomotives. Springer's fireman, J. J. O'Malley, 38, of Cleveland, and the engineer of the first locomotive, James B. Newman, 55, of Cleveland, were the other two killed. H. B. Barrett, of Galion, O., fireman for Newman, escaped with burns of the hands by grabbing the hot pipes of the engine and swinging clear.

All the others injured were Kentucky and Ohio residents.

SEEK FOUR MORE IN ROUNDUP OF HIJACKER GANG

Lieut. James Kerr, head of the cartage detail of the detective bureau, said yesterday he sought four more men to complete the roundup of a gang that has been hijacking truckloads of merchandise for the last six months. One is a prominent commission merchant who has been in trouble before, he said. Of the others, one is the man who rented the garage of Howard Carlson, 15137 South Western avenue, where a quantity of stolen lard was found Saturday.

The lieutenant said he would not be ready to present evidence in court today against six prisoners arrested Friday and Saturday. The latest to be arrested was Charles Kohlmann, owner of a butcher shop at 1014 West 63d street, where a quantity of stolen lard was found by police.

The arrest of Kohlmann followed the seizure of Joseph Barone and Dominick Barone, son of Joseph, last week in connection with a load of stolen butter recovered by Lieut. Fred Mulhausen of the county highway police.

3 Robbers in Stolen Car Commit 4 Quick Holdups

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 19; recovered, 12; stripped, 1 [from police records for 24 hours ending at midnight Saturday].

Three men, riding in an automobile identified as stolen, committed four robberies in a short time last night. The first victim was Philip Heller, 4419 North Lawndale avenue, who was forced to give up his watch and $6 at 4655 North Lawndale avenue. Edward Stone, 5438 North Christiana avenue, was robbed of his watch and $45 at Balmoral and Kimball avenues. William Padden, 5731 Christiana avenue, was robbed of $25 near his home, and Hal Craiger, 5018 North Avers avenue, gave up $17 in front of 4922 North Springfield avenue.

LAW EDUCATORS PLAN SURVEY OF THE MODERN BAR

Convention Will Open Here Thursday.

A proposal for a national survey of the American bar will be made at the meeting of the Association of American Law Schools, convening at the Stevens hotel Thursday for a three day session.

The survey, it is hoped, will disclose the functions of the lawyer under modern conditions and show how well he is performing them in an increasingly legal age. The question of conducting such a legal census will be considered first on Thursday afternoon in a symposium meeting on "Bar Surveys." Dean Charles E. Clark of the Yale law school will make the formal proposal as chairman of the association's committee on coöperation with the bench and bar.

Scope of Inquiry.

Dean Clark's proposal, according to the announcement yesterday, contemplates three lines of investigation: [1] a study of the legal profession itself; [2] a study of the demand for legal services by the public, and [3] a study of legal education and preparation for the bar.

Statistics would be gathered under the first heading, showing numbers admitted to the bar, those actually practicing, and the number in each division—criminal, corporation, financial, trust, governmental, and other types of service. They would also show the number employed by other lawyers, corporations, and in governmental work.

The second part of the survey, according to plans, should reveal the type of legal services now in demand and the manner in which the profession is meeting, or may be adapted to meet, this demand.

Data on Preparation.

The final branch of the proposal would seek answers to questions concerning legal education and preparation for the bar. The principal source of information for the survey would be the lawyer himself, his views being supplemented by records of bar examiners, law schools, and courts.

Association spokesmen disclosed their hope to finance the survey through educational foundations and the federal Emergency Relief administration.

TEACHERS OF JOURNALISM TO MEET THIS WEEK

Conventions of the American Association of Schools and Departments of Journalism and the American Association of Teachers of Journalism will be held at the Medinah club Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

At the Thursday session reports of officers will be made, and at a symposium on "The Press and the New Deal," Ernest K. Lindley, Washington correspondent; Carl Haessler of Federated Press, and Vernon Bundy of the division of information, AAA, will speak. The night session will consider "Radio Press Relationships," "Freedom of Propaganda," and "Surveys of Graduates in Journalism."

Friday's meetings will bring round table discussion on the Newspaper Guild, advertising and business management, and the press and public opinion. Clarence Darrow will be the principal speaker at the night banquet.

On Saturday there will be a symposium on "The Foreign Press" with the speakers including George Scharschug, cable editor of THE TRIBUNE, and Carroll Binder of the Chicago Daily News. Election of officers for the coming year will conclude the conventions.

SERBS RELEASE CROAT IDOL IN JAIL 18 MONTHS

ZAGREB, Jugo-Slavia, Dec. 23.—(AP)—After serving eighteen months of a three year sentence for defying the rule of the late King Alexander, Dr. Vladko Matchek, idol of five million Croats, was liberated today.

The Croat leader gained his freedom at the express wish of Prince Paul, chief regent, and Premier Bogoljub Yevtitch.

The veteran Croat leader, who recently has been in the prison hospital because of failing health, seemed dazed as he emerged into the brilliant sunshine. Crowds of sympathizers immediately recognized him and hindered him as he was taken home for a Christmas reunion with his family.

HELD AS KENTUCKY SLAYER.

Pikeville, Ky., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Arthur Blankenship, 31, of Freeburn, Ky., was brought to jail here today charged with the fatal shooting of Basil Dyer, 40, at a dispensary in Freeburn last night.

Illinoisian Since 1848

Freeman Woodman, civil war veteran, will celebrate his 97th birthday today at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Edith Bliss, 1427 South 14th avenue, Maywood. He was born in Plymouth, N. H., and in 1848 moved with his family to a farm near Elburn, west of Geneva. Mr. Woodman served in the civil war with the 52d Illinois infantry as a color bearer and has a diary which he has kept for 73 years, including the war period. He lives with a son, M. J. Woodman, at 1123 Noyes street, Evanston.

NATIONAL GUARD WINS PRAISE OF GENERAL LEACH

High Morale Stressed in Report.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23.—[Special.]—The intelligence, loyalty and high morale of the National Guard were stressed by Maj. Gen. George E. Leach, chief of the National Guard bureau of the war department, in his report to Secretary Dern today for the fiscal year ended June 30.

"The continued progress of the National Guard reported in the 1933 annual report of this bureau," Gen. Leach said, "has been maintained during 1934. Adverse conditions have been successfully met in a way that reflects credit on the ability and loyalty of the guard and proves its stability; or have been offset by new assets such as improved facilities and material made available by the recovery program of the administration.

"This progress not only supplies the states and the nation with a dependable force for use in crises but likewise, because of the educational value of the training, is a constant asset in time of peace.

Gain Useful Knowledge.

"The citizen soldiers gain useful practical knowledge of hygiene, first aid, of technical subjects, administrative methods, and the like. They learn useful habits: Respect for duly constituted authority, courtesy, orderliness, thoroughness, precision, self-control, and self-respect.

"In short, the National Guard is a great school of good citizenship, which continually pours into the blood stream of the body politic wholesome corpuscles which help to purge it from dangerous infections.

"Because of the harmonious relations which exist between the state military authorities and the National Guard bureau and the whole-hearted and loyal support given the policies which have helped to bring the National Guard to its present state of efficiency, these policies will be continued.

"Further progress may confidently be expected, because, while the National Guard has a legitimate pride in its achievements, it is also aware of its defects and is concerned in remedying them."

Additional Funds Needed.

General Leach, however, reported that there was need for additional funds, especially to permit regular army instructors to make visits to armories and field training camps and to conduct inspections.

Citing reports from corps area commanders, the report said that "apart from the effect on instruction, the lack of funds was reflected mainly in deficiencies in or inadequate care of clothing and equipment, particularly motor equipment."

"Recommendations that more ammunition be furnished, more target ranges be constructed and 48 drills be authorized were made in some corps areas," it added. "Two corps areas stressed the need for requiring staf officers to complete appropriate correspondence courses. One corps area recommended that less paper work be required of unit commanders, and one urged the organization of headquarters and other special units now lacking."

COAL DRIVERS PICK SUCCESSOR TO LEFTY LYNCH

Tom Cronin was chosen president of the Coal Drivers, Helpers and Handlers union, No. 704, at an election held yesterday. A general election of officers was held to replace James (Lefty) Lynch, ousted from office by the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and Chauffers, with which the local union is affiliated. The election was supervised by Leslie C. Goudie, president of the teamsters' joint council, who has been a special receiver for the union's affairs since the dismissal of Lynch by the parent body on Dec. 9. At that time Goudie announced that Lynch was charged with holding rump meetings at which special assessments were voted, and that he had not properly accounted for organization funds.

STALLED CAR HIT BY ANOTHER; BOY KILLED, 2 INJURED

Victim Crushed Between Two Machines.

Ice coated pavements at 79th street and Archer avenue, Willow Springs, were blamed for an unusual automobile collision early yesterday which cost the life of a 13 year old boy and injured two men. Benjamin Domino, of Willow Springs, was the victim.

With his step-father, Joseph Zylvitis, who lives nearby, and some passing motorists, the Domino boy was attempting to help Louis French, 28 years old, 5358 South Damen avenue, get his car out of a ditch where he had skidded.

Hit by Second Car.

Failing to see the group in time to stop, Ben F. Waldron, 24 years old, 7936 Paxton avenue, drove another car into the rear of the French machine. The boy was crushed and French and Waldron were injured, the former seriously.

The Domino boy's death and three others brought the toll of automobile fatalities in Cook county for 1934 to 1,219. The others were:

Unidentified woman, about 45 years old, fatally injured when she was struck at 63d street and University avenue by an automobile driven by James Saunders, 5805 South Trumbull avenue. She died soon afterward in the Woodlawn hospital.

Raymond Graczyk, 26 years old, 4440 South Rockwell street, died yesterday in the South Town hospital of injuries incurred Dec. 16 in a head-on automobile collision at Western avenue and 44th street. Ignacius Zimecki, 53 years old, 3011 West 54th place, driver of the other car, was uninjured, but his wife, Rose, was cut and bruised.

An unidentified woman, about 65 years old, died yesterday in the county hospital from injuries incurred when she was struck by an automobile Dec. 13 while crossing Washington boulevard at Lincoln street against the trafic lights. Steve Prinz, 24 years old, 4520 Maypole avenue, driver of the car, was not held.

Five persons were injured, three of them seriously, in two accidents involving automobiles and trains in Maywood early yesterday.

Saved from Flaming Car.

William Gleason, 54 years old, 171 North Des Plaines avenue, Maywood, and Kenneth Bullard, 46 years old, 220 North 2nd avenue, Maywood, employés of the forest preserve district, were rescued by Chief of Police Richard Bailey when their car struck the locomotive of a Baltimore and Ohio freight train and burst into flames. The accident happened at the 1st avenue crossing of the Chicago and Great Western railway.

In the second accident L. P. Gotham, 31 years old, 325 24th avenue, Bellwood, drove his automobile through a safety gate at 17th avenue and struck a Chicago, Aurora, and Elgin electric train. A man and a woman, passengers, were slightly injured. Gotham was taken to the County hospital.

TREASURE HUNT KILLER'S MOTIVE, POLICE BELIEVE

New York, Dec. 23.—(AP)—The eerie house of mystery where Miss Victoria Muspratt lived alone and died alone—by a killer's bludgeon—was searched today for the secret of her death.

Bank books showing deposits of $2,341 were found. The police believe that the slayer sought hidden treasure. The house is the three story mansion whose leaky mansard roof rises behind a row of scraggly lilac bushes, about twenty-five feet back from Brooklyn's shore road.

Where Miss Victoria read her old Bible there was running water for her to drink; only an open wood fire in her bleak back parlor for heat and the cooking of her meager meals—and not one bed. She slept by a window in an easy chair.

Every room of the house of death was crammed with curios; seventy-five year old magazines, yellow newspapers, creaky furniture, a wheezy organ or two; even a letter once carried by pony express.

An autopsy today showed that Miss Victoria died of a double skull fracture, inflicted, physicians said, by a club.

CAROL LETS SON PAY CHRISTMAS VISIT TO MOTHER

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Crown Prince Michael, whose most fervent Christmas wish today was that Santa Claus grant him a visit with his mother, Princess Helen, will have his wish fulfilled.

The young prince will leave on Christmas day for Florence, Italy, where his mother lives sadly and alone. King Carol, actuated by the prevailing Christmas spirit and good cheer, and eager to show his former wife that, although he continues his friendship with Mme. Magda Lupescu, he has not forgotten her, granted the child's request.

Michael will spend a whole month with his mother. Before his departure, however, he and twenty of his schoolmates will help King Carol and Mme. Lupascu celebrate Christmas in the fir-treed Sinial forest. Carol will welcome the New Year with all foreign diplomats in Rumania, including Col. Alvin M. Owsley, American minister, by giving a lavish royal banquet in Bucharest.

Woman Friend of the Late Dr. Ritter Quits Galapagos

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Dec. 23.—(AP)—The American explorer, G. Allan Hancock, arrived here today on the yacht Valerio III bringing with him Frau Dora Koerwin whose companion in the Galapagos Islands, Dr. Friedrich Ritter, died of apoplexy. She is en route to Europe. She asserted she would discard the name of her husband, Koerwin, from whom she has been separated for many years, and substitute the name of Ritter in remembrance of the companionship of Charles Island.

U. S. CITES FIVE CANDY CONCERNS ON CODE CHARGES

Assert Prize Package Ruling Violated.

The fight among candy manufacturers over "prize package" confections was echoed yesterday when five concerns in Chicago and vicinity were cited by the federal trade commission for code violations. The code outlawed this practice on the ground that it constitutes a lottery and is an unfair trade practice.

Three Chicago concerns were named in complaints. They were: A. McLean & Son, 350 West Ontario street; M. J. Holloway & Co., 308 West Ontario street, and the Dante Candy company, 517 North Halsted street. The other firms were the Bonita Candy company, Fond du Lac, Wis., and the Meadow Breek Candy company, Moline, Ill.

Charge Court Ruling Violated.

According to the formal complaints filed by the trade commission, each company violated the candy manufacturers' code and a ruling of the United States Supreme court by distributing to wholesale and retail dealers, packages or assortments of candy so packed and assembled to involve the use of a game of chance when distributed to customers.

Many of the customers were school children, it was alleged.

Sale in Schools Charged.

According to testimony, candy containing lottery devices were sold in several school cafeterias and in stores near schools with the apparent approval of teachers.

The five cases are expected to be brought to trial in Chicago by the commission during January. "Prize package" candy was outlawed by the NRA last July.

GLORIA DELIGHTS IN PRE-HOLIDAY VISIT TO MOTHER

Then Takes Whitney Auto for Her Home.

New York, Dec. 23.—[Special.]—Ten year old Gloria Vanderbilt ended today her first week-end stay with her mother, Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, under the legal dispensation growing out of the suit over her custody. Then the child took a limousine for the home of her paternal aunt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney.

The Sunday activities were brightened by the early morning arrival on the Europa of Gloria's cousin, the Hon. William Anthony Furness, 5, with his mother, Lady Thelma Furness, twin sister of Mrs. Vanderbilt. The children thoroughly enjoyed themselves at a midtown motion picture theater in the afternoon. "The Night Before Christmas," an animated cartoon, fascinated them.

Faces Line of Cameras.

The morning had not been particularly pleasant for Gloria. The old phalanx of photographers had reformed in front of 49 East Seventy-second street shortly after dawn, and it had to be faced, despite the shielding efforts of stern jawed private detectives. The ride to the Church of St. Francis of Assisi, for 10 o'clock mass, developed into a race with the photographers' cars.

After luncheon, with Lady Furness and William Anthony, Gloria and her mother were driven to the show in the Rolls-Royce. The Vanderbilts stayed for the entire performance; the others left earlier. Meanwhile, Mrs. Vanderbilt said she would allow cameramen to face Gloria unhurried by guardians when they got home.

Still More Cameras.

It was nearly dark when the big car again rolled up to the plain brownstone house with the red ribboned wreaths in the windows. Gloria's mother hurried to the door. The detectives followed. Then Gloria and her nurse, unshielded, walked slowly across the sidewalk. A score of flashes showed the child's face unsmiling in the gloom. A half-dozen ruddy youngsters from the other side of Park avenue frisked about the doorway.

The limousine waited, and within a little while, Gloria came out again, to return to her aunt, for about forty hours. The law says she may come back for Christmas, even if it isn't a week-end.

MURDER CHARGED AFTER 3 YEARS.

Glasgow, Mont., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Nearly three years after her husband's death from gunshot wounds, Mrs. Pauline Stephens was arrested late yesterday on a charge that she murdered him.

TWO FRIENDS ARGUE ABOUT LION, THEN CALL IN A SURGEON

New York, Dec. 23.—[Special.]—Arthur Taylor, a Jersey City truckman, hauled a lion to Manhattan and saw him engaged in a museum in a Sixth avenue museum without incident. Then he returned to Jersey and told Joe Seibert, a friend, of his accomplishment. The friend scoffed. Taylor brought the friend to Manhattan to show him the lion.

Mr. Taylor walked right up to the cage, looked the lion in the eye, and just to put Mr. Seibert in his place, stock his right arm in. The lion made a swift pass and Mr. Taylor's sleeve caught fast in a claw. Mr. Taylor roared, the lion roared, and the "L" roared in obligato.

Mr. Seibert swung his friend around in a frenzied effort to get him loose. The lion couldn't resist the target. Finally Mr. Seibert and Mr. Taylor staggered out of the museum and went to a hospital for a bit of attention from the surgeons.

"The Newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and lead public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."—Chicago Tribune.

FROM INSULL TO ICKES.

The government, as every one knows, intends to spend hundreds of millions of dollars on hydro-electric generators and has already spent tens of millions on these projects. The private power companies contend that the government's activities in their field are unconstitutional. The other day the spokesman for the power industry requested the President to expedite a test case through the courts. The administration has replied with heat. The request of the industry is characterized as impudent and the companies are accused of gouging the public and of failing to correct financial malpractices and abuses. Specialists in utility baiting are being summoned to Washington.

In this atmosphere of ill will and recrimination the facts on which must be based any intelligent judgment of the merits of the controversy are being lost to sight.

The great utility empires were born thirty or forty years ago when several observant men became aware of the fact that the Parsons steam turbine was a marvelously efficient engine. These observant men also saw the possibilities of generating electricity cheaply from falling water. They calculated that they could make power so cheaply at the best water power sites and from the Parsons engine that few consumers of power could any longer afford to maintain private plants, equipped, as they were in those days, with the relatively inefficient Corliss steam engines and Otto gas engines. The pioneers of the utility business saw that they would have to spend large sums in building transmission lines and in meeting the other costs of distribution, but the economies of central station generation were so great that these additional costs could be absorbed readily.

Primarily, it was the difference in engine efficiency which made profits for the utility companies. Sometimes the profits were very large. Samuel Insull's early success can be attributed directly to the fact that he was among the pioneers referred to; his later collapse can be attributed in large part to the circumstance that he kept on expanding after expansion had ceased to produce further economies in operation.

In the years between his rise and fall a good many things had happened. One of them was that all the best water powers had been developed. Those remaining unharnessed were either remote from the consuming centers, necessitating unduly heavy transmission losses and costs; or the flow of water was highly irregular; or the fixed charges based on construction costs were inordinately high.

At the same time the improvements in the Parsons turbine, while continuous, were offering no such startling and dramatic a reduction in costs as was experienced when this type of engine was first installed. The dramatic advances in efficiency are now being made in the smaller engines, suitable for individual factories. Small turbines are being installed to advantage in factories where heat is needed for continuous industrial processes, for there the heat can be used once in generating electricity and again in the factory. Likewise great improvements have been made in the Diesel motor. At the same time, farmers are learning to use the motors of their tractors and even of their automobiles to supply the stationary power needs of the farm.

All of these developments promise stern competition for the utility companies with their enormous investment in central power stations and their costly distribution systems. It is just at the moment when the tide is definitly turning against the big power plant that the government has started building big power plants. Mr. Ickes now wears Mr. Insull's mantle and is dominated by the same boundless and egotistical faith in the profits to be obtained from building more huge power generators.

If the utility companies with their well located generating stations are in for trouble because of the growing competition of private power plants, the government's second rate hydro-electric stations are doomed to failure before a wheel turns. They are not even good in their class and their class is becoming outmoded. Even with the fraudulent bookkeeping system which charges a heavy share of the costs to imaginary navigation, the government's projects will not pay out. Failure is written all over them.

Inevitably the government will have to sell its power below cost. That will mean, first, that the taxpayers will shoulder the deficits; and, second, that the men and women who invested their savings in utilities will lose some or all of their money because the utility companies will have to meet the government's rates. The sale of power below cost may be of some benefit to future industrial promoters fortunate enough to take advantage of it, but whatever advantages they gain will be at the expense of taxpayers and investors.

A REPLY TO JAPAN.

For comment upon the Japanese denunciation of the naval treaty Washington developed a character better known in Japan and in what used to be known as the chancelleries of Europe than in the United States—"the high official spokesman." The masking of the identity, along with the import of the statement, would imply that a person of high authority chose to remain without name for the occasion.

The statement emphasized the desirability of unprovocative comment. The fact was underlined that every time a responsible person in one country raises his voice and takes a high tone some one in the other country is tempted to say something to top it. Thus the seeming of provocation and bellicosity increases until public temper begins to rise and international exasperations increase.

The abrogation of the treaty and the failure to agree upon a new one need not be serious to peace in the Pacific. The Washington treaty may have served some good purpose. That will be doubtful, because the alternative cannot be perceived, but whatever purpose it served it has now become more of a disturbance than a sedative. It is leading away from the objectives it was intended to serve. Agreements may be all very well until one of the powers wishes to break them. Then they become oil on fire rather than oil on troubled waters.

Although the American spokesman would have his name and position to remain hidden, his words were very useful and suggest that still more could be done. In reply to the message in which Japan through her ambassador announces the abrogation there is an opportunity for Secretary Hull or even President Roosevelt to express formally to Japan the complete satisfaction of the United States and the recognition in this country of the motives and reasons which impel the Japanese government to take this step. Japan should be assured in words which will make an impression upon the popular mind that the United States regards the denunciation of the treaty as entirely proper, as it is, and as in no way implying the slightest impairment of friendly relations between the two countries, a relationship which the United States proposes to continue.

SENATOR NYE'S THIRD DEGREE.

Senator Nye's committee investigators can find and produce the 1917 income tax returns for use in the munitions investigation. These returns were of profits made before the United States entered the war. The returns for 1918-'19 are not available. They would show how the excess profit tax was applied to the earnings of the persons and corporations under investigation after America had gone to war. These returns are not available because they happen to have been destroyed in the bureau of internal revenue. This curiosity in the production of evidence is worth observin .

Bernard Baruch, one of the men suffering from the innuendo subtly conveyed by Mr. Nye's investigators, says that the returns the investigators cannot find are on file in duplicate in his office and may be had. The committee to date, so far as is known, has not asked for them. The du Ponts also protested during the hearing that Mr. Nye and his investigators were avoiding any entry of record which would show the excess profit levies upon the income of the company.

These committee tactics are not unusual, although they reveal certain curiosities of senatorial inquisition. The purpose is to erect a monument of accusing evidence, unrelieved by any explanatory facts. Mr. Nye's invstigators do not investigate. They indict and prosecute. As senators they become ex parte agents of a system of prosecution, unrestricted by any laws of evidence and free to develop only such evidence as they think will damn the person at the bar. It is the third degree they apply to any citizens into whose affairs they have obtained authority to delve. It is unjust, dishonorable, and disgusting.

ARE CALIFORNIANS CRAZY?

Dr. Paul Poponoe, secretary of the Human Betterment Foundation, speaking to a gathering of California school teachers, said that 600,000 residents of the state, in addition to persons already in custody, were or soon would be mentally infirm, requiring state care.

California is a state of many contrasts, most of them delightful. The sea sweeps up to the mountains and the mountains run down to the sea. A movie camera on wheels does not have to go far from the Bedouin on his native sands to the Swiss on his crags. An arroyo sec is sometimes that and sometimes Niagara. The northern and southern cultures are widely different, the latter preferring in its higher ranges the Attic character with Homeric song and animated friezes from the Parthenon, whereas the former likes the sterner phases of the old sour dough.

Climate is a cult and it has infinite varieties, all producing exhilarations. Nothing else could produce Hiram Johnson, Dr. Townsend, and Upton Sinclair simultaneously and with them Boulder dam, the Golden Gate bridge, and the blue prints of Utopia. Some Californians are feeble-minded like a fox and others like Peter Rabbit. Still others are merely Hollywood or Epicacians.

Many Californians worship the federal treasury and others the Rose Bowl. Their exuberances might be mistaken for insanity, but enthusiasm should not be confused with looniness. When California is found conceding that an All-American team can be picked anywhere except on the coast, that there is rain when it is not wanted and no rain when it is, that it has had more than its share of federal handouts and that the fleet should be anywhere except in a California harbor, then put the Californians down as crazy. Then they will be.

ENGLAND LOVES ITS SPORT.

[The Kansas City Star.]

The London Daily Mail, which has a special affection for the military caste in England, prints the following report of a statement by Col. Sir Lancelot Rolleston, D. S. O., a "well known Nottinghamshire fox hunter and a former master of hounds":

> If foxes, like women, had a vote, I think they would vote unanimously for the keeping up of fox hunting. . . . . I have known a fox that was absolutely devoted to fox hunting. . . . After we had hunted him for many seasons I regret to say we killed him.

Obviously the brave colonel shares the humanity of another English sportsman who recently was held up by the London Evening Standard as a model of "courage and savoir faire in the jungle." According to this paper Brig. Gen. Claude Champion de Crespigny [also D. S. O.] on one occasion when he found a lion asleep, "instead of taking a mean advantage of the animal, kicked it awake from behind before shooting it dead from in front." It is to be hoped that the lion appreciated the sport of the thing as much as the fox.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

TAKING NO CHANCES.

Otis was telling me about a discussion he heard when he was a member of a colored CCC camp. After supper one of the workers told how wonderful science was. "Why, science is jest a working mi-rack-els these days. Look at all the machines that jest do about every thing but think. And they'll have 'em thinkin' pretty soon. And now them science fellers say they can make a man alive agin after he's dead, yessir, clean dead. An' they offer to prove it if some penitentiary warden will turn over to 'em any man that's been electrocuted in the hot chair. Yessir, they guarantee they'll bring that man to life again. What do you know about that?"

A warm debate followed, pro and con, but finally an appeal was made to Sam, the camp philosopher, who had been sitting quietly over in the corner listening intently but saying nothing.

"Sam," said Otis, "what do you think of this? Do you think science can make a man live again after he's dead?"

"I hain't sayin' yes or no," said Sam, "but what I've heerd tonight has made me make up my mind on one point, anyhow!"

"What's that, Sam?" somebody asked him.

"Well," says Sam, "I've decided that if I ever kill a man, I'm going to take his hide and head away with me!"

A MERRY CHRISTMAS.

A star shone over Bethlehem
In that long vanished year,
And angels caroled songs of joy
For all the world to hear.

But oh, the star has grown so dim
It's hard to find tonight;
For commerce paints the Christmas sky
With flashing brilliant light.

And commerce clashes lustily,
Its clamor grown so strong
It quite drowns out an angel voice—
So faint an angel song!

At Christmas time we think of gifts,
And celebrate till morn;
But on that first glad Christmas Day
A little child was born.

Oh, we have traveled long and far,
Since wise men saw that Christmas Star!

MARJORIE F. W.

"SHE WAS KICKED Out of Bed While on Honeymoon."—Headline. Naturally the lady is suing for divorce. Hardly any lady relishes being kicked out of bed during her honeymoon. After three or four years of course it would be different; one doesn't expect romance to endure forever. But such an incident on a honeymoon is a trifle too abrupt. Being kicked out of bed is something one has to get accustomed to by degrees.

AND NOW THE SHOCK TROOPS are coming into action. It's the very last shopping day before Christmas. But it won't do me any good. I haven't bought my Christmas presents yet, and I'd like to get 'em, but, gosh, I'm afraid. Three women got off the bus I was on in the loop yesterday and made a terrific rush for a department store. And I'll bet every one of 'em weighed over two hundred pounds apiece. There ought to be a law that during the last two days of Christmas shopping no buyers should be admitted to the stores that weigh over a hundred and fifty pounds. I don't mind being trampled on by people who only weigh that much. But if they weigh over two hundred I'm liable to get all mussed up.

THE MOTHER.

Young Mary heard hosannas too,
The singing of the hosts on high,
But little did it mean to her
Whose ear had caught a tiny cry.

She turned at Joseph's word to see
The great white star that lit the skies
And wondered; but soon leaned again,
Lost in two newly opening eyes.

ADELAIDE LOVE.

AND IT'S THE last chance to send a nice new R. H. L. 1934 Linebook for a Christmas card or a Christmas present. Not that the Linebook is restricted to Christmas. It's just as good reading on New Year's Day, George Washington's Birthday, the Fourth of July, or any other time. The only thing is that they're mostly all sold come Christmas eve and if you don't get hold of one by that time or don't receive it as a Christmas present, then, dearly beloved, your chances of getting one at all are indeed slender. Get your Tender Buttons Linebook today.

OZARK WOMAN TO A WOODCHOPPER.

Lie down that hatchet, man!
Let that pine be!
I ain't going to have no use
For no Christmas tree!
Milly's up and married,
Joe's gone off to school,
And my old man's rode to town
On the gray plow mule.
Reckon it's old I'm gitting . . .
Might as well be . . .
When a body's got no use
For no Christmas tree. . . .

ROSA ZAGNONI MARINONI.

NO! NO! NO! DO NOT OPEN your Christmas present tonight! It's against all the rules of the game. You can't even peek. You can only shake it close to your ear. If it makes a low gurgling noise you can put it back on the Christmas tree with a glad, sweet smile. But if it doesn't gurgle, oh, gosh! bedroom slippers or another bathrobe!

How to Keep Well By Dr. Irving S. Cutter

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Cutter will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual disease.

EYELID DISEASE.

CONJUNCTIVITIS is an inflammation of the conjunctiva, which is the membrane covering the eyeball and lining the lids. It is usually of a highly infectious nature, but may also be caused by chemicals or irritating substances to which the person is sensitive.

Acute conjunctivitis, commonly known as pink eye, is a contagious disease due to several types of bacteria. In this country the common cause is the pneumococcus, the same general type of organism which is responsible for most cases of pneumonia. Pink eye may be associated with an acute cold. It may be spread from one person to another chiefly by the use of common towels or bed linen.

The symptoms are redness of the eyes accompanied by a secretion which sticks the lids together in the morning. The acute symptoms last from five days to a week and usually abate without permanent damage to the eye.

The disappearance of symptoms may be hastened by the use of various antiseptics in the eye. In a few cases, after the acute symptoms subside, a chronic form of conjunctivitis remains which is more difficult to cure but which does respond to proper treatment in a period of a few weeks.

There is a common form of chronic conjunctivitis which is due to another microörganism. This is the bacillus of Morax-Axenfeld and is not so generally known. This infection may cause very slight symptoms of itching and burning of the lids, with reddening of the outer and inner angles and sometimes the appearance of fissures in the skin. There is usually a small amount of secretion which is present in the morning, but which may not be noticeable during the day. The irritation may often remain unnoticed, although the symptoms cause the patient to seek relief through a change of glasses. Nevertheless, the symptoms persist until the character of the inflammation is recognized and proper treatment instituted. The diagnosis is easily made by a simple bacteriological examination of the secretion, and the treatment by the use of zinc solutions is simple and effective. In a few cases small ulcers of the cornea form, and occasionally more severe ulcers develop, which bring about scarring and damage to vision. These may be treated successfully, however, when the disease is properly recognized.

There are other forms of conjunctivitis which are much more serious in their effects on the eye than those just described. The most dangerous of these is conjunctivitis of the newborn or ophthalmia neonatorum. This is due to the gonococcus and is transmitted to the eyes of the baby during its passage through the birth canal. It is one of the most important causes of blindness, since it often affects the cornea, resulting in complete clouding of that delicate structure.

It may be prevented in practically all cases by the instillation of a 1 per cent solution of silver nitrate in the eyes of babies immediately after birth. This treatment, which is almost positive in preventing the disease, has been made compulsory by the laws of several of the states and should never be neglected by physicians and midwives.

If preventive treatment has not been employed the infection begins with a puslike discharge from one or both eyes, followed by intense swelling of the lids. When this occurs bacterial examination should be made and if the gonococcus is discovered the baby must be put in the hospital at once for intensive treatment. In babies early treatment is usually successful in preventing serious damage to the cornea. The disease may be contracted by older persons through various sources of infection and in such cases runs a much more severe course than in newborn babies who have acquired a certain immunity to the disease from their mothers. In adults the eye may be lost in spite of all treatment, although many cases recover when proper treatment is begun early.

GANGRENE.

J. R. G. writes: Can gangrene be cured or will it be helped to the extent that one who has had it for six months would be able to walk?

REPLY.

Gangrene is caused by a blocking of blood vessels in some part of the body, usually the hands or feet. If the circulation is completely cut off, and if new blood channels are not formed, the tissues die and slough away or require amputation. If amputation of a portion of the foot is required, walking is possible with some handicap if too large a part of the foot is not removed.

CONTEMPLATING SUICIDE.

T. F. C. writes: What is the medical term for one who is always contemplating suicide?

REPLY.

I know of no special term. Such people are usually described as having a suicidal tendency. This sometimes occurs in persistent melancholia and the various types of mental depression.

PROBATE OF ESTATE.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My wife died leaving $1,200 in the postal savings and $36 in another bank. I went to the postal savings station with the undertaker's and doctor's bills to have them paid out of the account, but was told it had to go through Probate court. 1. Was that the only way this could be settled? I engaged attorneys and had all heirs sign all their rights over to me [the husband]. I was appointed administrator. The attorneys sent me a bill of $147.05 which I paid out of the estate; $47.65 was for a bond and court expense and $100 for attorneys on account. 2. Are they charging me too much? 3. How much more can they charge me before it is all settled?

C. W.

1. No, in the sense that it is possible for a party holding assets to pay them over without probate and take the chances on having possible trouble with future creditors. The postal savings officials were acting within their rights in insisting on probate.
2. We see no reason to consider the charge exorbitant on the facts that are before us.
3. If you have no agreement with them, they can charge what is reasonable, considering the nature and extent of their services. This might vary within wide limits.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

PROBATE PROCEEDINGS.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. How soon after the death of the person making it must a will be probated? 2. Where there are two executors named in the will, are both required to be present when the will is probated? 3. Can you give the approximate charge for probating a will disposing of a small equity in an unsettled estate in Illinois? J. L. H.

1. Depends on the facts. In some cases it is possible to dispense with probate entirely.
2. Not necessarily.
3. The attorney's fee would be likely to be the largest item and we are not in a position to estimate this. The statute provides that the administrator's fee, out of which the attorney's fee shall be paid, shall not exceed 6 per cent of the personal property.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—More money was spent on home making in Great Britain during the last financial year than ever before. It gave work to nearly 3,000,000 persons. Building societies lent $515,960,000. This is the first time that Britain has spent more than $500,000,000 on house building in one year. It is more than one-seventh of the national income. More than $400,000,000 of this sum, according to experts in the building industry, went into wages and labor. It was divided among almost all industries in the country.

The National Building Industries council has traced the distribution of money spent in house building. This investigation shows that for every $500 spent in housing $200 goes to direct labor. It is divided among bricklayers, carpenters, masons, slaters, and tilers. Nearly $250 is spent on materials. This makes work in the subsidiary industries—iron and steel smelting, electrical, and hand tool industries. The remaining $50 is spent on overhead costs.

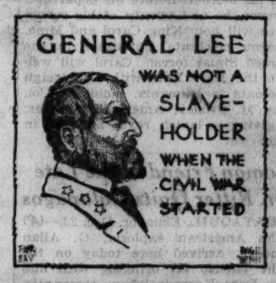
This, on a national scale, shows how much Britain's prosperity has come to depend on the ambition of every man to have his own home. More than 266,000 houses were built in 1933-'34. Nearly 208,000 of these were built without state aid. More than 1,158,000 bricklayers, carpenters, plasterers, slaters, and tilers had continual work. They were supported by 400,000 electricians, painters, and plumbers.

Nearly 200,000 persons in the glass, copper, zinc, tin, lead, and woodwork industries are working to make these materials. The railways and roads got nearly $10,000,000 for transporting the materials. House building gave employment last year to 350,000 in the iron and steel smelting and electrical industries.

Nearly 10,000 men were kept busy making screws and wire. Another army of men and women was at work manufacturing the things that turn a house into a home. The cutlery, furniture, and carpet industries last year employed nearly 400,000 men and women.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Futbay, Ph. D.



When the civil war started in the United States, Gen. Lee, the confederate leader, was not a slaveholder. According to his biographers he was at heart an abolitionist and had freed all of his own slaves some time before this. Nevertheless, some people will continue to say that Gen. Lee fought to maintain slavery.

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

A CHRISTMAS NEARLY RUINED.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—If this should meet the eyes of the young woman who went out of her way today to turn suspicion on a certain gentleman who was carrying his wife's overcoat in the street, I should like her to know that her officiousness caused the gentleman the humiliation of being questioned by the police before passersby as though he were a thief. If the two officers who interviewed him had not been reasonable and courteous, the incident might have led to serious inconvenience.

His wife was shopping in an overheated store and had removed her coat; when her husband saw her carrying it he was gentleman enough to relieve her of it; having an errand in a nearby street he left her for a few minutes with the above result.

I could excuse such officiousness if she had seen one taking up a coat in a suspicious manner from where it seemed to belong, but not otherwise. It might interest this young person to know that he is a Christian minister. The incident might easily have led to his being detained for the night behind bars and been the cause of untold anxiety and misery to the writer. HIS WIFE.

YOU MAY.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—May I grab this jocund season by the forelock and wish a little good will to the most intelligent, the kindliest and most helpful group of women in the public service, to whom we are indebted for personal and cultural courtesies beyond number: The staf of the Chicago Public library.

SEUMAS ROACH.

NO, WE LIKE IT.

Chicago, Dec. 16.—Father Coughlin has his organization. There are thousands of societies, learned and unlearned. There ought to be another. I wish you would put your influence behind the proposal I now make to call all brave men and true to support the Society to Prevent the Perpetration of Holy Night on the Radio. Last year, from Dec. 15 to Dec. 25, I listened to "Holy Night" 1,037 times. The torture is beginning again. Can't you get that organization under way? M. B. G.

A RAFFLE.

Chicago, Dec. 19.—This morning, upon fil. g some papers in the Municipal court clerk's office, a clerk [name unknown] extended his hand in which he had a small notebook containing several written names and addresses and said, "Put your name and address here and give me ten cents. This is for a turkey raffle."

When I refused this particular clerk said, "I'll give you change for a half dollar. You're not going to turn me down for ten cents, are you?"

At least prior to this time politicians were accustomed to having cards of some kind printed, so that the sucker might at least have something to show for his contribution. DISGUSTED ATTORNEY.

AUTOMOBILE LICENSES.

Chicago, Dec. 18.—Your editorial on securing 1935 motor plates early is fine for the tax eaters, but 500,000 or more automobile owners of Illinois would appreciate an editorial on repeal of the unjust state and city automobile license tax. That would meet the approval of everybody but the tax eaters.

TAX TAXED.

ANOTHER MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE.

Chicago, Dec. 17.—And in your travels, while looking for Goliath Gump, see if you can find out what happened to Trixie Warbucks, or did Harold Grey drown her in midocean?

A WONDERING FAMILY.

THE SUSPECT.

Monona, Ia., Dec. 19.—"Just Curious" isn't the only one who has been wondering what has become of the Gump kid. The neighbors are all stirred up about it and suspect foul play of some kind and say it is time the G. A.'s were on the job before the trail gets too cold in case of kidnaping and murder.

Personally I think Tilda might have done it. I wouldn't put it past her. She certainly looks to me like she might have a record. I just bet she did it and hid the body in the ash pile so she wouldn't have to wash for it. But at that I'd say it was a case of mercy murder if there ever was one.

Suspicion also points to a man named Smith, though the corpus delicti has not been established. The motive is clear enough. That child was a misfit and should never have been born. Andy and Min should study this new book called "Rhythm" or something.

SUGGESTIONS FOR GOVERNMENT BULLETINS.

Rockford, Ill., Dec. 18.—With the scads of government educational bulletins being printed and franked out, why not include further exhaustive dissertations covering the following newly created problems in our more abundant life:

How to sell real estate under present conditions.

When is a tavern not a saloon?

How to collect rent from tenants having no income.

How to drive a car while intoxicated.

When and how small banks can pay a dividend.

How to balance a budget by increasing expenditures. C. L. CLARK.

THE FARLETIZED CIVIL SERVICE.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—In January, 1930, I took a civil service examination for postoffice clerk, was appointed July, 1930, along with 300 others, and passed the physical examination. I was employed fairly regularly until January, 1932, and off and on until January, 1934.

Upon hearing the postoffice had put on clerks in the summer of this year I went to the postmaster's office to find out why I was not called and was told that because the civil service list was canceled I had no right to appointment.

I later learned through a friend in the postoffice that the persons at present working on these jobs received their appointments through the recommendation of Democratic precinct captains.

CIVIL SERVICE.

LOSSES IN RENT.

Chicago, Dec. 18.—It seems to me we small property owners, who, as a whole, have lost many thousands of dollars' rent through the Emergency Relief agency's trick of putting tenants into our houses, paying one month's rent and no more, ought to band together into an organization and sue the government for the rent we lost just as we would any one else. I'm ready to join such an organization any time. E. L. B.

OUR SECRET AMBITION

APACHES BATTLE IN PARIS; CHILD SHOT TO DEATH

Two Gangsters Wounded in Montmartre.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 23.—French newspaper readers, who a few years ago shuddered in vicarious horror slightly tinged with complacency over romantic descriptions of American gangland, were confronted today with a bloody gang war of their own.

The victims of the massacre were a 5 year old child who died this morning, two critically wounded underworld characters, and an innocent bystander who was hit in the leg by a stray bullet.

Corsican Is Arrested.

A Corsican apache, who is presumed to be one of the killers, was captured by police on the spot. Another gunman escaped, and witnesses, true to gangland tradition, have nothing to say.

There were two shootings. The first occurred at 11:30 o'clock last night at the famous Place Pigalle, center of Montmartre night life, already filled with a holiday throng of merrymakers.

At the bar of the Café du Rat Mort —Dead Rat—once a famous night club but now a cheap saloon, a man, woman and child were standing. The man, Angelina Fonta, a white slaver with curiously domestic instincts, leaned down to admire the Santa Claus doll he had bought for the 5 year old son of his mistress.

Gangster and Child Fall.

At this moment the door of the café opened and an automatic held low, blazed five times. Fonta and the child fell with bullets in their abdomens, while a nearby drinker grabbed his thigh, which was hit by one of the bullets.

Police patroling by twos according to the French custom, heard the shots and saw a man run out of the saloon They chased him several blocks and cornered him in a doorway. The suspect, another Corsican by the name of Jean Stefani, produced a loaded automatic to prove his innocence, but a clip with five empties was found a few feet away. Consequently the police believe they have nabbed the murderer.

Less than an hour afterwards a second fusillade was heard in another Montmartre bar a few blocks away. The killer gunman had fired two shots from a doorway into the back of a man sitting at the bar. The wounded man was Entienne Stefani, brother of the man arrested in the first shooting.

Police Have Trouble.

Last night's affair is the culmination of a long series of shootings in the streets and bars of Montmartre. The police seem powerless to prevent the gangsters who infest this part of the city from settling their differences in public. In the old days, the Apache predecessors of the present day gangsters got rid of their rivals with a knife thrust in the back, or waited for them in some dark alley with a garrotte—strangler's cord. Now that they are spraying the streets with pistols, the public is getting alarmed.

All the recent killings have been among the white slavers belonging to rival gangs, and the police trace the war to an attempt of a new gang to muscle in on the territory of the older ones.

FRANCE TO YIELD JEWISH REFUGEE ON NAZI DEMAND

AIX-EN-PROVENCE, France, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Extradition of Frederic Rotter, wanted by the Nazi government in Germany on a charge of fraudulent bankruptcy, was recommended today by a local court which rejected his plea that he was a political refugee.

FREDERIC ROTTER.

The case now goes to the minister of justice, who is expected to follow the court's recommendation.

Rotter, a Jew, before the advent of the government of Adolf Hitler was head of a chain of theaters in Germany. In the "theater of German artists," maintained by Rotter and his brother, Alfred, modernist playwrights saw staged some of their most successful works.

The Rotters were prominent among the supporters of President von Hindenburg when he was fighting National Socialism. Their business collapsed on the eve of the Nazi triumph and with Hitler's rise they sought refuge in the principality of Lichtenstein.

In Lichtenstein, Alfred and his wife perished in an attempt to kidnap them. Although badly wounded Frederic escaped and made his way to France.

The Nazi government denies there are any political motives behind the effort to get Rotter back to Germany. His counsel, however, at a preliminary hearing, said there was no basis for the fraud charge. He held that the law under which Rotter is accused was abrogated in 1914.

CHICAGO COURT WILL DECIDE ON ONE SAAR VOTE

With Judge Matthew D. Hartigan of the Felony court this morning rests the decision whether or not John Dietz, 41 years old, 1943 Eddy street, will be allowed to return to the Saar territory and vote in the Jan. 13 plebiscite. Until yesterday Dietz was certain he would join the 120 Chicagoans, former residents of the Saar, who are to depart tomorrow morning for the return trip to the fatherland.

But Eric Steinig, 1807 Eddy street, Dietz's partner in a farm produce store at 1653 Grace street, caused his arrest yesterday by the Damen avenue police on a confidence game warant. Both partners were placed under $1,000 peace bonds a month ago when arrested for disorderly conduct during a quarrel.

The warant arose over the disputed ownership of an automobile.

ITALIANS GUARD AGAINST CLASH WITH ETHIOPIA

Both Sides Stocking Up Munitions.

ROME, Dec. 23.—(AP)—The spectre of bad feeling and possible conflict stalked today along the unwritten frontiers between Ethiopia and the Italian colonies of Somaliland and Eritrea.

Down near the equator the colonial governments are watching anxiously, and preparing. Munitions constantly arrive from Italy. Little forts rise along the unmapped frontier.

And in Ethiopia, too, preparations are said to be in the making. A Belgian military mission has been in Addis Ababa for several years, welding the feudal forces of the Ethiopian chieftains into a national army. There is a tradition of stubborn independence, of great warriors, descendants of King Solomon. The only sovereign African state, it has 10,000,000 inhabitants.

Wonder What Next.

Political observers thought the moment had come in the second half of November when an Ethiopian attack was made on the Italian consulate at Gondar. Observers again thought the moment had come in the first part of December with the battle of Ualual. One hundred and fifty soldiers on each side were killed.

Emperor Haile Selassie took the matter to the League of Nations whose council probably will consider it in January. Now Italian colonial authorities are wondering what will be the next incident.

Some colonial circles here believe Haile Selassie intends to attack Eritrea, on the Red sea. The emperor, it is said, wants an outlet to the sea. Eritrea is strategically easier for him to attack than Somaliland, on the Indian ocean. But Eritrea is more heavily armed than Somaliland, better prepared.

Ualual Attack Sham?

They profess to believe, therefore, that the attack on the little fort at Ualual was intended as a diversion, to turn Italy's watchfulness from Eritrea to Somaliland.

Correspondents tell that Emperor Haile Selassie wanted to fly from his capital to meet and talk with King Victor Emmanuel when the Italian monarch was visiting Somaliland near the Ethiopian border. He chose a trimotor plane in the royal aerial stables. However, he could not find a pilot to fly it, and had to remain at home.

Motorization of Somaliland and Eritrea is proceeding apace. So is roadbuilding. It is reported that both colonies shortly are to be placed under one administration.

Asserts Italians Advance.

PARIS, Dec. 23.—Advices to Agence Radio from Addis Ababa, Abyssinia, declare that despite official Italian denials troops from Italian Somaliland are systematically advancing into Abyssinian territory, and that Italian airplanes bombed several strategic points. The same message says that the Italian engineering corps is engaged in the construction of a road between Ualual and Geriogubi, the latter place being an Abyssinian permanent military post.

Mark 100th Anniversary of Statue of Liberty Sculptor

COLMAR, France, Dec. 23.—(AP)—The 100th anniversary of the birth of Frederick Auguste Bartholdi, sculptor of the Statue of Liberty, was celebrated today in this Alsatian city of which he was a native. City and military authorities held a reception, while admirers of the artists visited various monuments in the city. Bartholdi died in 1904.

FALLS TO HIS DEATH.

DYING CHILD ENJOYS CHRISTMAS THRILLS ADVANCED FOR HER

Muskegon, Mich., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Five year old Donna Mavis Shaw, who knew all of the sorrow and some of the joys of the fictional "Tiny Tim," died tonight amid the tinsel and holly of "the Christmas yet to come."

Suffering from a malignant growth which her physician knew would not permit her to live until next Tuesday, Donna died tonight while her parents arranged her gifts around the gaily decorated tree which they hoped, against hope, Donna would be able to enjoy Christmas morning.

Donna found it a bit hard to understand—all this hustling and festivity days before she knew Santa Claus was scheduled to arrive—but her parents explained gently that it was a special effort on Santa's part because she was a good little sick girl.

So eager was she to try out her new automobile that she had actually climbed out of bed unassisted some days ago and made for the machine. Her father, J. Warner Shaw, a truck driver, placed her in the toy and pushed her around the room for a moment and Donna's joy knew no bounds. But Donna's improvement was only temporary. Yesterday she had suffered a relapse and tonight death put an end to her suffering.

Accounts of Donna's illness aroused the sympathies of thousands of persons and many paused in their own holiday preparations to send gifts and greetings to the child.

FREEDOM FIRST FOR PHILIPPINES, AGUINALDO PLEA

MANILA, P. I., Dec. 23.—(AP)—In the face of a warning by Senator Millard Tydings [Dem., Md.] that serious difficulties lay ahead for an independent Philippine government, Emilio Aguinaldo, former insurrectionist leader, renewed tonight his pleas for almost immediate independence.

At the same time a delay of at least another year in inaugurating the insular commonwealth government—the system which will precede complete independence—was forecast in authoritative quarters.

"Grant independence first and develop later, side by side therewith, the Philippines' economic stability," said Aguinaldo, who once led a rebellion against the United States rule but eventually cooperated with American authorities.

Replying, Senator Tydings, one of the authors of the Philippine independence act passed by the American congress early this year, said:

"God gave us heads for thought. The best thought will be none too good for the best interests of the Philippines."

Tydings and other members of the senate Philippines mission, together with Gov. Gen. Frank Murphy and Manuel Quezon, president of the insular senate, were guests at Aguinaldo's home at Kawit, near here.

NATIONAL GUARD QUITS SCENE OF COURT RIOTING

Shelbyville, Tenn., Dec. 23.—(AP)—National Guard troops, sent here following Wednesday's riots in which four men were killed and the courthouse burned, left early today. Officials expressed the belief that danger of further violence had passed.

Sherif T. E. Gant, against whom threats were made because he protected a colored prisoner, watched the situation carefully, however.

Sunday passed quietly. About 9 o'clock people began arriving for Sunday school and church services, and during the hours of religious services few were on the streets. There was a small group around the courthouse ruins.

TROTZKY HIDES IN FRANCE; FEARS WRATH OF STALIN

Exile Linked with Russian Assassinatioh Plot.

PARIS, Dec. 23.—(AP)—The elusive Leon Trotsky was keeping out of sight as dispatches from Warsaw intimated today that Dictator Josef Stalin might ask France to expel him.

Since his disappearance from Barbizon, the attractive villa near Paris where he and his wife had been living, Trotzky has been in hiding, and French authorities refused to discuss his whereabouts. He left there last May.

Police at Ile De Re, near La Rochelle, professed ignorance of his reported presence there.

Trotzky was once a friend of Gregory Zinoviev, former communist leader, who is reported to be facing exile from Russia because of recent developments, but he broke with him after the latter's recantation and return to bolshevik ranks.

Former Leaders Face Exile.

MOSCOW, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Probable exile faced two prominent former communist leaders today, Gregory Zinoviev and Leo Kamenev, together with five other members of the Zinoviev opposition group, which for years has been at odds with the policy of the Stalin faction.

No announcement was made as to the probable place of exile, but insufficient evidence had been found against them to order their trial for complicity in the plot which resulted in the death of Sergei Kirov, high soviet leader, on Dec. 1.

P. A. Zalutski and G. E. Yevdokimov, als oslated for exile, were members of the Leningrad committee of the communist party before the opposition of the Zinoviev group to the party's plan for socialization became generally known.

Journalist Marked Man.

Another man marked for exile was G. I. Safavor, a journalist and authority on the far east.

The status of Zinoviev and Kamenev had been in doubt until early today when the commissarist of home affairs officially announced they were among 15 members of a group arrested in connection with the Kirov assassination.

Foreign newspapers had published reports they were under arrest, and their imminent execution was forecast by a paper in Warsaw. It was announced a special council will consider the matter of exiling the oppositionists.

BELGIAN VESSEL LOSES ITS RUDDER OFF SABLE ISLAND

HALIFAX, N. S. Dec. 23.—(AP)—The Canadian East Coast Radio reported tonight the Belgian steamship Emile Francqui in distress and asking for assistance 200 miles southeast of Sable Island. A message from the ship said her rudder had been carried away but she was in no immediate danger. The 5,859 ton freighter was homeward bound for Antwerp from New York.

Fishermen Brought In.

LUNENBURG, N. S., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Twenty-five Lunenburg fishermen, crew of the schooner Shirley B. Corkum, were safe at home with their families tonight after three days at the mercy of the winds and waves in one of the worst blows of the season.

The craft had been caught with a broken engine in the teeth of the gale. The schooner R. B. Bennett moved to the distressed vessel but was unable to approach. The Bennett wirelessed ashore, however, and three Canadian police cutters and the government steamer Arras sped to the rescue. They combed a wide area for 36 hours before picking up the craft yesterday. The rescue ships towed the Corkum into port as the last of the food gave out.

Stranded on Sandbank.

LISBON, Portugal, Dec. 23.—(AP)—The steamship Emsborg of Copenhagen was stranded on a sandbank today at Faro, South Portugal. Because of heavy seas the ship was in a critical condition. The crew of 18 was still aboard.

PUBLIC TO SEE WONDER ACTS OF 'COSMIC RAYS'

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 23.—(AP)—For the first time the man in the street gets a chance this week to see the new Mellon institute and that enigmatic toy of modern science—the cosmic ray. Many hope that ray will prove a decisive link in the human search for the source of energy.

The cosmic ray exhibit is prepared for the annual American Association for the Advancement of Science convention opening Thursday.

More than 3,000 of America's distinguished scientists and mathematicians belonging to the 103 societies making up the association will attend the numerous meetings during the five day convention.

Prof. Albert Einstein, the relativitist, will be among the lecturers. In fact the professor has caused a flurry by decreeing he will talk before an audience not exceeding 450. He will speak in English.

France Adopts 1935 Budget with Deficit of $60,000,000

PARIS, Dec. 23.—(AP)—France's 1935 budget, with a deficit of almost one billion francs [about $60,000,000] was finally voted today by both houses of parliament under the lash of Premier Flandin. The budget provides for expenditures of 47,317,011,976 francs and receipts of 46,991,968,737 francs. The deficit shown is 325 million francs, but financial authorities estimate it at a much higher figure.

Blood Given by Comrade Saves Policeman's Life

Blood donated by a fellow policeman yesterday saved the life of Policeman Joseph Feldman, 35 years old, 1527 Wicker Park avenue, who had been in the Garfield Park hospital for a month with a sinus infection. For the first time yesterday he got out of bed, but the exertion brought on a severe hemorrhage. A second transfusion will be given today to build up his reserve.

ARGENTINA PROPOSES MERCHANT FLEET OF AMERICAN NATIONS

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 23.—(AP)—An international merchant fleet of the American nations, flying the standard of the Pan-American union, will be suggested by the Argentine delegation to the Pan-American commercial conference which meets in Buenos Aires next March.

The project would grant special inter-American privileges to two ships from each nation which would make up the fleet under the Pan-American flag. Ships of this Pan-American fleet would be given freedom from port fees and other governmental charges by nations which are members of the Pan-American union to encourage inter-American trade and touring.

The ships would be national in character, although they could be built abroad or financed by foreign capital. At least 50 per cent of the crew, however, would be nationals of the country entering the ship. The number of ships allotted each nation under the special privileges would not exceed two.

RUSSIANS WARN U. S. TO 'PLAY FAIR' IN TRADE FIELD

No Discrimination in Prices Their Demand.

MOSCOW, Dec. 23.—(AP)—The United States and other foreign powers were warned today by "For Industrialization," the soviet journal of heavy industry, that the U. S. S. R. "will not permit any discrimination against it in prices or terms of credit."

The paper said Russia's production of more than 10,000,000 tons of pig iron this year had put the government in such a favorable economic and financial position that "maneuvering possibilities in the field of foreign trade have widened."

Gold production in excess of the second five-year plan to date was mentioned as another factor in putting the government on sound economic footing.

Points to Grain Surplus.

The accumulation of grain surpluses and the abolition of bread cards were mentioned by the paper as proof of "the enormous successes in finishing the socialistic reconstruction of agriculture" which make soviet Russia doubly secure in its economic position.

"As far as the United States in concerned," said the paper, "we can wait quietly the result of discussion between friends and enemies of encouraging economic relations with the U. S. S. R.

"That is the internal business of the United States. Time will tell. Our position is clear. Coming into the third year of the second five-year plan we are so independent economically of our capitalistic surroundings that we shall not permit any discrimination against the U. S. S. R. in prices or terms of credit.

Boasts of Credit Ability.

"We shall always demand full respect for our irreproachable credit ability, confirmed by 17 years of experience, and our enormous and growing economic power. We shall pass by those who do not understand the economic facts."

The editorial then quoted a statement of Dictator Josef Stalin:

"Those who want peace and want to establish business relations with us will always find our support."

The decision of a London firm to pay in cash rather than to accept unfavorable credit terms was pointed to by the newspaper as indicative of a new soviet trade policy, and foreign powers were enjoined that "those who understand it the earliest will be in the most favorable positions."

The editorial briefly reviewed the attitudes of various nations. It said the Germans were first to approach soviet trade problems "realistically," and many German business men regretted their loss of Russian trade.

The renewal of a temporary French trade protocol was described as "an attempt to recover lost possibilities."

Tokio Remains Calm Over Red 'Invasion' of Manchukuo

TOKIO, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Although further details were lacking concerning the reported soviet "invasion" of the Tungning district of Manchukuo—a remote locality with infrequent communications—officials at Tokio and Hsinking said today they did not believe anything had occurred likely to cause a serious clash.

The war office and the foreign office in Tokio both lacked official information of the alleged incident in which soviet infantry troops from Siberia were reported encamped and installing military equipment in Manchukuan territory.

Relations Best in Months.

Neither in Tokio nor in Hsinking were there any evidences that the incident was regarded seriously, and certainly no warlike preparations were being made.

With negotiations for the transfer of the Chinese Eastern railway to Manchukuo approaching conclusion, authorities considered the Russo-Japanese and Russo-Manchu relations the most amicable in many months.

Officials interpreted the Tungning incident as just another in a series of disputes in the last year owing to the vaguely demarcated eastern frontier of Manchukuo, complicated by the tendency of rivers formerly accepted as boundaries to change their courses frequently.

Squatters Cause Trouble.

Officials recalled that recently there have been several incidents of soviet partias variously described as armed farmers, GPU [secret police] agents and Red guards occupying frontier areas which Manchukuo claimed, although the soviets considered them Russian territory.

The soviet embassy here also lacked news of the Tungning incident, but ridiculed the possibility of serious trouble.

Moscow Denies Incident.

MOSCOW, Dec. 23.—(AP)—A categorical denial of reports from Harbin that a Red army detachment had invaded Manchukuan territory and had been cut off by Manchukuan troops was issued today by the Tass [Russian] news agency here.

The agency's statement branded the Harbin report as "purest nonsense." It declared the report was characteristic of efforts in some circles in Manchuria, designed to sharpen soviet-Japanese relations.

Seize Jap Photographers.

KHABAROVSK, U. S. S. R., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Lieut. Saidini of the Japanese army and a Manchurian sergeant were arrested today at Verkneniikolskoye on the Ussuri river, while taking photographs.

Both were turned over to the soviet border guard for investigation. A soviet statement said topographical maps were found in the lieutenant's field bag. Saidini said he entered soviet territory looking for a lost Japanese boy.

RAILWAY AGENT SHOT AFTER HE TAKES SUSPECT

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 23.—(AP)—D. M. Zachary, special agent for the Chicago and Illinois Midland railroad, was shot and critically wounded today by a man he had arrested for stealing coal. His assailant escaped. A companion, Guy Harris, was captured.

The Midland train on which Zachary was riding as a guard had halted on the Illinois Central railroad tracks because of the wreckage of eight Illinois Central coal cars dynamited a short time before.

Zachary and another guard seized two men who were loading coal into a truck.

When the motor backfired several times the other guard got out and found Zachary in the back of the truck, shot in the abdomen, with his prisoner gone.

2 TIGERS FIGHT BATTLE TO DEATH IN ROME STREET

ROME, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Two large circus tigers fought a death battle on the streets of Rome today, an exhibition worthy of the famed shows in the Colisseum of ancient Rome.

The two beasts were in a cage, being transported to the circus grounds. They suddenly began to fight. Animal keepers, assisted by carabinieri and national police, made frantic efforts to halt the battle.

One of the beasts killed the other before they could be separated.

AUSTRIA FREES 9,542 PRISONERS AS YULE GIFT

Amnesty Decree Affects Nazis, Socialists.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Dec. 23.—The Austrian government's Christmas present to those it vanquished during the past year in two bloody uprisings was revealed today to have been extended to nearly 10,000 men. They had been held in jails and in the Woellersdorf prison camp since last February's civil war with the Socialists and last July's Nazi putsch.

The amnesty announcement, originally applying to about 5,000 men, was extended until a total of 9,542 were included. One thousand more will receive amnesty before New Year's day, the government promised.

Charges Are Dropped.

Three thousand Socialists who participated in last February's revolt have been lying in jail awaiting trial. The charges against them have been dropped.

The amnesty relieves the government of the heavy expense of maintaining so many prisoners, but it also gives rise to the question of whether these men will accept the new Fascist corporative state which this minority government has adopted.

The amnesty decree applies to 4,665 Socialists and 4,877 Nazis. Of these only 93 Socialists and 77 Nazis had been sentenced by courts. Political prisoners ignored by the amnesty decree number 2,500. One thousand are Socialists and 1,500 are Nazis.

May Organize Opposition Force.

How to reëstablish the released men in their civil rights is another problem vexing the government. Many lost their homes in the city-owned Socialist-built apartment houses. Many business licenses were withdrawn. If the government fails to find jobs for them the men again would become an economic burden. There also is the possibility that they would organize opposition forces. It is a well known fact the Socialists and Nazis fraternized in jails.

FREDERICK BODE, OLD TIME S. SIDE LEADER, IS DEAD

Long Illness Fatal to Retired Wholesaler.

FREDERICK BODE.

Frederick Bode, for years prominent in the business life of Chicago, died yesterday at the Shoreland hotel, after an illness of some months. He was 78 years old, and until moving to New York fifteen years ago, was president of Gage Brothers, wholesale millinery company at 18 South Michigan avenue.

Mr. Bode was a former president of the South Shore Country club, charter member of the Chicago Athletic association, and a member of the Chicago, Union League, and Flossmoor Country clubs. His New York club memberships included the Lotus, Wykegill golf, and St. Andrews.

Father a German Officer.

His father was an officer in the Hanoverian army before the Franco-Prussian war and later, as an official of the Prussian government, aided in federation of the German states for which he was decorated by the kaiser.

His mother brought him to Chicago as a boy to escape war conscription. Starting as an errand boy in a commercial house, his rise was rapid, and in 1892, with associates, he purchased the Gage Brothers company.

Weds Second Time.

In 1909, a few days after the marriage of his daughter, Miss Ida Frances Bode, to Edwin Frank Weary, Mr. Bode married his second wife, the former Esther Ella Simpson, a department manager in his millinery company. The couples took their honeymoons together in Europe.

Mrs. Bode and Mrs. Weary survive him. The funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock from Mrs. Weary's home at 4950 Chicago Beach drive. Burial will be at Rosehill cemetery.

JOSEPH KASZAB, DIES; WOODWORK COMPANY HEAD

Joseph Kaszab Sr., 56 years old, manufacturer of architectural woodwork, died Saturday night at his home, 219 Central avenue, Wilmette. During his 25 years in business, Kaszab's firm supplied the ornamental woodwork for many large loop office buildings and hotels. In 1932 he prosecuted four men at Phoenix, Ariz., for swindling him of $120,000 in a race track "coup." Surviving are his widow, Ethel, and three children, Mrs. Margaret Degian, of Elmhurst; Joseph Jr., and Mrs. Ethel Jourdan, of Wilmette. Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 1 p. m. from the home, with interment at Memorial Park cemetery.

Vice Admiral Glossop, 63, Dies; Served Through War

WEYMOUTH, England, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Vice Admiral John Collings-Taswell Glossop, retired, died today. He was 63 years old. The vice admiral served throughout the world war and was commander of the British Cruiser Sydney at the destruction of the raider Emden of the German navy.

FATHER BURKE DIES; SUPERIOR OF MONASTERY

The Very Rev. Philip Burke, O. S. M. superior of Our Lady of Sorrows monastery, 3121 Jackson boulevard, died of pneumonia yesterday at St. Anthony's hospital. Father Burke was the son of the late David Burke and the late Mary O'Connor Burke, and was born in Chicago, May 11, 1872.

He entered the Servite order in 1887. After completing a successful course in ecclesiastical studies he was sent by his superiors to the propaganda college at Rome to complete his studies for the priesthood. By Cardinal Parrocchi he was ordained priest in Rome on Feb. 3, 1895.

Father Burke at various times filled important offices in the Servite order. He had been pastor of Our Lady of Sorrows church, Jackson boulevard and Albany avenue, prior of Our Lady of Sorrows monastery, and superior provincial of the American Province of Servite Fathers.

Funeral services for Father Burke will be held at Our Lady of Sorrows church Wednesday at 9:30 a. m. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery.

HENRY M. LOTH DIES; VETERAN OF PRINTING HOUSE

Henry M. Loth, 7225 Princeton avenue, 67 years old, and for 43 years connected with Poole Bros., Inc., printers, died Saturday night after an illness of six months.

Born in Negaunee, Mich., Mr. Loth came to Chicago in 1890, and two years later became cashier for Poole Bros. At the time of his death he was treasurer of the corcern. He was also a member of the board of directors of the Illinois Manufacturers Mutual Casualty association and of the Employing Printers' Association of America.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Louise Loth, and one son, Herbert C., 9215 Bishop street. Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Normal Park Baptist church, 76th street and Stewart avenue. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery.

R. L. ALLEGRETTI DIES; BROTHER OF SUPERIOR JUDGE

Funeral services for Richard Louis Allegretti, assistant engineer of the board of education and brother of Superior Judge Francis B. Allegretti, will be held Wednesday from the home, 4828 Iowa street. He died Saturday night in St. Ann's hospital of pneumonia following an operation. Mr. Allegretti was 38 years old. Surviving are his wife, Catherine, and five children, Domenica, Margaret, Marian, Ann and Jane. Interment will be at Mount Carmel cemetery, following services in Our Lady of Help of Christian church.

ALICE S. BARNARD DEAD; VETERAN SCHOOL TEACHER

Miss Alice S. Barnard, pioneer resident of Beverly Hills and a former public school teacher, died yesterday at her home, 1924 West 103rd street.

Miss Barnard's father, William, came from Massachusetts in 1847, and her mother, Miranda Wilcox Barnard, from New York in 1844, settling on "The Hill" in the ridge district of Beverly Hills homes on what is now 101st street. Miss Barnard was born there Jan. 29, 1854, and spent her life within half a mile of her birthplace.

She was a graduate of the Chicago Normal school, and taught history in the old South Division and Wendell Phillips High schools. She was a member of the DeWalt Mechlin chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution and the last surviving charter member of the Bethany Union church, founded in 1872.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Edward D. Howe and Mrs. George Graham. Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 11 a. m. at the residence, with burial at Mount Greenwood cemetery.

EXPECT MILITARY RITES AT BURIAL OF GEN. SANBORN

Funeral arrangements for Gen. Joseph Brown Sanborn, wartime commander of the 131st infantry, who died Saturday at his home, 3636 Lake Park avenue, had not been completed last night. During the afternoon it was decided at the home to await the arrival of a daughter, Mrs. Katherine Boice of Minneapolis, before making final arrangements.

It was indicated that a military funeral would be held with troops of the regular army and the Illinois National Guard participating. Col. Fred Allen, present commander of Gen. Sanborn's wartime regiment and his staf visited the home during the afternoon to discuss the funeral arrangements.

Gen. Sanborn, who was 79 years old, apparently had been in good health and was believed to have died from a heart attack. The first of Chicago's five wartime colonels to pass away, Gen. Sanborn was long prominent in Chicago.

L. F. BUSHONVILLE DIES; ATTORNEY, EX-PROSECUTOR

Leslie F. Bushonville, 40 years old, a former assistant state's attorney, died yesterday of pneumonia at his home, 945 North Drake avenue. He graduated from Northwestern university in the class of 1915. During the war he served as a lieutenant instructor in field artillery at Camp Taylor officers' training school. How Imitator Is Found Out in Handwriting

Penmanship Reflects Your Development.

GRAPHOLOGY COUPON
Your Handwriting Analyzed

Know your assets, handicaps, talents, and emotions. Obtain a personal graphology chart. Here are the rules:

1. Clip this coupon, attach a sample of handwriting, and mail to Muriel Stafford, box 1539, Chicago Tribune.
2. Enclose 10 cents (carefully wrapped) for each sample of handwriting you wish analyzed.
3. Enclose a self-addressed STAMPED envelope, folded once.

BY MURIEL STAFFORD.

A young woman writes, "I was reading a letter the other day in which I liked the way that the y's, g's, and f's were made. Since then I have been imitating them. How can you answer questions when one imitates another's handwriting?"

You imitate many things, Miss H., don't you? As you choose the things which you want you are molding your personality. At first you have little experience and choice. As you grow older you know what you like and your handwriting reflects your likes and dislikes.

For instance, one who likes great flourishy writing is inclined to be pretentious. That's obvious, certainly, and yet the other hundreds of secrets that your handwriting reveal are psychologically as sound as that. Since the way you write gives you a wide and unrestricted choice, it betrays your individuality more decidedly than any other one thing.

Of course at first your choice of the way to write is restricted. You are taught a certain style and until you leave grammar school it is usually more or less stereotyped. You haven't "found" yourself and you are apt to be very much of a pattern in many ways. Yet even at a very young age there are many characteristics that may stand out.

Let us take a look at the "handwriting" of little Shirley Temple. She has been taught to print, as you see.

Love
Shirley Temple

In a mature handwriting the writer would have chosen printing because he preferred to write that way and the fact would have graphological importance. Shirley is practically a baby, though, and she doesn't know any other way to write. The fact that she prints instead of writes means in her case that her education and experience is limited. It means almost the opposite in a mature writing.

Yet, even in this baby printing there is plenty of individuality. Shirley makes her capitals tall because she likes them that way. Tall, simple capitals are an evidence of self-assurance. Most children write low capitals.

She writes unsteadily with a light pressure implying that she is not too strong willed—usually. I say "usually" because there is plenty of strength in the downward slant of that T bar! When the child has an opinion of her own she keeps it!

In spite of the fact that she is printing and probably trying hard to make the words straight, her affectionate nature makes them tip to the right. The letters are of different sizes, though mostly large, and such writers are versatile. I think we can agree that Shirley is that!

Glitter Addict Is Chief Figure in This Movie

"ONE EXCITING ADVENTURE."

Produced by Universal.
Directed by Ernst L. Frank.
Story by Frank Schultz and Billie Wilder.
Presented at the State-Lake theater.

THE CAST.

Rins Sorel.....Binnie Barnes
Walter Stone.....Neil Hamilton
Lavassor.....Paul Cavanagh
Fussh.....Grant Mitchell
Lavassor's Chauffeur.....Jason Robards
Kleinsilber.....Eugene Pallette
The Jeweler.....Ferdinand Gottschalk
The Lure.....Dorothy Christy
The Grouch.....Edward McWade

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Strong drink gets some. Dope gets others. And then—there are glitter addicts.

BINNIE BARNES.

The heroine of this opus is in the other class.

Whenever her eyes encounter the sparkle of a precious stone — desire drugs conscience. She MUST possess the jewel. Not that she does anything with it after she acquired it—save hang it from her chandelier.

"Sounds like a nut," you say.

Of course! As aren't we all, looked at from one or another vantage point?

In the exciting adventure being detailed on the State-Lake's screen Miss Sorel appropriates diamonds. She is closely tailed by a handsome gentleman in a taxi, who pays for them—without her knowledge—as soon as they change owners.

The lady's choice of scents—she DOES have the most expensive tastes!—for a certain rare perfume brings a virile young chemist into the running. . . . And then—there are the police, represented by a HueyLongish Sergeant Kleinsilber and a white rabbitish subordinate, Fussh. Neither of these gentlemen [as cast] do much to intensify your interest in the production, the direction of which is pretty crude at times.

However—Binnie Barnes is perfectly fascinating as the strange, subtle, exquisite thief. Paul Cavanagh intrigues as the tailing, paying dark man. Neil Hamilton is reassuringly upright and resourceful as the chemist—for whose sense of humor you—and the lady—are grateful.

See you tomorrow.

MARRIED

ORSON WELLES AND BRIDE.

New York, Dec. 23. — [Special.] — Miss Virginia Nicolson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo M. Nicolson of Wheaton, Ill., today became the bride of Orson Welles, talented young actor now playing in the Broadway production of "Romeo and Juliet." The ceremony was performed at the home of Mrs. Herbert Gay in West Orange, N. J. The bride's only attendant was her sister Miss Caryl Nicolson who came on here with her parents from Chicago for the wedding. Mr. Welles had as his best man, Dr. Maurice Bernstein of Chicago. The couple will reside in Rye, N. Y.

Engagements Hold Interest of Society Set

Wedding to Bring Louise McCormick to City.

BY JUDITH CASS.

ENGAGEMENT announcements head the society column again this morning, so there will be several girls and young men who will be receiving congratulations and good wishes along with Christmas greetings tonight and tomorrow.

The most interesting, socially, of the many bits of romantic news that came to light over the week-end was the announcement published in the society section yesterday of the engagement of Miss Louise McCormick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Brooks McCormick of St. Louis and Baltimore, to Montgomery Meigs Orr, son of Mrs. Arthur Orr of St. Charles.

Friends Delighted She'll Live Here.

All her Chicago friends and relatives are delighted that Miss McCormick's marriage, planned for early in the new year, will bring her to Chicago to live. "Monty" Orr spends the week-ends with his mother and sisters in their charming old home in St. Charles, but during the week he occupies an apartment in town. He prepared for college at St. Paul's and then went to Princeton, graduating in 1933. His fiancée, who is spending Christmas in Baltimore with her mother, was graduated from Bryn Mawr last June. She is a niece of the Chauncey McCormicks, who are spending Christmas at their farm near Warrenville, with their three sons, Deering, who is at home from Yale, and Brooks and Roger, who go to Groton.

With them for dinner tomorrow will be Mrs. McCormick's mother, Mrs. Charles Deering, and Mr. McCormick's nephew, Herbert Stuart Stone, and his wife and children, who live on Lake View avenue. Mr. and Mrs. McCormick plan to go to Miami late in January.

Two Engagements Surprise Many.

Surprising to all but their most intimate friends are two of the announcements, those of Miss Genevieve Noel Cremin to Robert Henry Perlitz of Houston, Tex., and of Miss Mary Elizabeth Edmonds to William A. Fraser Jr. of Omaha, Neb. Another, that of Miss Grace Fitzmorris to John W. Brittingham, has been expected for some time by all their friends, for the popular "Jack" Brittingham's devotion to pretty Miss Fitzmorris has been known to all who know them. It is harder to surprise one's friends when one's "heaviest" beau lives in the same city, for then they know how often you see him, but no one but the postman knows how many letters come from a certain person in another city.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Cremin, who live at 20 Scott street, announced Noel's engagement to the young Texan, son of Charles A. and the late Mrs. Perlitz of Houston, on Saturday afternoon at a tea at which young Mr. Perlitz was present, also present were members of the Princeton Triangle club. Miss Cremin's brother, "Bill," is a member of the Triangle club but he is not taking part in the show this year.

Miss Cremin is a fourth generation Chicagoan, her great-grandfather, James Ward, having come here from New York in 1837. Mrs. Cremin is the former Genevieve Amberg. Miss Cremin, who just returned from a visit in Houston, attended Sacred Heart convent in Lake Forest and the Manhattanville convent in New York. Mr. Perlitz prepared for college at St. Thomas' in Houston and then went to Georgetown university, where he was graduated in 1930. Mr. Perlitz and Miss Cremin, who met when they were vacationing in Colorado, plan to be married next spring after Easter.

Betty Edmonds' Betrothal Told.

Miss Betty Edmonds' engagement is being announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Edmonds. Miss Edmonds went to Miss Kendrick's school in Cincinnati and then to Briarcliff in New York, graduating last June. She made her debut two years ago at a reception at the Edmonds home in Blackthorn road, Winnetka, on Jan. 2. This year on New Year's day Mr. and Mrs. Edmonds are giving a tea for their daughter and Mr. Fraser, who is a son of Mrs. William A. Fraser of Omaha. He attended the Taft school and Cornell, where he was graduated last June. They, too, plan a spring wedding.

The Fitzmorris-Brittingham engagement was announced yesterday by Grace's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Fitzmorris, at a tea at their residence, 1500 Lake Shore drive. Miss Fitzmorris is one of the most vivacious and prettiest of the post-debs and has been very popular ever since her debut in 1931. Mr. Brittingham, who moved here with his mother, Mrs. Frank J. Brittingham, several years ago, also is popular with the younger set. He and his mother live at 219 Lake Shore drive. He prepared for Princeton at Lawrenceville and was graduated from college in 1931. His fiancée finished school at Miss Bennett's at Millbrook, N. Y.

Pattie Alward Engaged to Richard W. Douglas.

Still another interesting announcement is one that Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn Lee Alward of the Seneca hotel and Lake Geneva are making of the engagement of their daughter, Pattie, to Richard Warren Douglas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Morgan Douglas of Indian Hill road, Winnetka. Miss Alward attended the Knox school in Cooperstown, N. Y., the University School for Girls here and Connecticut college in New London. Mr. Douglas was graduated from Culver Military academy as a member of the Black Horse troop. He attended Dartmouth college, where he was a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

SOUNDS like a new version of the old Turk and goat story, but J. Arthur Kealy writes that it happened on a crowded "L" train.

Incident—Request—Wishes.

A gentleman offered his seat to a girl; the shock of this unexpected courtesy caused her to faint. When she revived she thanked him—and he fainted.

DR. GEORGE ROBERTS of the First Presbyterian church in Lake Forest has acted as Santa Claus for the village postoffice for the last twenty years. Probably the most peremptory letter Santa has received in all that time was the one that came the other day.

"Dear Santa—Please bring me all the things I ask for," the letter began. "Orange coat and hat for little Patsy, little waffle iron, big, black baby carriage, siren, pillow, and mattress for baby carriage, radio, sewing machine, typewriter, swimming pool, bathroom with medicine chest, garage with service station, mechanical railway. Snow Princess costume quintuplets, baby lamblin with washable hair, block village, aero circus, the Three Little Pigs, tweet, tweet birds."

* *

A MERRY CHRISTMAS to all. May there be peace on earth, a modicum of security to every one—including four footed folk—nice gags and oddments in every mail, and plenty of nice, available nonsense for every one, whether their tastes run toward Thurber or Harpo Marx, Silly Symphonies, or Jack Pearl; beauty in any of its forms, and tolerance in hearts beating under sable wraps, senatorial vests, clerical vestments, ragged coats and badges of authority.

* *

THESE things do I wish. But like the little girl in Lake Forest, I could make quite a long list of material things. That Toulouse-Lautrec in a Michigan avenue gallery and a certain Tiepolo; more old English silver, fresh flowers and a birch log fire every day; travel in the best cabin on the best boat to almost any place you might mention; certainty that I might spend next summer in the Bavarian Alps, fluency in five languages, a pet saddle horse who could live practically under the same roof with me, a sculptured piece by Manship, plenty of pale pink linen hemstitched sheets, pearls, a wooden pepper grinder for the table, a rambling garden, a private woods, a pet lamb and a burro, to see a play twice a year as glamorous as "The Swan" with Eva Le Gallienne, and conversation at midnight.

Motorist Gable Runs Into Thing Known as Price of Being Famous

Girl Admirers Wreck His Stalled Car.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 23.—[Special.]—Movie struck girls no longer may mob Clark Gable in person, but last night they practically took his automobile apart in the midst of the downtown shopping crush.

A faulty feed line had stalled Gable's auto. There was a puff of smoke under a jet of flame that sent Gable bursting out of the car toward the curb. Police and garagemen put out the blaze with extinguishers but the actor got his new tan coat, light gloves and shoes spotted with the smoke and grease.

Gable went on about his errand to an office building. When he came out, he found the doorway hemmed in by women. He pushed his way to the car. The door handles were gone, the upholstery had been ripped and cut into pieces by souvenir hunters; everything that could be detached had been carried away and Gable, mumbling bitter words, hopped into a taxi and drove off, sending some one else back to arrange for towing the stripped car away.

Incidents like these, explain why Katharine Hepburn makes faces, Clara Bow wears dark glasses, Ronald Coleman sees no one, and Greta Garbo plants her feet in the isolation of her own hearth.

Gable's race horse, Beverly Hills, is an opening day entry at Santa Anita race meeting Tuesday.

MOTORIST CLARK GABLE.

Francis Ford, old time star in movies, plays a bit as the Montana sherif in Mae West's present opus "Now I'm a Lady."

Lynn Riggs, playwright of Santa Fe, N. M., and one of Joan Crawford's very best friends flew in by plane from New Mexico today in order to spend Christmas eve with Joan and her boy friend, Franchot Tone at their Yule celebration.

Carole Lombard is giving her mother a new and expensive auto for Christmas.

Gary Cooper is giving his father and mother, ex-judge and Mrs. Frank Cooper the entire furnishings for a house, the house being a new one into which Judge and Mrs. Cooper are just moving.

Charlie MacArthur, writer-producer, arrived by plane last night to spend the big day with his wife, Helen Hayes, and their baby and paid a pretty penny in excess poundage for the presents he brought from New York. MacArthur's Christmas packages filled the auto which whirled him from the aviation depot to M. G. M. studio to greet Miss Hayes. Helen's contribution to the spirt of family reunion was the erection of an "intimate bungalow" on the back yard of the place she has leased during her stay in films here. It is in this bungalow that the family trio will put up their tree, spend Christmas and exchange gifts.

Betty Furness has become the guide about town of Guy Rennie, youthful entertainer who became popular in Paris last season with an unusual style of singing.

When Ted Healy was in the hospital after his operation for appendicitis Frank Fay and Mrs. Fay [Barbara Stanwyck] visited him in the sick ward, bringing a bag of peanut brittle which of course he couldn't eat.

Last year at this time, Baby Leroy Winebrenner was the hit of the year. This year, Baby Leroy is almost a fade-out. He's at the awkward age between babyhood and childhood and whether the future holds further screen renown for him is something that only the future will decide. The baby's contract runs until early summer, but Paramount may use him not at all or only for bits in any more pictures.

Baby Leroy is now 20 months old. His year and a half in movies built a ranch home for his mother, Mrs. Gweneth Winebrenner, 19 years old, and fixed the elder Winebrenner family comfortably for years to come. Baby Leroy is drawing $125 a week. If Paramount cares to hold the child to a contract, it could retain his services until 1940.

I don't know whether this has anything to do with the Marlene Dietrich-Mae West feud at Paramount, but la West will wear a pair of pants in one sequence of her current film, "Now I'm A Lady." Dietrich has worn pants in public but never in a picture. Mae's trousers are part of an idealized cowgirl outfit designed by the studio stylist, Travis Banton, the rest of her outfit including ten gallon hat, silk shirt, neckerchief, leather vest, goat hair chaps and high heeled boots.

Cistercian Abbot General Makes Brief Visit Here

The Most Rev. Francis Janssens, abbot general of the Cistercian order, spent several hours in Chicago yesterday en route from Vatican City to Okauchee, Wis., where he will visit the Our Lady of Springbank monastery. He was met here by the Rev. Romuald Pecasse, prior of the monastery, and before proceeding to Okauchee spent several hours with the Cistercian fathers at St. Clement rectory. Upon his return a reception is to be given in his honor.

WEDDINGS

Miss Gertrude Marks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mores Marks of Detroit will be married to Dr. Samuel L. Goldberg, son of Mrs. Dora Goldberg of 5327 Harper avenue, Chicago, today at the home of the bride's parents. Miss Marks attended the University of Michigan and Simmons college, and has been active in social service work at the Mandel clinic and the Michael Reese hospital. Dr. Goldberg, after being a fellow in surgery at the Mayo clinic, is on the surgical staf of Michael Reese. After a few days in New York Dr. and Mrs. Goldberg will go to Bermuda. They will be at home after Jan. 10 at the Mayfair hotel.

Today Brings Happy End to Holiday Rush

It's Most Exciting Day for Shoppers.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Frenzied expectancy in Chicago the day before Christmas is thick enough to cut in chunks. It's the most exciting day of the year and it means, for bruised and battered shopping sleuths, the glad end of barging around amid bundle hung males and females, the end of the pugnacious impulses to obliterate all the cold blooded unbelievers in Christmas giving and cheer. But by some magic this sort of people vanishes a good two weeks before the big day.

It means all the thrills of seeing tall, tall trees hung with silver, balls, baubles, canes, toys and trinkets, some in the most unexpected places. We're all used to seeing the fabulous beauties in the tunneled waiting rooms of all the depots, the gigantic skyscraper models that tickle the ceilings of smart tearooms, but now you see colorful loaded small trees in dingy small stores, in crowded tenement windows as you swoosh into the shops with a grand feeling of gayety.

Christmas in Chicago means shops and stores jammed with loot, festooned with trimmings, stacked with Yuletide boxes and staffed with the most understanding and helpful people. The shops and stores where you can find anything from electrical worm diggers to fur coats to suit a queen's extravagance. And who wouldn't like to throw a couple of thousand dollars' worth of squirrels over the shoulders especially if the box that holds them bears a glamorous label from a famous shop.

The best thrill of all is the surging crowds of people, the straight, fresh youngsters home from school, in uniform, chattering smaller tots careening around the well stuffed toy departments, the smiling, cheerful grownups, loaded with boxes and the last ride home up the snowy boulevards with the miracle of century old Christmas carols floating out on the frosty air.

That's Christmas in Chicago!

Mrs. Roosevelt Suggests Plays for Young Cripples

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23.—(AP)—A suggestion that crippled children give Christmas plays as well as see them, was made today by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. She attended the Kiwanis' party for crippled children where many entertainers had been marshalled for the boys and girls. Mrs. Roosevelt told the little lame children about the shows that the boys and girls with infantile paralysis put on at Warm Springs for the entertainment of the President. "Some day you children should gave a play for those who are giving you a party," said Mrs. Roosevelt.

TO FIND WHAT YOU WANT TO BUY

USE A TRIBUNE WANT AD

One of the best ways to get something you want quickly at the price you want to pay, is through a want ad in the Chicago Tribune. Every day housewives, business men and others make successful use of "Wanted" want ads in the Tribune.

Through a "Wanted" want ad you can get quick response from people who have what you want to buy. You have an opportunity through comparing a number of offers to get the best value available. And, in dealing directly with the owner of the article, you are far more likely to get the most satisfactory price.

Put a low-cost Tribune want ad to work canvassing the big Chicago market for what you want. The Tribune reaches approximately three out of every five families in Chicago and suburbs. To place your want ad, call

RED STEFAN

By PATRICIA WENTWORTH.

SYNOPSIS.

Stephen Enderby, an Englishman, is escaping out of Russia, where he is known as Stefan Ivanovitch. He rescues homeless Elizabeth Radin from freezing to death and takes her with him. He had seen her before and admired her. She is the widow of an executed engineer. Though English her husband was half Russian. She ran off to escape the advances of Commissar Petroff.

Stephen tells her his history, while they are traveling in a cart, driven by an old man named Yuri. As a boy Stephen lived on the large Russian estate of his stepfather and grew up with a large peasant family, until his mother got him an English tutor. When his mother died he went to live with his guardian, Robert Carey, in England. After the revolution in Russia he became a "secret observer" for England. He went to the town where old Yuri, Mrs. Darensky's father, lived, and made him believe he was one of his many grandchildren. He became a veterinarian and adopted various peasant rôles to help hide his identity. Now Stephen has inherited the fortune of his guardian and is anxious to quit his hazardous work.

INSTALMENT VII.

NOTHING TO LIVE FOR.

Elizabeth had never heard a wolf's cry before, but with each repetition she found it more terrifying.

She turned quickly to Stephen and saw him looking away to the right with a set face. The sound was nearer now and louder. It was like a dog baying, and yet not like. It was sharper, higher, and it had the savage melancholy of hunger in it. Her heart began to thump against her side and a cold sweat of terror broke out on all her limbs. Suddenly the cry rang out so near that the horse shield violently and old Yuri, pulling on the reins with one hand, swung round in his seat and shook the other fist at Stephen whilst he poured out a flood of angry abuse.

Stephen broke into laughter. The cart swayed from one side of the track to the other, and whilst Yuri was taking both hands to the reins again, Stephen became suddenly aware of the fear in Elizabeth's eyes. In an instant he had both her hands in his.

"Were you frightened? What a brute beast I am! I wouldn't frighten you for the world—you do know that, don't you?"

Elizabeth felt utterly bewildered. The wolf's cry had ceased. Stephen was holding her hands and looking into her eyes. His were so blue and so near that she could not meet them. A giddiness came over her and her eyelids fell. In an instant he was holding her hands to his face, not kissing them, but pressing his forehead down upon them, whilst he held them in a grasp from which she had no power to withdraw. She felt as if her senses were leaving her, but his quick penitent words came through the faintness.

"Don't be frightened—you mustn't be frightened! I'd cut off my right hand before I'd frighten you. It was only a joke." Then he was looking at her again, and her eyes were open. "Please forgive me. I wouldn't let anything hurt you for the world. I never thought I'd take you in. I thought you guessed when I did the birds. Why, a cuckoo couldn't live here at all—it's only a summer visitor in England."

She said in a soft, confused voice, "The birds?"

"Didn't you really guess? That's a tremendously big feather in my cap."

She said the same words again. It was as if she couldn't move her mind to anything fresh.

"The birds?"

Stephen's heart cried out in him: "You're like a princess in a fairy tale—an enchanted princess who can't speak. Frozen—that's what you are—frozen with fear. And I helped to frighten you!"

Out loud he said, in the voice he would have used to comfort a child: "Yes, the birds, and the wolf, and everything. It was me all the time. You won't be frightened any more, will you? Please, please don't be frightened."

"It was you?"

"Yes. I do it quite well—don't I? It wants an awful lot of practice. I started when I was only a kid. I can do a lot of birds and animals."

"But it sounded right over there."

He nodded.

"That's what takes such a lot of practice, getting it to sound from the right distance and direction—and you mustn't let a muscle of your face move, or it gives you away. You were looking at me when I was doing the wolf. It was pretty good to take you in when you were so close."

She drew her hands away from him. This time he let them go.

"It was stupid of me to be frightened, but—when I looked at you—you looked—as if we were in danger."

He laughed.

"All strong and silent! That was because I wasn't letting a muscle of my face move. Please forgive me for frightening you. You will—won't you?"

Elizabeth leaned back into the angle of the cart.

"It was stupid of me. I've always been frightened about wolves. Someone told me a story when I was a child——." A faint shudder ran over her. "If it had been anything else . . . I haven't really got anything much to live for——."

He could hardly catch the words. They came more and more slowly, as if she were tired out or half asleep. He frowned and stared out over the snow. So she hadn't anything much to live for. . . . That was one of the things that had got to be changed. When people stop taking an interest in being alive, it doesn't take much to kill them. You saw that happening in Russia every day. The older people, the ones who weren't wanted because they didn't fit into the new communist state—they just died, and nobody cared. He dared Elizabeth to die and slip away from him. She'd got to be disenchanted, waked up, made alive again. She needn't think he was going to let her go. He had got her, and he was going to keep her.

He began to think very seriously about the immediate future. Well, that depended on two things. First, would Petroff take the trouble to try and trace her? He couldn't answer that, because Elizabeth hadn't told him enough about her relations with Petroff. He glanced at her and saw that she was asleep, her lashes very fine and dark against the whiteness of her cheeks. He leaned over and tucked the straw closely round her. The question about Petroff must wait.

The other question would have to wait, too. It was a nuisance Yuri being so deaf. He would have to wait till they reached the village before he could find out whether Irina was there. If she was. . . .

His frown deepened as he thought about Irina.

The village stood bare of trees upon flat, open ground. There was a straggle of houses on either side of the one long street. There was a church with a dome like an onion. There was a big house, or hall, painted pink. The little houses were painted, too, or washed with color—green, pink, blue, and yellow, under eaves of bristling thatch. The small square windows stared blankly at the snow.

Elizabeth got down out of the cart and looked about her. She felt dazed and very cold. Stephen took her by the arm and led her into the hut before which they had stopped. An old woman who was tending the stove called over her shoulder in a high cracked voice with a nasal tone in it.

"Shut the door, whoever you are! What's the good of feeding the stove if the good heat is to be wasted?" Then, as she turned round and caught sight of Stephen, she gave a shrill cry, stretched out her arms, and ran to embrace him.

Stephen kissed her heartily, called her little grandmother, and with an arm still round her pulled her about to face Elizabeth.

"See what I've brought you! For ten years you've been telling me that I ought to be married."

The old woman stared at Elizabeth. She was a very ugly old woman, incredibly lined and wrinkled, but her eyes were bright and black. They gave her rather the look of an aged squirrel as she darted sharp suspicious glances at the stranger Stefan had brought home. All very well to tell him he should marry, but was this the strong strapping wench who was to save her old legs? Not she! A poor half dead looking creature to her way of thinking. A parcel of fools—that's what men were, and Stefan as big a fool as any of them for all he thought himself so clever. She stuck her old chin in the air and said:

"A wife, eh? Where did you get her from?"

"Picked her up in a snow-drift," said Stephen with a laugh. Then, as the old woman made an angry sound, "well, she looks like it, doesn't she?"

"What's her name?"

"Varvara."

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

THE OPENING BID OF TWO NO TRUMPS.

When I discussed this particular opening bid some months ago I limited the examples to what I consider the two "normal" types of hands for this bid. That is to say, hands which were alike in so far as they had sure protection in every suit, though otherwise they differed in type. One type was the standard short suited close coupled no trump hand with no five card suit, but such an array of high cards that you wished to play in three no trumps provided partner could muster no more than a queen and a jack. The other type contained a long suit, sufficiently solid to control the time factor in conjunction with the protection held in each of the other suits. Here again you wished to play in three no trumps provided partner held a queen and a jack, or their approximate equivalent. On such holding he would raise to three no trumps and you were prepared for, and desirous of, a response on this basis. Otherwise you did not have a proper two no trump bid, and should have bid only one no trump or one in a suit, according to your holdings.

An Additional Use for the Two No Trump Opening Bid.

Now that you understand my theory of opening forcing bids, I want to introduce another use for the two no trump bid—an unusual and, if you like, an abnormal use for it. That is, to TAKE THE STRAIN OFF THE OPENING TWO AND THREE BIDS IN A SUIT, or, rather, to relieve you of any temptation to shade the requirements for these two master bids. When you hold a hand with which you wish to contract for game even though partner should not have the stuff to give you a natural response if you make an opening bid of one, bid two no trumps even though your hand is wide open in one suit. It is better to risk perplexing your partner with an unsound or, at any rate, an unusual two no trump opening bid, rather than to endanger your big hands—and his confidence in my system and in your partnership—by making unsound forcing bids. Having eight tricks cold as soon as you get in, one unprotected suit is not the danger that you might think, as I explained yesterday. After all, if your partner has nothing, not even enough to respond to two no trumps, then you will play at two undoubled and it is unlikely that they will run more than five tricks against you, leaving you with eight top cards. If partner does respond, such values as he has are extremely likely to be partly in the unprotected suit—enough to stop it once, sooner or later. Say you have to bid one club would be too risky—partner might not even be able to respond with a diamond or a no trump, but yet there may well be game if he has J 9 x x in diamonds and the queen of hearts, or else three jacks. If he bids three no trumps, pass; but if he bids three diamonds, now the hand is probably safe even at four no trumps, so I would bid three spades; he will now bid three no trumps or four diamonds. In either case I bid four hearts, asking for a preference. He should now realize that I have an abnormal type of two no trump bid, and his next response should guide us to the safest contract. Remember, of course, that if his first response had been three no trumps and not three diamonds, you could not safely monkey with your short suits, seeking a preference. You must pass three no trumps, as four no trumps is almost sure to be too high a contract.

Sp.—A K Q x Di.—x
Ht.—A K J x Cl.—A K Q x

Never Use the Three No Trump Opening Bid in This Way.

Remember also never to use the opening bid of three no trumps for any such purpose, even if you have only two losers in your 4-4-4-1 holdings, as this is almost sure to result in a hopeless slam in your weak suit or in no trumps; if able to bid at all your partner will bid the suit you cannot stand, and will probably continue to develop a slam in it, being unable to understand your frantic signoffs in no trumps. The three no trump opening bid must be kept on the gold standard and not be tampered with. Its massive short suit characteristics can only be varied when the opener is solid throughout and can control the bidding right up to the seven level and can stop every suit and stand every lead.

It Is the Two No Trump Bid Which is the Handy Man.

The two no trump bid, however, can stand flexible use, and when you are responding to it, if your partner's later bidding surprises you, defer to him and try to deduce the reasons for his unexpected bidding on the subsequent rounds. Guide him—do not bludgeon him. He is trying to get you to answer some very unusual question or questions, and must use the language of cards in doing so.

Engagements Hold Interest of Society Set

Wedding to Bring Louise McCormick to City.

The wedding will take place in the spring.

At the luncheon on Saturday Miss Barbara Blocki, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gale Blocki, surprised thirty of her friends with the announcement of her engagement to Hayden Blackwell Wingate, son of Mrs. Edna B. Wingate. The party was at the Blocki home, 6851 Constance avenue. Miss Blocki is a student at the University of Chicago, where she is a member of Mortar Board. Mr. Wingate was graduated recently from Chicago, where he was a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon. The wedding is to be an event of next June. Miss Blocki's sister, Jane, married Walter S. Trude Jr. in a large wedding two years ago.

Miss Jane H. Ricks to Wed Wilfred King.

Another engagement of interest announced yesterday is that of Miss Jane H. Ricks of Plandome, L. I., to Wilfred S. King of New York. The announcement reached Miss Ricks' grandmother, Mrs. James B. Ricks of the Sovereign hotel, last night, which was the sixty-first anniversary of her own wedding. She is the widow of the late Judge Ricks, chief justice of the Supreme court of the state of Illinois. Miss Ricks is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse J. Ricks of Plandome and her fiancé is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Strickland King of Park avenue, New York. Miss Ricks attended the Cathedral school of St. Mary in Garden City and is a graduate of Wellesley college.

Judging by the good time every one had last Thursday afternoon at the debut reception Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Bradley gave for their daughter, Alice, at the Casino, Miss Bradley's dinner dance this evening at the same club will be one of the liveliest and most interesting parties of the holidays. Mr. and Mrs. Bradley and their daughter will receive their guests, who will include most of the season's debutantes and their beaux, shortly after 8 o'clock.

Two Parties Today for Debutantes.

From 4 until 6 o'clock this afternoon the debutantes and their beaux, whose numbers will be augmented by members of the Princeton Triangle club, will dance at the Casino as guests of the John Stuarts, who are entertaining for Mr. Stuart's niece, Miss Mary Macdonald, debutante daughter of the George A. Macdonalds of Winnetka. Mr. Stuart is a trustee of Princeton university.

From the Casino the whole crowd will flock over to the tea Mrs. Harry Street is giving for her debutante daughter, Harriett, between five and eight o'clock, at 1235 Astor street. Just young people have been invited. Mrs. Street, the debutante, and her older sister, Marjorie, a debutante of last season, will receive. Assisting Harriett, who is a sophomore at Vassar, will be a dozen and a half young women who were in her class at the North Shore Country Day school. They are the Misses Henrietta Boal, Susan and Betsy Ballard, Laura Bartlett, Nancy Burley, Carolyn Barrett, Nancy Brown, Tayloe Hannaford, Peggy Sargent, Jane dePeyster, Harriet Daughaday, Muriel Picher, Nancy Knode, Ann Jenkins, Mary Lewis, Miriam Fetcher, and Leslie Wilson. Miss Marjorie Kelly was to have assisted, but she is ill.

After Christmas trees have been trimmed and lighted tonight in Lake Forest, many of the village grownups will gather at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marion T. Martin for their annual eggnog party. The party has been an institution ever since the former Frances Lee married Mr. Martin in 1928 and established residence in Lake Forest. Well before the party gets under way, however, the Martins' tiny daughter, Suzanne, will be safely tucked in her crib. Tomorrow the Martins are coming in town to have Christmas dinner with Mrs. Martin's grandfather, John J. Glessner, at his Prairie avenue house. Miss Emily Glessner, another granddaughter, is here from the east with her grandfather.

Lynn Williams Jr. Heads Country Day Alumni.

At a gay luncheon meeting on the top floor of the Tavern club Saturday the Alumni association of the North Shore Country Day school unanimously elected Lynn A. Williams Jr. president for the coming year. George E. Hale II. is the retiring president. Mr. Williams, whose pretty wife collected payment as the Alumni members streamed into the Tavern, made a witty speech accepting the position. At the speakers' table were, besides Mr. and Mrs. Williams and Mr. Hale, Miss Antoinette Lackner, Herman Lackner, Frank Fowle Jr., and Mrs. Timothy Lowry.

For many of the debutantes and young people home from school there will be dining and dancing tomorrow evening at the Fortnightly club. Mr. and Mrs. Peter Berkey are entertaining for their daughter, June, who is at home for the holidays from the Mary C. Wheeler school in Providence, R. I. Some of Miss Berkey's schoolmates who came home with her from Providence last Friday are Miss Dorothy Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth C. Brown; Miss Dorothea Wing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Wing; Miss Caroline Montgomery; whose parents are the Frederick Montgomerys, and Miss Helen Hamilton, daughter of the George S. Hamiltons.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. Sudler are leaving tomorrow on a cruise to the West Indies, but they will return in time for a benefit ball the Emerson House board will give on Jan. 11 at the Congress, for Mrs. Sudler is on the committee in charge of the affair. The ball is certain to be a very gay one, for the young women on the board plan to make it very much like the successful one they gave two years ago. There will be no gambling and no cigaret girls, but there will be several kinds of contests as features of the evening.

Mrs. Hayden B. Harris has planned a pleasant party for her sub-deb daughter, Valeria, who is at home from Mount Vernon for the holidays. Miss Harris will be hostess at a luncheon at the Casino Thursday, and later will take her guests to a matinée performance of the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris will have the family Christmas party at their home this year. The Stanley Harrises and the Haddon McLeans—she is Mr. Harris' sister — will be among those around the table. Lincoln and Huntington Harris, the sons of the house, also will be present, but the Stanley Harrises' son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Rawlins Moulton, will be in Washington for the holidays.

Tomorrow in Benton Harbor, Mich., at her mother's home Miss Evelyn Warner Cady, member of a well known Benton Harbor family, will become the bride of Hunter Michaels of Chicago. The service will be read at 4 o'clock by the Rev. Howard A. Blanning in the presence of the immediate families. Miss Cady, a daughter of Mrs. A. P. Cady, has been living in Chicago for three years. She went to the University of Michigan, where she studied law. Mr. Michaels and his bride will leave after the ceremony for a month's wedding trip to Havana. Upon their return to Chicago they will be at home at 1317 North State street.

Pretty Dress for a Child

CHILD'S DRESS.

Isn't this a darling dress for small girls? And it's so easy to make, too. The two piece skirt is shirred at the center top and joined to a two piece French yoked bodice. The sleeves are short puffed ones, as pretty as can be for any small girl. Any of the cottons, such as percale, broadcloth, and ginghams, or daintier dresses made of printed dimity, dotted swiss, organdy, or printed voiles will be pretty.

The pattern, No. 3076, comes in sizes 2, 4, and 6 years.

Slender Ankles Are Reward for These Simple Exercises

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I wonder if it means anything to see evening frocks featured with the skirt length in front above ankle length. I've seen them already with the raised front hem though the back of the skirt may trail.

I note on the street, too, what seems to me like a much shorter skirt length than last year. On ultra-smartly dressed women, I mean.

What it probably means is more work for the thick ankled of us if legs are on the way back to showing themselves barefacedly again. Anyway, there's always a bathing suit season ahead, and a good ankle, whether it's temporarily hidden from view or not, is always a great asset.

Because a friend has just told me about how she hopped her nether extremities into a good semblance of their younger and earlier slimness and because it's good hopping weather, anyway. I would suggest, as a first aid to ailing ankles—overweighted or under—that you do a number of hops a day. 'Tisn't a bad idea to do it anyway, just to keep the fat goblins away.

This friend, although confessedly middle-aged, has a bood stout heart and no constiutional ills that might interfere. A hundred hops a day really did improve her ankles wonderfully.

This is the way to do it: Hands on hips. First hop on the right foot, then on the left, then on both. Do this, say, five times each, then jump to a side straddle and return.

Or, make a separate exercise of the straddle. Start both feet together in front of you and then jump them wide apart. Back, and again and again. Keep on the toes as you do the jump or hop.

These exercises are grand for the thighs, too, if you're troubled with so much thigh that the skirt bulges when you sit down, as a number of women are. But I warn that if you're easily winded, you'll have to go slowly at first. If you have a week heart better not take to the hopping or jumping without your doctor's O. K.

"Candies That Are Fun to Make," a booklet containing twenty-eight candy recipes, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, and Tribune Tower, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

Whether you lean toward sophisticated metal-foil Christmas trees and blown glass Santas, or bells and wreaths and strings of popcorn—something has to be done, and pronto, about tomorrow's Christmas dinner table.

If you have a determined soul and a stanch constitution there's still time to barge through the department store millions and find festive touches ready-made. Fat red candles and tall cool tapers flutter with holly, gay ribbons, and tulle. Prancing reindeer come in teams, in twos, or in singletons. Blue table trees vie with spangled, snow dripping ones. Place cards and like gadgets are growing smarter, while possibilities in favors positively astound one. In fact, there's just no end to the temptations dashing shoppers encounter.

Or if you've a family with nimble fingers and a penchant for home made fun, assign them the job of decorating while you play around with the turkey. A chandelier above the dining table is a boon if you have a weakness for canopies. Alternate festoons of sparkling, snow crusted popcorn and plump, red cranberries may swing from these fixtures to the ceiling or the walls. If the popcorn snow is something you haven't tried, here it is for your bag of tricks. First, string feathery popped corn kernels on long threads. Dip a brush in a thick white sugar sirup and coat the corn generously. Now sift over the coating gleaming candy snow made by running rock candy through the finest blade of your food chopper. When the Christmas swags are up hang a tinkling Christmas bell from the chandelier, topping it with a crisp green bow. Voila—the overhead is finished!

As for the table, don't become too ambitious. When the feast arrives there'll be neither need nor room for many garnishes. Candles—yes. Both turkey and diners are lent a special holiday halo by candle light. One exquisite centerpiece we've met has a narrow, rather long dish or box for its base. Green crêpe paper covers the outside, fastened with a fine gold ribbon. In the box are planted three low poinsettia blossoms (the less expensive cut flowers are the thing). Sprigs of greens mask the edges and between the blossoms stand two tall green bayberry candles burning with a spicy, aromatic odor.

Another touch still more modern is the centerpiece of gleaming winter vegetables—real ones, all handsomely shined. A large wooden or pewter bowl, piled with an eggplant, an artichoke, glowing red tomatoes, a fat scrubbed cucumber, a pomegranate, a decorative squash, and whatever else that you fancy will make a proud display between two scarlet candles, each

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Don't skins need coddling in wintertime?

Almost every woman we know is moaning about the dryness and the drawn look and feel of her skin. It's the cold, the Chicago water, and the overheated houses and offices—and the only thing to do about it is to use oil copiously.

Faces need more creaming now than at any time of the year; the generous use of it is a little hard on the budget. But we know one way to straighten that out. There's a cream sold in a downtown shop that's as rich as butter, a beautiful cleanser and an efficient lubricant that you can use in slathers because it's really inexpensive. Huge one pound jars of it cost only a quartet of quarters.

This is not a liquefying cream; it's about medium weight, neither so heavy as the cold creams of the old days nor so flimsy and light as those of the melting type. Because it's such a bargain your conscience won't ache if you use it pretty luxuriously.

Then, for the aggravating itch that follows a bath, there's a creamy lotion that will work wonders for your comfort and peace of mind. It's a rich emulsion to be used on your skin while the body is still wet. It doesn't leave the slightest film or feeling of stickiness either, and this, too, is an inexpensive item.

And if you're smart you won't disdain the bath oils that soften the water and cut down the drying onslaught. There are several of them on the market; a few ring the tub, but what's a little ring on porcelain compared with satiny skin?

Silk Coats Have Bright Future in Paris Fashions

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

NEW YORK.—[Special.]—Here is a style on the way in. It has a future, and all clothes should have one. The long cloak, made of heavy silk that rustles like an aspen tree with your smallest movement, is a Paris fashion, and one which is coming, not going. You may be shivering inside a heavy fur coat at this moment, and inclined to consider any silken wrap with about the same yen you would have for smallpox. Don't let the thermometer sway your judgment too much. The long, moire cloak, same like in our sketch, is intended for the southern resort right now, and for twilight and spotlight wear up here in the "nawth" later on.

This model has the new swagger cape top, and that with its material makes it a four star hit. It is cut like the simplest of daytime cape coats, with the exception of all that fullness at the center back of the hiplength cape and with the exception of the ruffled collar. It is an Americanized version of a Mainbocher model and it is made of darkest garnet red silk moire. It ties on with a separate scarf tie of turquoise blue velvet, and if there is a more thrilling color combination than deep red and soft turquoise blue, it takes some finding. The tie is knotted into two loops under the chin, and the long, flaring ends pass underneath the simple suede belt and hang a bit below.

The small toque is made of moire like the wrap and it has the new to-the-front movement that is coming in to fashion in millinery. On top, toward the front, is a cluster of turquoise ostrich tips.

'The Messiah' Presented by Choral Club

Critic Praises Program of Swedish Group.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

In considering the Swedish Choral clubs' performance of "The Messiah" at Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon, it is a pleasure to testify that the organization's conductor, Harry T. Carlson, has worked out one of the best studied renditions of the famous oratorio that has been heard in a number of years.

Starting with an extremely able, melodious, and full throated band of singers, they have developed shading as well as power, expression, color, and an ability to project the English language that would give lessons in the art to a good many soloists, though not to the soloists who appeared on this occasion. These were four fully able to be in the front rank ahead of the choral body that backed them up: Marie Sidenius Zendt, soprano; Marie Morrissey, contralto; Walter Pontius, tenor; and Mark Love, basso.

One might have questioned a few of Mr. Carlson's more leisurely tempos in the presentation of the piece, but outside of these there was great pleasure in the hearing, a performance that had not only lyric but dramatic values. For Handel did more than write melodies. He illustrated his texts by the character of his music.

A Sunday entertainment that started unostentatiously and is becoming popular is to be found late in the afternoon in the Urban room of the Congress hotel. It is a series of dance programs presented by Ardath Janes, and each week's program is different. That of yesterday was by Leone Mayer and Lester Hayes, two slender, lithe young artists who have definite ideas on dances and the costumes thereof. The first part of the program was labeled something amorous, something diverting, something mad, something Spanish, and something is a something is, the last a not entirely respectful gesture in the direction of Gertrude Stein and "Four Saints in Three Acts." It was a highly amusing bit, the more so because it was done with complete surety, accuracy, and a rather fine technic.

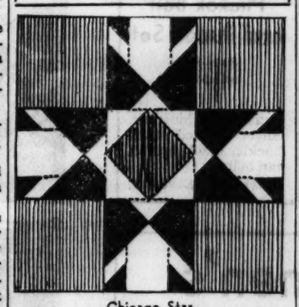
New Iowa Congressman to Marry Christmas Day

Des Moines, Ia., Dec. 23.—[Special.]—Hubert Utterback, elected congressman from the sixth district on Nov. 6, will marry Mrs. Cora Allen Prine, also of Des Moines, here Christmas day. They will go to Kansas City, Mo., where he will attend a fraternity convention. Then they will go to Washington. Utterback, a Democrat, is a widower and has two married daughters.

"Chicago Star" One Version of the Nine Patch



Chicago Star.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Chicago Star," an interesting version of the popular nine patch, is reminiscent of pioneer days in Chicago, when the Indians were frequently seen skulking around Fort Dearborn. The completed block measures 18 inches square, and the finished coverlet requires ten pieced and ten plain blocks.

Be Sure to Tell Children Story of Christmas

Older Ones Should Hear It from the Bible.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

If they have heard it before, read it to them once again from the Bible. You will find it in Matthew, chapter ii., verses 1 to 11, and in Luke, chapter ii., verses 1 to 20, inclusive.

If you haven't told it to them yet, you must tell it to them today—the story of the first Christmas. This is their special festival—the only festival of children in this grownup world.

If they're little you'll have to tell it to them in your own words because the words of the Bible, though beautiful and stately, are a little strange, and relate facts too remote for the comprehension of a young child. And so you must use your own words, telling them as best you can so they will understand a little, that:

Once upon a time, far, far away and long, long ago—long before grandmother and grandmother's grandmother were born—this story begins.

There was, then, a little town called Bethlehem, and many, many people were traveling toward it from all the country round. The people in those days did not travel as people do nowadays—not on trains or in cars, but walking, or riding on donkeys, or even on camels.

Among all those who were traveling toward the little town of Bethlehem were Mary and Joseph. Mary was riding on a donkey and Joseph was walking beside her.

Joseph was anxious to find a place for them to sleep that night because Mary was to have a little baby and he wanted a warm and cozy place for them. But every house where people could stay—every inn—was filled.

At last they found a stable to sleep in. And in that stable, with the sweet smell of hay, with the soft breathing of donkeys and, perhaps, little lambs, Mary's baby was born—Jesus, the little Christ Child. And Mary, his mother, wrapped him closely round and round with linen, as they did in those days to newborn babies, and laid him in—not a little crib—but in a manger right there in the stable.

Over this baby Christ Child's funny little bed, high in the dark blue sky, a star seemed to shine with great brilliance. And shepherds tending their sheep far off thought the star beckoned them to the baby Jesus. And three great kings thought, too, that the bright star in the blue night sky beckoned them to the baby Jesus.

So they all followed the star until it led them to the manger where the tiny baby lay. And they knelt down—and the three kings laid precious gifts before the little baby Christ.

This is only a suggestion for you if you need one for the Christmas story—a bare outline for you to fill in and finish in your own way to suit your own little child.

Recommended Cure for a Vanished Love Is Try for Another

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"He just stopped seeing me. I have tried to forget him, but I cannot. When I am out with other boys it is of him I am thinking all the time."

Thus runs the confession of another forgotten girl. There are any number of young women who report the forgotten girl plight. Perhaps it's for the last two months, the last six, and sometimes for years that the girl carries the old love image with her everywhere. She knows she's through so far as the particular young man is concerned, but she can't forget him.

It doesn't sound reasonable or just to oneself to go on pining for the one who won't come back, now does it? The performance is a survival of the so-called romantic old era when women died pining for love. A ruined love career is just about all you get for your unrequited heart pangs.

Girls are supposed to be smarter today, more realistic in this matter of emotional exchange, more honest with themselves, more willing to accept Mr. D. Cupid's vagaries as part of the game.

The trick, then, is to serve them attractive bait. Certainly no young woman going around in a trance mooning for a presence that is not near, is likely to interest an attractive substitute.

Of course, you can forget these old passions. It isn't as easy as discarding an old frock, naturally. But it can be done. You can sweep your mind clean and clear of No. 1 if you really want to. There's no better recommendation for the broom work than another young man.

Sue Producer to Recover $200,000 on Lehar Music

VIENNA, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Proceedings were begun today against Hubert Marischka, well known theatrical producer and singer, for the recovery of $200,000 royalties allegedly due on the operettas of Franz Lehar during the last 10 years. Police visited Marischka's home today, but spared the singer's arrest because the authorities did not wish to interfere with Christmas performances of the operettas in Vienna. Marischka has spent some time in the United States in recent years.

CANADIEN SEXTET DEFEATS BLACKHAWKS, 4-1

CARDINALS WIN, 21-0; BEARS BEAT MEMPHIS, 30-13

COAST STARS STRIKE; DELAY PLAY HALF HOUR

Pardonner Scores on 60 Yard Run.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 23.—[Special.]—After holding out for more money and delaying the kickoff 28 minutes while 5,000 awaited in the stands, the California Giants were defeated, 21 to 0, today by the Chicago Cardinals of the National Professional Football league.

The holdout members of the Giants, all California boys playing their first year of pro football, will be forever barred as National league possibilities, Manager Arch Wolfe of the Cardinals insisted after the game.

The holdout leader was Louis Diresta, former California end. Finally, with their demands granted, the Giants took the field and held the Cardinals scoreless through the first half.

Cards Come to Earth.

In the second half the Cardinals, abandoning their fancy forward and lateral pass plays, twice sent Full Back Mike Mikulak charging over the goal. Paul Pardonner ran sixty yards through a broken field for the third touchdown.

Though the Giants, unbeaten in the Pacific Coast Professional league season, offered stubborn resistance in the first half, they were outclassed throughout.

Starting the third period, Mikulak, Cook and Griffith made four consecutive first downs in a 52 yard march to the 1 yard line. Mikulak ploughed over right guard for the touchdown and Cook kicked the extra point.

Pardonner Breaks Away.

Jim Keefer fumbled as Frank Greene tackled him and Herb Duggins recovered for the Cardinals on the Giant 18 yard line in the fourth period. Mikulak plunged through tackle on the first play for his second touchdown. Bill Smith kicked the point.

A moment later Pardonner broke off left tackle, cut back for the side lines and ran 60 yards for the last Cardinal score. He drop kicked the extra point.

BEARS WIN EASILY

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 23.—[Special.]—Power, speed and skill of the Chicago Bears' football team provided 3,523 fans with a thrilling afternoon today as the National league team defeated the Memphis Tigers, 30 to 13.

Two minutes after the opening kickoff the Bears had a touchdown and the game was definitly decided. The Tigers, fighting valiantly but vainly, resorted to passes to score twice, but were unable to cope with the Bears' exceptional power.

Beattie Feathers, Tennessee star last year, stood out in the Bear attack along with Bronko Nagurski, Jack Manders and Keith Molesworth.

Feathers Goes Over.

Feathers scored the Bears' second touchdown in the second quarter after Molesworth had counted in the first. Manders went over in the last period. Luke Johnsos, end, made the fourth Chicago touchdown. Manders place kicked a 47 yard field goal in the first period.

The most sensational scoring plays, however, were accomplished by the Tigers. A 50 yard return of a punt by Red Sausselle was followed by a 35 yard pass from Red Tobin to Sausselle for the first Memphis touchdown in the second quarter. With seconds left to play in the fourth period, Dale Burnett, borrowed from the New York Giants, threw two passes to Burl Robinson, Memphis end, to gain 60 yards and a touchdown. Burnett's passing climaxed a day of exceptional play for the Giant star.

Red Grange was unable to play because of a broken toe sustained in the game with the Brooklyn Dodgers at Knoxville yesterday.

DURNELL TURNS TO ILLINOIS FOR TURF LICENSE

Great Trainer Continues Fight to Come Back.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Bumped right into a Christmas story on State street yesterday, for who should be in the crowd of eleventh hour window shoppers but Charles E. [Boots] Durnell, one of the most widely known trainers of race horses in the world.

There was a wistful look in the eyes of this quiet gray haired man, yet he did a pretty good job of saying "Merry Christmas." Only a patient, optimistic fellow who has traveled all the ups and downs of the horse tracks could maintain such enthusiasm.

Things haven't gone so well for this one time spectacular race track character. But has he quit hanging up his stocking on Christmas eve? No, he has not. And all he wants in it this year is a license to train race horses—a thing which the queer maneuverings of fate have denied him for many years.

Even Royalty Involved.

His case, one of the strangest on record in American racing, at times has been of international importance. It involved millionaires, members of the exclusive New York Jocky club set, a queen of a European nation, American ambassadors, and a number of the most colorful of all American race track plungers.

As a young trainer back in the early part of the century, Durnell attracted attention. He had formed a partnership with Emil Herz, gambler, bookmaker, and breeder of thoroughbreds. The new firm startled the country one day by paying $17,500 for the race horse McChesney.

Under Durnell's training McChesney became the sensation of racing. Few horses were able to beat him. Durnell bought the colt from the late Sam Hildreth. A year later he sold him back to Hildreth for $30,000.

Hooks Up with Gates.

Durnell's success during the next few years was spectacular. It brought him into close contact with John W. [Bet a Million] Gates. Some of Gates' horses even raced in Durnell's name.

So far only good fortune had come to Durnell.

In 1907 a horse by the name of Israelite was racing in New York in the ownership of Frank Brown. Durnell took a fancy to the horse, claimed him, and in Durnell's silks Israelite won six straight races. Each time the horse went to the post Gates wagered $50,000 on him.

That was the beginning of Durnell's trouble. It developed that the late James R. Keene had presented this royally bred horse to a young acquaintance closely associated with the

McSpaden Is Pasadena Golf Meet Victor

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Despite a shaky finish, Harold McSpaden, professional of the Quivera Country club, Kansas City, Kas., today won the Pasadena open golf tournament with its first prize of $1,000, shooting 70—67—71—73—281.

Tied for second place were Ted Longworth, Portland, Ore., and Dick Metz, youthful Chicago professional, with 286 totals, five strokes back of the 26 year old Kansan. They shared $1,000.

Trouble caught up with McSpaden on the final nine after he had burned up the course for 63 holes. He finished with three bogies and walked off the tee thinking he had kicked away his chance for the title.

After starting out on the first nine of the last round in 34, two under par, he slipped to a 39 on the home stretch. This gave him his first round over par, a 73.

But those who had a chance to overtake McSpaden were having their troubles, too. Metz, who was one under par with nine holes to play, also finished with a 73 and failed to close up the gap.

John Revolta of Milwaukee staggered home with a 76, his second of the day, and dropped far behind. Charles Guest, the other pro within striking distance, who had pulled himself up into a tie for the lead with a sensational 66 yesterday, finished with a 76 and a 77 today for 290 strokes.

Fourth place money at $350 was collected by Victor Ghezzi of Deal, N. J., who settled down to a nice 70 on the final round after taking 74 this morning. Horton Smith took a 288.

KEARNEY BOOKS 3 HORSES AT 4-1 IN $100,000 RACE

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Time Supply, Equipoise, and Cavalcade were equal favorites in the Santa Anita $100,000 handicap in the futures book announced today by Tom Kearney, St. Louis betting commissioner.

The three horses were offered at 4 to 1 to win, 2 to 1 to place and even to show. Twenty Grand was listed at 10 to 1 to win in the book, 5 to 1 to place and 5 to 2 to show.

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

[Copyright: 1934: By The Chicago Tribune.]

ROGERS HORNSBY continues one of the most popular managers of all time with newspaper writers from all major league cities. . . . Many of the authors say they know Hornsby has made a lot of grievous personal mistakes, all of which have harmed him more than any one else, but they swear by him as a square shooter and a pal in so far as relations with the press are concerned. . . . Not long ago a large group of writers was gathered around Bill Terry in the vague hope they might hear something besides a growl. . . . Hornsby came along, and though no one was interested in his Browns the whole gang arose and trouped away with him, leaving Terry in solitude. . . . And Terry burned up, it is said, not at losing the company but at the obvious expression of social preference. . . . There is only one baseball writer against whom Goose Goslin, Detroit outfielder, holds a grudge. . . . He is from Washington and once wrote: "Goslin was hit on the head by a pitched ball. They rushed the ball to a hospital for an examination." . . . Jack Manders made 68 of his 86 points this fall by kicking.

Clark Shaughnessy of Chicago once signed to coach Louisiana State, it is reported, and Senator Long later tried to get him again, but the Maroon coach always sidestepped the offer. . . . The Kansas football team hasn't defeated Nebraska at Lincoln since 1896. . . . Herman Everhardus of Michigan, back field coach at Penn State, is developing a reputation as a bowler. . . . Life is just a constant round of testimonial dinners for Milt Olander of Illinois, who will leave the coaching staf next month to become personnel director of a glass manufacturing company. . . . Tim Mara says that in all the games his New York Giants have played against the Bears he has prayed from the first quarter on that the whistle would blow ending the contest, but in the championship engagement he hoped play would continue for hours. . . . The latest fad in wrestling is a free-for-all bout in which six grapplers start.

Gabby Street, driving to the minor league meeting, inquired of a rural Kentuckian the distance to Louisville. . . . "The way you're going it's 25,000 miles, but if you turn around and head north you can make it in 30," answered the farmer. . . . In its last three games Western Maryland allowed its foes only one first down. . . . Georgetown made that, while Bucknell and Mount St. Mary's made none. . . . The St. Andrews club at Hope, N. Y., organized in 1888, is the oldest golf club in the United States. . . . It may not be significant, but there's a Boozer on the Alabama football team. . . . Green Bay completed 63 forward passes in 150 tries in National league competition this season. . . . Seven major league clubs are bidding for Irving Bartling, Michigan State first baseman. . . . If you can believe the newspapers, and once in a while they are reliable, Coach Zuppke didn't make a single speech in Los Angeles yesterday.

Ten Years Ago Today—Charles Comiskey signed Eddie Collins to manage the White Sox for one year. . . . Sixty thousand were expected to watch Missouri play Southern California. . . . Bob Zuppke and Knute Rockne were opposed to having the pass rules altered. . . . Roger Conti, French billiard star, established a new world's 18.2 balk line record when he ran 477.

Night Cry Wins in Panama and Pays $1,146 for $2

PANAMA, Dec. 23.—(AP)—The American horse, Night Cry, won a race at the Juan Franco track today and paid its backers at the rate of $1,146 for $2 to win. It was the highest priced long shot that ever came home a winner at this track.

St. Louis Sends Patterson Back to Detroit Red Wings

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 23.—(AP)—George Patterson, right wing and center who came to the St. Louis Eagles Hocky team on option recently, was sent back to the Detroit Red Wings today, the Eagles' manager, George Boucher, announced.

New York, Dec. 23.—(AP)—The Detroit Red Wings came from behind tonight to defeat the New York Americans, 2 to 1, in a National Hocky league game before 12,000.

For the greater part of two periods Detroit was hard pressed.

It scored the tying goal early in the third period as the climax of a series of four-man rushes. Near the finish it broke through again for the winning counter when Lorne Duguid fired a long one from outside the New York defense and Tommy Anderson deflected the puck into an unguarded corner of the net.

Shot Put Record Broken in South American Meet

SANTIAGO, Chile, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Hans Conrad set a new South American record for the shot put today as the national athletic tournament ended after two days of competition. Conrad's winning toss in the shot put was 14.94 meters [49 feet, 7-32 inch.]

CORNELL ALTERS ATHLETIC POLICY; WILL SEEK STARS

Approves Scholarships, but Won't Buy Material.

Ithaca, N. Y., Dec. 23.—(AP)—The committee on athletic control tonight restated Cornell's attitude toward football, and expressed itself as unalterably opposed to the buying of football material, but left the door open for the granting of scholarships to athletes, provided that "character and brains remain the primary consideration."

Indicating a marked change in policy without altogether departing from the university's traditional attitude toward athletics, the committee said that "if, by coöperative efforts within alumni organizations, small scholarship funds become available," it saw no reason "in the ethics of the situation why such scholarship benefits should not be extended to men with athletic ability, provided only that character and brains remain the primary consideration."

Alumni Protest Weak Teams.

The committee's statement, issued through the chairman, Herman Diederichs, was in direct reply to a recent editorial, entitled "The Trouble with Cornell Football," published in the Cornell Alumni News. It likewise was in response to alumni agitation over Cornell's mediocre showing in football for the last half dozen years.

Some observers felt the committee's new attitude toward scholarships indicated recognition of the fact that competition for scholars and athletes was such that something had to be done to maintain Cornell's standards—scholastic and athletic.

Alumni agitation over Cornell's ill fortune on the gridiron originally was aimed at Gilmour [Gloomy Gil] Dobie, veteran coach. In recent months, however, this tendency to blame the coach has died almost completely.

The Cornell Alumni News editorial, published Dec. 13, suggested that there were four things Cornell could do about its poor football showing: One, take it and like it; two, drop football; three, buy material; four, develop an efficient system in which the sole compensation is the advantages of Cornell as its alumni have come to know them.

Cornell Can Take It.

The committee statement considered these suggestions, and said that Cornell always has taken it whether it liked it or not. It declined to consider it likely that football would be dropped. It suggested that measures already were being taken to cover the fourth alternative, pointing to the fact that efforts were being made to foster closer relations with secondary and preparatory schools and that the university now was in more intimate contact with its alumni throughout the land.

As for the third alternative, the committee said Cornell never would buy football material, but that the new policy on scholarships might serve to bring a greater number of athletic scholars to Cornell.

Solem Says He Has No Intention of Leaving Iowa

Boone, Ia., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Ossie Solem, football coach and athletic director at the University of Iowa, said here today he had no intention of leaving the Hawkeye institution.

The Iowa coach, mentioned as possible successor to Dick Hanley, who resigned at Northwestern, in an interview here said he was perfectly satisfied at Iowa.

"I have no intention of leaving Iowa," Solem said. "I am too happy in my present position and I intend to devote my time to building for the future of Iowa."

Solem and his wife were visiting today at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Moats, Boone. Solem will leave tomorrow for Minneapolis to be with his mother Christmas.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Leroy Goldsworthy, Blackhawk forward, now loaned to the Montreal Canadiens, last night scored a goal at the very outset of the Hawks' game with the Canadiens at Chicago Stadium, thus starting a surge of production against the interests of his owners, that wound up with the Hawks on the suffering end of a 4 to 1 score. More than 12,000 saw the game.

The Hawks were obliged to wait until the third period before Johnny Gottselig got the goal which kept the world champs from feeling the embarrassment of two shut outs on two successive nights.

Locking, McGill Fight.

The disappointment of the fans at the outcome of the game was relieved somewhat by a real earnest fist fight and the pinching of an alleged missil throwing spectator in the closing minutes of the show. The fist fight was waged by Jack McGill, who had scored two of the Canadien goals and was feeling quite high-strung as a consequence, and Norman Locking. McGill was given two minor penalties and Locking drew a major. The game did not last long enough for either to serve his team.

A spectator who gave his name as Goodwin Johnson and his address as 40 East Oak street, was seized by the police for throwing a bottle on the ice after attendants had finished cleaning up a shower of débris hurled at the referees. The management had been making its first concerted drive against the type of spectators which for many seasons had been unable to surpress hoodlum instincts at hocky games. Lives have been endangered at times and police were asked to halt the practice. Johnson asked permission "to apologize to the sports public through the press" for his burst of violent partisanship. He was detained by the police for two hours but released after his apology.

Hawks Still In Lead.

Despite the harrowing events of the evening, the Hawks remained in first place in the American division of the National Hocky league.

Goldsworthy registered his goal 3 minutes and 6 seconds after the game started. Jack Riley took the puck out of a face off in middle ice, carried it across the blue line, then passed to Goldsworthy who had overtaken him to a point about 10 feet in front of the net. The loaned Hawk loosed a hard shot which beat Goalie Chabot with something to spare.

The teams fought zealously but without effect throughout the last 15 minutes of the first period and for the first 8 minutes of the second session. Then, in 8:30 of the second period, the Canadiens precipitated a scrimmage in the region of the Hawk cage. Silvio Mantha and LaRochelle bounced the rubber across and under Chabot's toes until the Hawk goalie lost sight of it. As Chabot sought to locate the disc under one of his boots, McGill rushed up and drove home the score with a short whack.

The score became 3 to 0 in favor of the visitors in 13:30 of the second period. McFadyen apparently had intercepted a pass from La Rochelle to Joliat but when Donnie started to skate away he left the puck directly in front of the cage. Joliat jumped on the opportunity and, with a backward swish, flicked home the goal.

Gottselig Gets a Goal.

When George Mantha was sent to the penalty box for tripping March early in the third period the Hawks put on four forwards. The strategy worked for a goal in 5:50. Thompson, Morenz, March, and Gottselig laid down a merry barrage which ended in Gottselig's getting the puck for a beautiful goal from six feet inside the blue line. All the forwards on with Gottselig were given assists.

McGill put over his second marker from close in in 9:50 of the final period. A melée got Chabot out of the nets, whereupon Thompson and Couture tried to guard the cage from sitting positions. But McGill's poke was too fast for their grasping mittens and Canadien goal No. 4 was marked up.

BAER, LEVINSKY REALLY MEAN TO PUT ON A FIGHT

Champion Denies It Will Be an Exhibition.

Any one who thinks the four round heavyweight boxing match between Champion Max Baer and King Levinsky at Chicago Stadium Friday will be an exhibition and not a fight has another guess coming.

Since commencing drills more than two weeks ago Levinsky indicated as much by his training labors. Yesterday Baer said the same in no uncertain terms. A recent announcement by the Illinois athletic commission, declaring the impending meeting would be a fight, made it unanimous.

Max Wants 6 Ounce Gloves.

The champion went one better than the commission, however, when he declared he will demand that six ounce gloves be used. The board had ruled that gloves weighing at least eight ounces will be in order.

Asked whether or not Friday's encounter was an exhibition Max shouted:

"Exhibition, hell; it's a fight!"

Baer initiated daily training a week ago in the east. He did chores yesterday in his loop hotel quarters with his heavyweight brother, Buddy Baer. Buddy clashes with Gene Stanton of Cleveland, O., on the Stadium card. Baer will train this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at Trafton's gymnasium by going a few rounds with Pete Wistort of South Chicago.

Explains Movie Contract.

In answer to the report that a movie contract would be voided in case he is defeated by Levinsky the champion said:

"If I lose the newspaper decision the movie moguls are not expected to raise a fuss. But in case I'm knocked out who cares to go through with the agreement? I'm sure I don't."

Baer does not believe he can lose his title if the bout goes the limit and the Kingfish earns an unofficial decision. A knockout conquest by Levinsky would give the latter the crown, he said. In the event I'm knocked out I wouldn't want to be called champion, Max added.

"I'm not going to be knocked out, however," Baer said. "I want to defend the title against a suitable challenger at Soldiers' field next July. A knockout defeat would preclude that possibility and the purse I receive for the Levinsky contest would be only a drop in the bucket compared to the money I could obtain in a legitimate 15 round title defense. No, sir! I mustn't lose. It's going to be too bad for Mr. Levinsky."

To Meet Babe Hunt.

Supremely confident that Levinsky will not cause him much trouble Baer has arranged a schedule which will last all this month and next. After his tussle with the Chicago Kingfish, Baer will go to Detroit, Mich., to box four rounds there Jan. 4 against Babe Hunt of Ponca City, Okla. Buddy will fight Jack O'Dowd four rounds in another encounter on the program which will be headed by a ten round rumpus between Joe Louis and Patsy Perroni.

Then Baer and his party will head for Florida for four dates, after which the group will go to Boston, Mass. Max is booked for four rounds against Jack Madden and Buddy is tentatively matched with Babe Hunt in that city Jan. 18. The schedule includes stops at Tulsa, Okla., Jan. 19; Oklahoma City Jan. 20, and Wichita, Kas., Jan. 21. The windup of the tour will be in California where Max has promised to head a benefit show between Jan. 24 and Feb. 1 for the widow of Frank Campbell, who died after a contest with the champion.

Barney Ross of Chicago will defend his junior welterweight crown against Frank Klick, San Francisco, Cal., at Miami, Fla., Jan. 28, 29, or 30. The exact date will be set a few days after Promoter Mike Jacobs of New York arrives in Miami to look over several prospective sites for the arena.

Ross is due to return from a vacation at Hot Springs, Ark., Jan. 3 or 4 to begin drills. Klick has opened workouts in New York.

Joe Foley, Chicago promoter, boarded an airplane yesterday for Louisville, Ky., where he will spend the holidays with his 74 year old mother. . . . The state boxing commission meeting slated for today has been postponed until Wednesday. . . . The shows booked at Marigold Gardens and Midway arena tonight have been canceled. . . . Ancil Hoffman, Max Baer's manager, is in New York conferring with Madison Square Garden officials relative to an appointment as matchmaker to replace James J. Johnston. . . . It is understood that Jack Dempsey may be named matchmaker, with Hoffman listed associate matchmaker. . . . Hoffman is due in the loop today.

Frank Mulkern of Milwaukee, Wis., has bought Dave Maier's contract from Ernie Fliegal of Minneapolis, Minn., for a reported $900. . . . Maier will make his first appearance under the new management against Charley Belanger at Milwaukee New Year's afternoon. . . . Tait Littman, Cudahy, Wis., middleweight, and Al Diamond of New Jersey are matched in the ten round main event. F. M.

CONNIE MACK, 72, HAS BIRTHDAY ON OCEAN LINER

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Connie Mack, veteran manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, celebrated his birthday anniversary at sea today for the first time in his 72 years.

Six of his own team were present to congratulate him, as their liner ploughed across the Pacific toward Vancouver, bearing homeward the American league all-star team from Japan.

Mack, whose full name is Cornelius McGillicuddy, was born in 1862, and has been chasing pennants most of his life. He entered professional baseball in 1884 and has managed the Athletics since 1901.

ROSS CELEBRATES 25TH BIRTHDAY AT HOT SPRINGS

Hot Springs, Ark., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Barney Ross, lightweight boxing champion, observed his 25th birthday today and said his present ambition was to beat Jimmy McLarnin, welterweight titleholder, in a return match.

Accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Sarah Rasofsky, and his manager, Art Winch, Ross came here from Chicago Friday for the holidays.

Barney, who in the space of five years rose from the amateur ranks to win the junior welterweight, lightweight and welterweight championships, said he and McLarnin would meet again next summer.

"I sincerely believe I will win our next scrap," he added.

Ross took McLarnin's welterweight title in a close fight in New York. In a second meeting, McLarnin was awarded the decision.

Ross said he had passed up vaudeville and motion picture offers "because I don't think they mix with boxing." He plans to go to Florida after his vacation here.

Alderman Kiley Will Give Party for Needy Children

Ald. Roger Kiley, former Notre Dame football star, will give a Christmas party this morning for 3,000 needy and crippled children in the 37th ward at the State theater, 5814 Madison street. Guests at the party will be given autographed footballs.

Durnell Turns to Illinois for Turf License

New York Jocky club. The acquaintance for some reason or other preferred to have the horse run in Brown's name.

Jocky Club Bars Him.

The claiming of the horse, the subsequent string of his victories, the enormous cleanup Gates had made, aroused the ire of a certain faction in the Jocky club and the word was sent to Durnell that he had better quit racing in New York and that it would be well if in the future he would refrain from applying for a trainer's license there.

He sold his horses and traveled to Europe. The earl of Carnarvon, who later died of an insect's bite while exploring an Egyptian tomb, was his first employer. His success with Lord Carnarvon's horses attracted wide attention throughout Europe. The then Queen Marie, now the dowager queen of Rumania, decided he was the man to train the Rumanian royal stable horses.

Ambassador Intercedes.

Rumors of Durnell's tiff with the New York Jocky club had reached Rumania. Before he could get a license to train the queen's horses it became necessary for Ambassador Hay from the United States to get a letter from the late August Belmont, then chairman of the Jocky club in New York, carrying the statement that Durnell was not in bad standing with the New York turf ruling body.

From Rumania he moved to Russia and was the leading trainer there until the revolution came along. Then he returned to America.

He had not forgotten the warning he had received back in 1907 from New York's Jocky club, so he stayed away from the tracks in that state. But to stay away from racing entirely was too much for him. He gathered together a stable and raced in Kentucky, Illinois, Louisiana, and other states.

Trains for Waggoner.

Later he sold his own horses and became the trainer of the Three D's stock farm stable of Texas. This was a millionaire's establishment and the wealthy owner, the late W. T. Waggoner, had ambitious plans, including a campaign in New York.

Waggoner applied for an owner's license to race there and unbeknownst to Durnell at the same time he applied for a trainer's license for him. The latter's license was not granted. Word of this action reached the turf governing bodies in other states. They had long recognized the rulings of the Jocky club of New York and in this case made no exceptions.

Appeals to Illinois Board.

Finally Durnell made his plea for a trainer's license to the Illinois racing commission. This is a comparatively young commission, but already has become noted for the "square deal" rulings it has made.

Durnell's case and all the evidence pertaining to it is being weighed now by the members of the commission.

Still, two members of the commission are in Florida and it may be some time before the three members can get together and drop the trainer's license into Durnell's empty stocking.

CHRISTMAS TREE MAKES HOLIDAY SEASON FESTIVE

North Woods Supplies True Yule Atmosphere.

BY BOB BECKER.

Fragrant spruce and balsam trees cut in the snow blown north woods, where they have been looking down upon deer trails and the tracks of other wild animals, and gay colored holly and mistletoe from out of the southland are brought together in Chicagoland this week to become important parts of our celebration of Christmas. Thus all of us draw upon nature's resources to give atmosphere and a festive background to our homes. In fact, most of us who stay in the north for the Christmas holiday would consider the observance of this day quite incomplete without the red of the holly berries and the green of evergreens on our doors, in the windows, or elsewhere around the home.

The practice of using branches or even flowers as tokens of festivity apparently has existed for countless centuries.

Dates from the Druids.

It is known that the pagans followed such a practice in the early days. In fact, if we go back to the time of the Druids we find records of their decorating their houses with evergreens at this time of the year. In the early days of England the holly, the ivy, the laurel, the rosemary, and the mistletoe were commonly used for decorations during the Christmas season, and if we dig deep enough into these old customs we find mention of the practice of putting up a "bough in the living room," the smaller branches of which are hung with little presents.

Holly has been associated with Christmas for a long time. The English especially considered it a very appropriate decoration for the Christmas season, because of its dark glossy leaves and brilliant scarlet berries.

Christmas Tree Most Esteemed.

But of all the green things we bring into the home at this time of the year no one kind receives higher esteem than the Christmas tree, the little balsam or spruce which grows in the north woods. They are so trim, so green, so fragrant, and bring into the home so many pleasant outdoor associations that we are reluctant to see ours leave the inside of the house for service as a bird feeding station after Jan. 1.

Due to the snowfall last week and the practice of many distributors of Christmas trees of standing up the trees in piles of snow while they are on display, a majority of the trees going up in homes today may be not as dried out as in former years. However, there is a method of keeping the tree fairly fresh and green in the home, one so simple that any one can work it. Cut off about a half inch of the base of the tree. This exposes fresh cells in the main branch. When you set up the tree in the house tonight, simply rest the base of it in a pan of water to which has been added a little sugar. The tree will be able to absorb some of this water and thus keep its needles much fresher.

ST. MEL DEFEATS ST. PATRICK FOR TITLE, 27 TO 25

Basket in Final Minute Wins Tournament.

In a thrilling contest in which the score was deadlocked three times, St. Mel defeated St. Patrick, 27 to 25, to win the championship of the first annual pre-season invitational high school basketball tournament sponsored by St. George of Evanston last night.

St. Mel took the lead, 8 to 5, at the end of the first quarter, but St. Patrick came back to lead, 17 to 15, at the half. Close guarding featured the third quarter, with the Pats holding a 21 to 19 edge but just at the gun, Hayes cut loose with a basket to tie the count.

Crowd Goes Wild.

The last period had the capacity crowd of 2,000 hysterical. Palm registered a short shot, but Porcoro matched it to tie the score at 23-23. Then Pare put in an underhand basket. It was nullified shortly after, when Pare fouled Raynor. The latter made good his two free throws to make it 25 to 25.

There were 30 seconds remaining when Neu counted a short basket that won the battle.

De Paul academy took third place by defeating St. Patrick, Kankakee, 34 to 27, in another fast game.

Evans Leads Scoring.

Evans, De Paul center, made eight baskets and two free throws. Huot, forward of the downstate team, registered six baskets, three of which were made in the last minute of play.

De Paul jumped into an early lead and was out in front, 22 to 13, at half time.

32 Quintets Enter U. of C. Prep Tourney

Twenty-six Chicago high school basketball teams and six from the suburbs have entered the University of Chicago's fifth annual Christmas week tournament, which opens at the Midway fieldhouse Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Deerfield-Shields and Fenger will meet in the opening first-round game.

The schedule calls for eight first round games Wednesday, beginning every hour on the hour; eight contests Thursday, and eight second round games Friday. Four quarter-final games will be played Saturday, divided between afternoon and evening. Semi-final games are scheduled Monday evening—New Year's eve—and the championship and third place contests will be held New Year's night. Eight-minute quarters will be used in tournament games.

Lane to Defend Title.

Lane Tech, defending champion, which has several veterans back, is a favorite again this year. Lane defeated Parker, 25 to 16, in the final last year. Roosevelt, Marshall, Hyde Park and Harrison are other strong city contenders, and La Grange and Deerfield-Shields are regarded as outstanding among suburban entries.

Deerfield-Shields, St. Charles, York, Sullivan, Harper, Kelvyn Park and University, which were not in the meet last year, are in this year's bracket. They replace Proviso, Morton, Farragut, Englewood, Bloom, Maine Township and Lake View.

Replaces Stagg Tourney.

Previous winners of the Christmas week tournament, which replaced the famous Stagg National Interscholastic five years ago when the latter was discontinued because of the opposition of the C. W. Whitten group of prep athletic authorities, have been Lindblom, Morton, Downers Grove, and Lane.

First round games this year are:

WEDNESDAY.

1 p. m.—Deerfield-Shields vs. Fenger.
2 p. m.—Austin vs. Hirsch.
3 p. m.—Lindblom vs. St. Charles.
4 p. m.—Riverside-Brookfield vs. McKinley.
5 p. m.—Marshall vs. York.

Boston Store Is 4-1 Victor Over Oak Park Sextet

Scoring three goals in the last period, the Boston Store team opened it's Chicago Hocky league season at the Stadium yesterday afternoon by defeating Oak Park, 4 to 1, to go into a tie for the league lead with the Jellow Jackets and Jones & Baumrucker.

More than 2,500 fans watched the double header. In the opener, the Shamrocks defeated the Whiting Macs of Indiana, 7 to 2.

The Oak Parkers were first to score, Lilly beating Goalie Harper after taking a combination pass from Landrie and Schwedfeger in 5:30 of the second period. The lead lasted until Kovin teamed up with Hendrickson and Cotlow to tie the score in 13 minutes.

The Merchants got going early in the final period, Heliste scoring in 2:08, and Edwards counting from the blue line in 4:39. Hendrickson made the final goal in 11:02 with the assistance of Art Samec and Mike Kovin.

The Shamrocks also came from behind to win their first league game. Trailing 1 to 0, at the end of the first period, they came back with two goals in the second session, and then ran wild in the final period to score five times. Ping Hill led the Shamrocks attack with four goals.

MOON MULLINS—A SIGHT TO BEHOLD

St. Cyr Knocks Setters From Lead, 26 to 24

Damen in the west division and Loyola-Hyde Park in the south were left as the only undefeated teams in the Knights of Columbus basketball league as a result of two upsets yesterday. Setters, unbeaten and tied with Damen for the west division lead, was defeated by St. Cyr, 26 to 24, while Englewood lost to Loyola-Hyde Park, 20 to 16.

Inability to make free throws cost Setters the victory, the team failing on eleven chances. Trailing by five points in the last minute of the first half, St. Cyr staged a rally which pulled it in front, 13 to 11, before the gun sounded. They managed to stay in front the rest of the way. Lineup:

SOUTH DIVISION

Handicapped by the absence of several stars, Englewood was unable to hold Loyola-Hyde Park and dropped into fourth place. The winners had a 16 to 14 advantage at the half, and both teams gave a great exhibition of guarding in the second period, only six points being recorded. The outstanding game on the White City card was Calumet's 17 to 16 victory over Perez to go into a tie with Quigley for second place. Lineups:

KELLEY PETILLO TAKES 200 MILE COAST AUTO RACE

Inglewood, Cal., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Flagged down with five miles to go as a heavy bank of fog rolled across the track, Kelley Petillo of Los Angeles was adjudged winner of the 200 mile dirt track automobile race at Mines field today.

His time was 2 hours 24 minutes, an average of 77.97 miles an hour. One lap behind, and unofficially in second place, was Wilbur Shaw of Los Angeles and Detroit.

Immediately after the race Shaw announced he would lodge a protest with the American Automobile association on the ground the lap checkers failed to credit him with one circuit he actually drove. A recheck was ordered by Arthur Pillsbury, regional director of the AAA, and an official decision was withheld.

The other drivers in their order of position when the race was hastily halted:

Floyd Roberts, Los Angeles, driving relief for Hepburn, third.
George [Doc] McKenzie, Eddington, Pa., fourth.
Chet Gardner, Long Beach, fifth.
Al Gordon, Indianapolis, sixth.
William Cantlon, Detroit, seventh.
Bill Cummings, Indianapolis, eighth.
Al Miller, Detroit, ninth.
Frank Birscoe, Milwaukee, tenth.

Miami, Fla., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Scott High school's football team of North Braddock, Pa., arrived here tonight to play Miami High in Miami's fifth annual Christmas day intersectional contest. Both teams were undefeated this season.

Children's Billiard Meet Planned at Stevens Hotel

A children's billiard contest will be conducted at the Stevens hotel children's playground Dec. 29 and 30 and Jan. 5 and 6. Boys will try their skill at rotation pocket billiards on the first dates, while girls will compete on the second dates.

In the Wake of the News

EARLIER CHICAGO.

SOMEWHERE IN TEXAS, Dec. 23.—[Special.]—Dear Wake: Fire drills, then practiced and still practiced, no doubt prevented panic and tragedy when fire broke out in the Irving school on Lexington street near Leavitt, of which the late Prof. Vanswoll was principal in 1887.

Shortly before 3 o'clock the cry of fire was started in Miss Anna Page's room. It spread to every room in the building, which housed 800 pupils. Without giving thought to their coats, hats, or books, pupils jumped to their feet preparatory to a pell-mell rush which surely would have resulted in fatalities at the landings.

Teachers ran to the doors, held them shut, and sternly commanded the children to return to their seats. Then the danger bells, with which the pupils were familiar from previous drills, sounded. At the first stroke the pupils gathered their clothing. At the second they formed in lines. At the third they marched hastily from their classrooms to the street. No one was hurt.

The fire was caused by an overheated furnace and flames were eating their way into the dressing room when Miss Page detected the odor of burning wood flooring and marshaled her pupils for the safety march. The fire department soon subdued the blaze. That panic was averted was due to the coolness of the teachers and the safety drills. Theresa of Old St. Joe.

When Potter Palmer was about to marry Bertha Honore, later in charge of women's activities of the World's Fair of 1893, one of her brothers asked my husband who worked there to show him the bridal chamber at the Palmer house.

All fittings and furnishings were of blue satin, including couch, chairs, window drapes, bedspread, and pillow coverings. The bed was a four poster affair, reached by mounting three steps at its side. Everything was very gorgeous for those days. H. S.

In Sunny Florida.

Far down in sunny Florida
One finds delightful charm;
The pine trees wave their graceful fronds
In zephyrs soft and warm.
Hibiscus hedge and flowering vine
And citrous blossoms sweet
Display their lavish beauty there
On many a quiet street.
The beaches, with their pounding surf,
Long avenues of sand,
Call to the souls of human ants:
"Enjoy this fairyland."
The sapphire sea, the mystic keys
Invite one to explore,
To sail, to fish, to fly, to wish
One lived forever on this shore.
But there must be another side,
Some features strange and weird;
Each live-oak tree that spoke to me
Spoke through a mist gray beard.
In swarms the vultures hang in air,
Garfish possess the streams,
While 'gators rule the everglades
[And often rule one's dreams].
But, land of coconuts and sun,
Which snow and frost decline,
Your coral strands and orange juice
Beguile this heart of mine.
Your mocking birds delight the ear,
Becalm my restless life—
I worship at your Singing Tower
In sweet surcease from strife,
J. B. C.

MISS RAWLS AND FLANAGAN BREAK SWIM RECORDS

Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Two world swimming records were broken today by Katherine Rawls, Fort Lauderdale, and Ralph Flanagan, Coral Gables.

Miss Rawls, the 18 year old girl who made a clean sweep last summer in the National women's aquatic decathlon in New York, clipped three seconds from her own 300 yard medley record for the short course. Her time today was 4:53.

Flanagan, holder of the National free style records and member of the last United States Olympic swimming team, beat the 500 meter free style mark held by Jack Medica, Seattle, Wash., by four seconds. His time today was 6 minutes 20.4 seconds.

The records were timed by three A. A. U. officials in a meet featuring exhibitions by the Colgate university swimming squad. Recognition by the A. A. U. record committee will be asked.

2 Philadelphia Swimmers Break Back Stroke Mark

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 23.—(AP)—William Mackey and Danny Hogan, Philadelphia, today lowered the middle Atlantic A. A. U. 100 yard backstroke record in a competition in which 20 swimmers qualified for the all-star Philadelphia team which will meet Ohio State University next Thursday. Mackey, a student at Mercerburg academy, clipped 2 and 4-10 seconds off his own middle Atlantic mark of 1 minute 6 1-10 seconds. Hogan also bettered the record. Mackey was caught in 1:03 7-10 at the finish; Hogan in 1:04 6-10.

Paul Pirrone Signs to Box Vince Dundee Jan. 14

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Paul Pirrone of Cleveland and Vince Dundee, Newark, N. J., will meet here in a ten round bout on Jan. 14, it was announced today by Taylor and Gunnis, fight promoters. Pirrone knocked out Mickey Walker in his last start in Philadelphia.

Star Stanford Cripples Near Best of Form

Stanford University, Cal., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Unwilling to let up a moment in preparation for Alabama and the New Year's day Rose Bowl football game, Coach C. E. Thornhill sent the Stanford football team through a snappy workout today.

For an hour and a half the squad ran through signals, tossed passes, and booted the ball, the same daily routine as before but with practice slightly abbreviated in the matter of time.

Cripples Are O. K.

The sick list was fully wiped out again with the appearance of Jack Brown, reserve tackle. He had been under observation for a possible appendectomy.

The most important cripples, Full Back Bobby Grayson and Ends Jim Moscrip and Keith Topping continued to show improvement. Grayson's torn rib cartilages behaved so nicely he was only prevented from throwing passes on orders from his coach. Moscrip's wrenched knee has not troubled him since he donned a uniform last week, while Topping, also recovering from a weakened knee, was able to sprint with the rest today.

17 Leave for Pasadena.

Seventeen members of the squad will leave for Pasadena tomorrow night. Most of those departing live in southern California and will spend Christmas at home. The rest of the quad will accompany Thornhill Dec. 26.

ALABAMA MOVES WEST.

Del Rio, Tex., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Alabama's football special moved westward toward Pasadena today, leaving behind Bill Young, reserve tackle, who underwent an emergency appendicitis operation here last night.

Hospital attendants said Young was recovering satifactorily. Left behind to look after him, Dr. Sam Ledbetter, team physician, and Assistant Coach C. F. Burnum said they believed they could go on safely and engaged passage on a train leaving tonight.

Young, a 220 pounder who had seen considerable service during the 1934 season, was stricken shortly after the Alabama special left San Antonio. The train was stopped here, and was held for two hours while the operation was performed.

College athletes home in Del Rio for the Christmas holidays and other sports enthusiasts here laid plans to entertain Young during his convalescence, to take his mind off the disappointment of missing the Rose Bowl game with Stanford.

NOONAN, FREED CAPTURE MIAMI BEST BALL GOLF

Miami, Fla., Dec. 23.—(AP)—With a sub-par best ball score of 64, Jim Noonan of Chicago, and Howard Freed of Miami, defeated 33 teams to win an amateur-pro golf tournament today. Each had an individual card of 69, three under par.

Tommy Armour and Willie MacFarlane, two former national open champions, played on teams tying for runner up prizes. Armour, aided by Larry G. Ropes, Princeton, N. J., scored a 66, as did MacFarlane and Harvey Draughton, Miami's golfing policeman.

Two teams tied for third place with 67. They were Bruce Howard, Miami, National American Legion champion, and Henry Miller, Kansas City; Bob McDonald, Chicago pro, and Bill Street, Georgia Tech football player.

Celest Durand, amateur of Garden City, L. I., won individual honors with a 68 to tie the amateur course record of the Miami Country club.

Charles Yates, Atlanta, national intercollegiate champion, teamed with Tom Creavy, former P. G. A., titleholder, for a 69. Bill Burke, 1931 open champion, and John Carlisle, chairman of the International Four Ball tournament here in March, scored 73.

U. S. C. COACHING STAF WILL BE REORGANIZED

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 23.—(AP)—The coaching staf of the University of Southern California is to be revised, it was learned today, with the announcement that Gordon Campbell, assistant football coach, has asked to be relieved that he may devote his time to an insurance business.

Jeff Cravath, captain of the 1926 U. S. C. eleven, is expected to replace Campbell. Cravath now is freshman coach at U. S. C.

Formal appointment will not be announced until W. O. Hunter, director of athletics, returns from the national rules committee meeting in the east.

East and West All-Stars Begin Hard Practice

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Football stars of the east and west today went through the first intensive workouts that will lead up to the annual charity game here, New Year's day.

On widely separated fields the 44 players started the drills that will continue for nine days. In slightly more than a week's time the stars who said good-by to collegiate competition this year must master a complement of plays comparable to an ordinary season's assortment.

Each of the players is thoroughly grounded in fundamentals, however, and coaches on each side anticipate less difficulty in producing polished offense and defense than in assembling the strongest unit for starting purposes.

The eastern squad, under Coaches Andy Kerr of Colgate and Dick Hanley, formerly of Northwestern, held a workout at Kezar stadium, where the game will be played. The drill consisted mainly of kicking and passing the ball, running around the field and going over a few plays.

Western players, under Coaches Percy Locey of Denver and Orin Hollingbery of Washington State, moved into Palo Alto and shared the practice field with Stanford's Indians, preparing for their New Year's day Rose Bowl contest with Alabama.

The west squad, assembled for the first time, went through a double drill. The coaches selected two tentative backfields as follows:

Skating Heads Seek Amateur Hocky Control

Charging that amateur ice hocky is being commercialized and professionalized by "companies owning and operating buildings" where the game is played, a joint meeting of the Amateur Skating Union of the United States and the American Olympic speed skating committee at the Morrison hotel yesterday approved a resolution asking the Amateur Athletic union to put control of the sport under the direction of the skating group.

Charge A. A. U. with Laxity.

The resolution, offered by Judge John D. Watts of Detroit, president of the Michigan Skating association, and unanimously approved, contends that the A. A. U., since it assumed direction of amateur hocky, has not kept evils from creeping in.

The A. A. U., according to the resolution, took over control of amateur ice hocky when the U. S. Amateur Hocky association failed to function effectively.

Judge Watts claimed that, under the present setup, the "importation of foreign amateur ice hocky players has created a situation whereby employment has been given foreign labor solely on ability to play ice hocky, in many instances putting Americans out of jobs," and that companies "owning and operating buildings where ice hocky is played have assumed dictatorship over amateur ice hocky for their own monetary gain, in effect professionalizing the game."

Will Choose Specialists.

Frank M. Kalteux, chairman of the 1936 Olympic speed skating committee, presided at a meeting yesterday. It was decided that the team which will represent the United States in the next Olympics will consist of boys who are best at each individual Olympic distance. Thus, the winner of the 500, 1,500, 5,000, and 10,000 meter events at the trials which will be held at Minneapolis on Jan. 12, 13, 19, and 20 will be members of the Olympic team.

Wonderbolts Triumph Over Vikings, 6 to 2

BY OFFSIDE.

The Wieboldt Wonderbolts soccer team yesterday defeated the Vikings, 6 to 2, in a second round game for the Peel cup at De Paul field. The winners, present holders of the trophy, and the Vikings, leaders in the amateur division, met in the only second round contest of the day.

Monroe opened the scoring for the Wonderbolts after three minutes of play, beating Joahanson with a hard drive. Near the end of the first period Dohlen tied the score with a penalty kick. The Vikings went into the lead midway of the second period when Dalquist drove home his team's second score.

Five minutes later Watson put the Wonderbolts back on even terms when he scored with a penalty kick. The victors finally functioned with their fast passing attack, and Coutts, in for Lillie; Neilson, Cuthbert, and Lillie broke through the Viking defense for four more goals. The lineup:

COACHES MEET IN EAST TO DISCUSS RULES' CHANGES

Recruiting Also on Program at Joint Session.

New York, Dec. 23.—[Special.]—The National Collegiate Athletic association will hold its twenty-ninth annual convention here from Wednesday until Saturday.

The American Football Coaches' association, the College Physical Education association, and the American Student Health association have merged their annual conventions with that of the N. C. A. A. in order to prevent the conflicts of previous years, when the meetings were held separately.

With these four associations all taking active part in the convention, virtually the entire field of college athletics will be covered in discussions and report.

Alexander Addresses Coaches.

The meeting will open Wednesday afternoon with a closed council meeting of the N. C. A. A. It will be mainly a business session, at which the reports of the football rules committee and the various local councils will be heard.

On Thursday morning Dana X. Bible of Nebraska will preside at a meeting of the football coaches. W. A. [Bill] Alexander, veteran Georgia Tech coach, is listed as the principal speaker. He will talk on the outstanding plays of last season.

Intramural athletics will be the chief topic at a meeting of the physical education officials Thursday morning. H. Harrison Clarke of Syracuse will preside, and Albert B. Neis, Princeton; A. W. Samborski, Harvard; Dr. J. H. Nichols, Oberlin, and Howard Starr, Colgate, will speak.

A round table discussion on recruiting and subsidizing in intercollegiate athletics by the N. C. A. A. is scheduled for Thursday

SHARP DROP SEEN IN WISCONSIN INCOME TAXES

Estimate Total for 1934 at 33% of 1930.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

State income tax collections in Wisconsin, including all surtaxes, penalties and interest, will total $6,600,000 for 1934, compared with $21,100,000 in 1930, according to an estimate made by the Wisconsin Taxpayers alliance. The decline was due entirely to the drop in incomes since there has been no reduction in rates, it was pointed out.

As a result of the drop in income tax receipts, current revenues of cities, towns and villages from this source will amount to about $2,800,000, compared with the $9,300,000 received in 1930—a decline of $6,500,000. County revenues from income taxes will be about $555,000 in 1934, compared with $1,855,000 in 1930, while the state will receive about $3,200,000 in 1934, compared with $10,000,000 in 1930.

Relief Needs Grow.

While revenues decline, the state is faced with the necessity of raising $9,000,000 for its share of unemployment relief. If relief costs increase more than anticipated, it may be necessary for the state to raise as high as $15,000,000, the alliance says.

The present individual normal income tax is a graduated levy varying from $10 for the first $1,000 of net taxable income to $70 per $1,000 of all net income over $12,000 per year. Consequently the incomes in the higher income groups pay the greater share of present income taxes. A large percentage of the total computed tax on incomes in the lower groups is exempted through personal and dependent deductions, which further increases the burden on those receiving incomes in the higher brackets.

May Hit Small Taxpayer.

The alliance foresees a possibility that the people with the lower incomes may be hit harder in the future, saying that authorities have come to recognize that the lower and middle income groups will have to share a substantial part of the income tax burden if this tax is ever to supply a much greater share of the total taxes than at the present time.

Commenting on the decline in tax revenues, the alliance recalls that the voters of the state in a referendum vote last spring voted three to one for a compulsory old age assistance plan to be financed out of surtaxes on incomes over $15,000, or a tax on labor saving machinery. While this vote is purely advisory, if the legislature adopts the plan, the annual cost will be about $3,500,000. This would be equivalent to a tax of over 20 per cent on incomes of $15,000.

CUDAHY SALES AND EARNINGS HIGHER IN 1934

Net Profit Equals $2.97 a Share.

The Cudahy Packing company last night reported an upturn in both sales and profits for the year ended Oct. 27, 1934. Net earnings were $1,968,262, or $2.97 on the $50 par value common stock after meeting preferred stock dividend requirements. This amply covered common dividend requirements of $2.50 a share.

In the previous year Cudahy net was $1,813,766, or $2.64 on the common. Earnings dropped to 70 cents a share in 1932 and were $3.06 in 1931. Total net sales rose to a greater extent than profits, increasing from $124,300,000 in 1933 to $151,400,000 in 1934.

Satisfied with Outcome.

"While the profit on sales averages considerably less than ¼ cent a pound, yielding a modest return on capital investment," said E. A. Cudahy, chairman of the board, "I think under present industrial conditions we should be satisfied with the result."

Mr. Cudahy said that the drouth and government regulation of production can lead to no other belief than that live stock and meat prices will be higher. He is not apprehensive over the possibility of governmental strangulation of private business.

"I think a growing appreciation in the minds of those in authority that the restoration of prosperity can only be effected through the revival of industry is daily becoming more evident," Mr. Cudahy said.

The packing chief declared that the company never has been confronted with as many entirely new problems as in the last year. The major problem was meeting competition and making a profit in the face of increased costs of doing business and consumer resistance to high prices.

Beef Demand Rises.

Mr. Cudahy noted how the latter works out in referring to a falling off in the demand for pork as processing taxes and other costs were loaded on the price. Fortunately, he said, demand for beef increased, "so readily does the public taste adjust itself to the family pocket book."

"The processing tax on the live weight of hogs slaughtered," he amplified, "has cost us between 9 and 10 million dollars. This in part was our contribution to the $101,945,334 which the Agricultural Adjustment administration recently stated was paid to corn-hog farmers up to Oct. 1."

Wages and salaries amounted to $4,000,000 more in 1934 than in 1933 and the number of employés is greater today than it ever has been before.

The current balance sheet of the company is more detailed than in previous years, but shows no exceptional changes.

Fixed Assets Readjusted.

Rearrangements and adjustments have been made in fixed assets. Farm and mineral lands are set up as a separate item of $1,290,000 and removed from the plant classification. The reserve for depreciation has been cut sharply, due to elimination of depletion representing mineral removed for the company's use and accounted for in the new item. The net value of the fixed assets thus remains at approximately 36 millions.

Inventories hopped up 5 millions to account for most of the 7 million rise in current assets to $35,125,365. Accounts receivable took care of the remainder. Current and accrued liabilities were $15,116,933 to leave the strong working capital position of the company approximately the same as a year ago.

Costs Are Increased.

Operating income of the company was $5,314,165, most of the sales increase being taken by the 9 million increase in the cost of live stock and almost 17 million increase in expenses. A good share of the increase in sales resulted from higher prices, though tonnage was greater, too. The reserve for federal income taxes increased from $252,203 to $414,000.

Earned surplus was slightly reduced because of the deduction of $439,020 for adjustment in book value of certain properties. Dividends on preferred stock required $578,535 and on common stock $1,168,746 to leave a balance of $220,981 from net earnings. Also added to surplus was $140,532 in undistributed earnings of affiliates. This left an earned surplus of $7,742,867, compared with $7,820,374 on Oct. 28, 1933. Addition of the capital surplus of $1,713,529 produced a consolidated surplus of $9,456,396.

RFC WILL SELL ANOTHER BLOCK OF PWA ISSUES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23.—[Special.]—Confidence in the private investment market was again indicated today by the Reconstruction Finance corporation in announcing that on Jan. 9 it would offer at a public sale a $3,619,000 equipment trust certificate issue of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad. It will also sell twenty-three issues of municipal and district bonds of an aggregate face value of $3,033,500.

All these securities were taken over from the Public Works administration. They were purchased by the PWA when conditions in the private market were not favorable. The largest of the municipal issues is $1,078,000 of sanitary sewer fund bonds of Columbus, O. Another in the group is a $200,000 issue of school bonds of Buffalo. Others include $77,000 Evanston, Ill., 4 per cent water works revenue bonds and $58,000 4½ per cent Wilmette, Ill., water works improvement bonds.

In six previous sales of PWA securities the RFC has marketed 151 issues with a face value of $41,491,300 at a total premium of $680,440.

Glass Assails Banking Action of New Deal

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23.—(AP)—In a letter burning with criticism of administration "brain trusters," Senator Carter Glass asserted today the federal reserve board and Federal Deposit Insurance corporation had "usurped" the power of congress by including nonmember state banks in their order reducing interest rates on bank deposits.

SENATOR GLASS.

The letter was addressed to Charles S. Hamlin, member of the reserve board. It said Leo T. Crowley, FDIC chairman, had disclaimed any responsibility for the interest slash. The Virginia Democrat added the reserve board thus "may be held to account for a proceeding which may keep out of the [federal reserve] system hundreds of desirable state banks which will not relish having an untried corporation assume unlawful authority over their business practices."

Glass contended that the agencies had no authority to tell banks not members of the federal reserve system to cut interest rates from 3 to 2½ per cent.

Hits Report on Loans.

Glass, conservative banking authority and former secretary of the treasury, also tore into a recent report of treasury advisers recommending that reserve banks get out of the field of direct loans to industry, abolition of industrial advisory committees which pass on such loans first, and relaxation of eligibility rules relating to rediscounting of commercial paper.

Glass apparently had reference to the study made by Jacob Viner, former economic adviser to Secretary Morgenthau, and Charles O. Hardy, Brookings institute specialist, who assisted Viner in preparation of the report.

"We seem, dear sir," Glass wrote, "to have reached a stage in public affairs where every little subprofessor brought to Washington, however destitute of practical business acumen, is supposed to know more in a fortnight about banking and financial problems than the President of the United States, the seasoned officials of the reserve system, and members of congress who for many years have been keen observers of banking practices and intimately identified with financial measures. . . .

Assails "Impatient Academicians."

"Speaking as chairman of the senate committee directly in charge of the legislation condemned without adequate trial, I think the sooner Washington is rid of impatient academicians whose threatening manifestos and decrees keep business and banks alike in suspense, if not in consternation, the sooner and more certain will we have a complete restoration of confidence and resumption of business in every line of endeavor.

"Terran coelo miscent; or as Cicero has it: 'Damnut quod non intelligunt.'" [They condemn what they do not understand.]

Marriner S. Eccles, new chairman of the reserve board, has favored relaxing the eligibility rules for commercial paper rediscounting, and Glass' attack may be the forerunner of a fight against his confirmation.

Change Effective Feb. 1.

The new interest rates become effective Feb. 1. They affect 13,800 banks which are members of the federal reserve and the FDIC. Some of the latter are not reserve members.

Glass said the "suggestion that this arbitrary disregard of existing law is 'in the interest of recovery' is, in my judgment, simply convenient imagination, amply proved so by repeated experiments in the fixing of discount rates."

The Virginian said both the general counsel of the reserve board and Chairman Crowley of the FDIC had informed him there was no legal authority for including nonmember banks in the order and that Crowley had "confessed that the corporation, in so resolving, 'was skating on thin ice.'"

Chicago Curb Slates Five for Board of Governors

Nomination of five Chicago Curb exchange members for the board of governors has been announced. Emmett G. Barker, Kenneth L. Cooper, Leo J. Doyle, and William D. Kerr, were chosen for three year terms, while George P. Williams was selected for a one year term. Chosen for the 1935 nominating committee were M. M. Birnbaum, E. L. Hicks Jr., William B. Fenton, Robert M. McCarthy, and Clarence G. Troup. Elections will occur Jan. 14.

World Cotton Production Shows 2,376,000 Bale Drop

New York, Dec. 23.—[Special.]—World production of all kinds of cotton this season is estimated at 2,376,000 bales under that of last season by the New York Cotton Exchange service. The estimate for United States cotton has been raised somewhat from the last forecast, but that for foreign production is unchanged, it is added.

Markets and Banks to Close Christmas

Security and commodity exchanges throughout the country will be closed tomorrow in observance of Christmas. They will resume business on Wednesday. Most exchanges, including the New York and Chicago Stock exchanges, will remain open as usual today. The Chicago Board of Trade and Chicago Mercantile exchange will close at noon today and the Commodity Exchange of New York will remain closed today and on Dec. 31. In Canada the Montreal and Toronto Stock exchanges will adjourn today at 12:30 p. m. Most foreign grain exchanges will close at noon today and will not resume business until Thursday morning.

PRESENTS FEW IN WALL STREET AS TRADE SLIPS

Utility Share Prices Drop Sharply.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 23.—The quaint old Wall street custom of stuffing Christmas turkeys with thousand dollar bills gets honored in the breach rather than in observance once more this year. It has been so long now since most brokers have seen a $1,000 bill that they have forgotten what such a medium of exchange looks like. A few of them, still faithful to the traditions of the street, are quietly distributing bonuses to their employés but the largest total of the season will be pitifully insignificant in comparison with that of former years from all accounts.

All of which works down to a reiteration of the trite fact that the stock market continues as dull, stale and unprofitable from the brokerage house viewpoint as it has been for the last many weeks or, indeed, for the better part of the year. The averages barely moved last week as they did the week before and the week beyond that and on back into the past as far as the average trader cares to recall. They closed yesterday at $83.31 as against $84.17 for the preceding week. The level compares with the year's low of $74.95, the 1933 minimum of $46.85 and the rockbottom of 1932 of $33.78.

Tendency Is Downward.

Since well back in November the composite index has swung within an arc of five points, with a tendency to drift steadily to easier levels.

The feature of the week, from the professional viewpoint, was the break in utility shares precipitated by the unfriendliness shown by federal, state and city administrations toward the power and light industry as now conducted. The cue was given by the White House in suggesting financial aid to cities interested in competing with existing privately owned utilities and the refusal of the TVA to assist the utility industry in settling the legal position of government competition. President Roosevelt was pictured as ready to have the federal government advance money for the construction of a municipal plant in New York to be used as a "yardstick" in forcing down rates in other sections of the state, whether by other municipal plant projects or the threat of them.

Utility Shares Drop.

Stocks of the affected companies declined sharply when the news came out. Twenty representative issues of the group sold on the exchange here to new low marks for the year to date, ten of them recording new "all-time lows." The average price for the entire group of twenty-six stocks dropped to $14.93, which compares with the minimum of $17.79 last year and with a low of $16.38 in 1932 at the time when the whole market was touching the bottommost lows of the depression.

Another highlight was the flurry of activity in radio shares yesterday following the announcement of the corporation's board of directors that there would be no action on any readjustment plan at this time. Class B preferred shares, which have been in high favor for weeks on the strength of supposed benefits from the readjustment plan, broke nearly 5 points and the A preferred dropped more than a point, both on heavy selling. The common, on the other hand, rose ⅝ point on a volume of 53,600 shares and at one time sold up to 6.

Many to Take Vacation.

At least half the personnel of the Wall street community will be absent over Christmas and many of them have arranged to extend their mid-winter vacations until after New Year's. The few left expect the market to do little more than mark time in the interim. Many do not look for any worthwhile activity until something of market importance develops—probably not until after the new congress begins to show its hand on such pending problems as inflation, soldier bonuses, further taxation and the like.

SEC MODIFIES REPORT COVERING PAY OF OFFICERS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23.—[Special.]—Pending completion of a modified form for registration of securities act of 1933, which it expects to issue early next month, the securities and exchange commission today announced that it had adopted an amendment to form A1 clarifying the scope of information which must be contained in the registration statement concerning remuneration received by directors, and by officers and other persons.

Item 47 of form A1 called for a report of the total remuneration, paid or estimated to be paid, by the issuer, its subsidiaries or affiliates or their predecessors, directly or indirectly, to directors of the issuer, or persons performing similar functions, and whenever the aggregate remuneration from all such sources for any officer of the issuer or other person exceeds $25,000 per year, to such officers and other persons.

As amended the question now requires the name and total payments to those persons who received "any such remuneration from the issuer."

Commerce Group Asks Its Officers to Serve Again

The nominating committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce has called upon all current officers of the association to run for reëlection. The annual election will be held Jan. 9. Reëlection of presidents of the association has become common in recent years, but the present slate is the only one that included all incumbents. George W. Young, vice president of Marshall Field & Co., will head the list. Six vice presidents, a secretary, a treasurer, and nine directors will be named.

OLD TRADE ORDER IS GONE FOREVER, VANDERLIP SAYS

Sees Business Making Some Progress.

New York, Dec. 23.—(AP)—One thing certain, in the opinion of Frank A. Vanderlip, is that the old order in business will not come back.

What the new order will bring, this veteran banker says in a year-end statement, is yet to be seen, but progress is being made, despite fears that the new order may mean permanent extreme regulation.

"Instead of the comfortable attitude of looking forward to a happy new year, January first has come to be a period of 'peering around the corner' with more or less apprehension," the former head of the National City bank continued.

Just Around Corner.

"For the first two years of the depression many saw just around the corner the revival of business and the return to our old prosperity. Then came the time when we wondered if some diabolical being, baring its fangs with a grin, was waiting to bite us. Now we are more hopeful. But if one is at all a realist it is no longer a hope that we are starting on a return to exactly the old order."

He decried the efforts at redistributing wealth, but urged better distribution of the fruits of industry. He continued:

"We ought to see that the attempted redistribution of wealth has been largely a destruction of wealth. Wealth is not a definite thing that can be shuffled about, taken from one class and given to another, and continue to exist with its old qualities and values undisturbed. The very act of redistribution has in it the elements of destruction. What was believed to be assets become liabilities. The idle factory is no longer wealth. Real estate that must bear taxation in excess of its income has to be entered on the other side of the ledger. An uncertain investment outlook paralyzes thrift."

Sees Some Good.

But he said this does not mean that all the shackling of business which has been going on under the New Deal has been wrong. "On the contrary," Vanderlip said, "some of it has been highly necessary. We needed, in the investment and corporate field, greater integrity, greater care, less easy profit. We needed in banking much sounder principles and more protection for the depositor.

"We found there is a necessity for a change in the distribution of the fruits of industry if there was to be sufficient effective purchasing power. It was that maldistribution of the fruits of industry that was the fundamental cause of the breakdown of the old machine.

"There is no use in pretending that the conditions which marked the nineteenth century will ever come again. The world is in the birth pains of a changed social order. It is idle to predict exactly what that order will be, or when it will be established."

Hearing on Beet Sugar Allotment to Be Held Here

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23.—(AP)—The AAA has scheduled a hearing on proposed district allotments for beet sugar production in 1935 for Dec. 28 at Chicago. Tentative allotments have been drafted by the administration subject to changes after presentation of testimony from growers and factory operators at the hearing.

CHICAGO'S VOLUME OF TRADE LAST WEEK BIGGEST SINCE 1929

Chicago retail and wholesale trade scored its biggest volume last week since 1929, according to the Chicago Association of Commerce.

State street was universally happy over a weekly turnover estimated between 20 and 30 per cent ahead of last year. Holiday buying found its way into all lines of merchandise, even high priced jewelry houses reporting big sales increases.

Mail order and wholesale houses had a gala session. One large mail order firm said the week was one of the best in its entire history. Wholesalers were called upon for heavy deliveries to care for last minute replenishments by retailers throughout the middle west. Similarly department stores and other outlets entered the market for large advance supplies of spring merchandise.

Car loadings gained sharply and railroad passenger trafic moved higher. Demands on public utilities were heavy while employment maintained its slight upward trend.

BANKERS URGED BY HECHT TO AID MORTGAGE PLAN

New York, Dec. 23.—[Special.]—President R. S. Hecht of the American Bankers' association today urged bankers to coöperate with the Federal Housing administration in making effective title II and III of the National Housing act under which mutual mortgage insurance is set up and national mortgage associates created. President Hecht, in a letter addressed to all members of the association, urged the measures as "deserving of hearty support."

He expressed the opinion that these sections are are "not only effective national recovery measures but will exert a beneficial economic effect in liquifying mortgages that now are or may become part of the investments of banks." This action is in addition to the association's previous activity in coöperation with the housing administration in regard to title I, providing for the renovation and modernization of homes.

"The lack of a mortgage market is one of the chief obstacles to home construction and thereby to the revival of the heavy goods and building activities," the letter states. "In practice, mortgagees, whether original lenders or their successors or assigns, who are approved by the housing administrator, are entitled to insure their mortgage papers under the stipulations set forth under title II. Secondly, any mortgagee who later wants to turn his insured mortgages into cash should be able to find a market for them through the national mortgage associations, which it is proposed to organize."

11 Months' Canadian Auto Output in 72 Per Cent Gain

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Production of automobiles in Canada during the first 11 months of 1934 was approximately 72 per cent higher than production for the same period last year, figures released by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce revealed. The production of trucks and chassis was approximately 263 per cent over that of last year. Until the end of November this year 114,188 automobiles were turned out.

RAILS CHECKING EFFICIENCY OF FREIGHT CARS

Study Movements to Cut Waste.

A detailed check of the daily use of 2 million freight cars is being made by railroads of this country, according to J. J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads.

This check of how cars move, and why, was launched to discover if improvements can be made in the present handling system, Pelley announced yesterday.

"Every freight car movement is being recorded for a two-week period," he said. "Checks will be made with freight conductors, local station agents, yardmasters and clerks, car distributors and dispatchers. The individual records, which will present a more complete picture than routine statistical reports of car mileage, will be given to the association."

Analyze Full Picture.

The combined picture will then be analyzed to determine the fullest and most economical use that can be made of the cars without impairing present standards of service, Pelley said.

"In the ordinary course of business more cars move into the densely populated eastern section than move out," he continued. "To avoid congestion in the east and car shortages in the west and south there must be a large return movement without loads. Return of coal cars to mines, tank cars to refineries, refrigerator cars and similar uses of special equipment force haulage of many empties.

Present Reports Inadequate.

"All such movements appear in regular statistical reports simply as hauling empty cars without the necessary reason for their movement, empty, being made apparent. They may even appear as a cross haul with empties going in both directions on the same division at the same time.

"Freight cars have been classified in this checkup by their ownership and by types such as box, open-top, flat, stock, tank and others. With the complete history of these daily movements and the reason, railroads will get beyond bare statistics to a knowledge of the facts of car utilization never before attainable."

Weekly Tobacco Price Index Registers Decline

New York, Dec. 23.—[Special.]—The Stich, index of weekly average tobacco prices, based upon the 1926 average of 27 cents a pound as 100, decreased last week to 88.5 for U. S. type 12, grade B4F, flue-cured tobacco.

Yield of Gold Highest Since Pioneer Days

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Gold production in the United States, stimulated by revaluation of the dollar, apparently skyrocketed this year to heights untouched since pioneer days.

Rough estimates of the yield in the four greatest producing areas—California, Alaska, South Dakota and Colorado—showed today their mines have poured about $70,000,000 worth of the metal into the United States treasury during the year.

Last year, on the same dollar valuation basis, they turned out only about $43,000,000 worth.

May Reach $120,000,000.

Ordinarily these three states and the territory have been producing approximately 60 per cent of the nation's gold. If the nine other producing states turn in similar records for the year, the total 1934 output will reach almost $120,000,000. Last year the total yield for the country was $82,355,700, on the new dollar basis. The comparative 1932 yield was $81,550,700. The United States accounts for roughly one-tenth of the world's production.

California's army of treasury diggers led the parade of 1934 with the highest dollar value production since 1883.

Walter W. Bradley, state mineralogist, estimated the year's "take" at $22,000,000 to $25,000,000, despite a strike of miners that has tied up four great producers in the mother lode country. The 1933 California production on the new dollar basis was about $15,000,000.

Alaska Output $17,000,000.

The Alaska Weekly of Seattle, close follower of territorial affairs, estimated the 1934 production for the Alaska area at $17,000,000, compared with $14,000,000 in 1933.

South Dakota, third producer because of its rich Black Hills locations, was estimated to have yielded $16,500,000 this year on the basis of smelter receipts. Last year its production was $10,000,000.

Colorado, ranking fourth, showed on the same basis a 1934 output of $15,000,000, compared with less than $4,000,000 in 1933.

Figures for Arizona, Utah, and Nevada, the remaining large producers, were not available, but mining authorities at Reno predicted Nevada would show a substantial advance.

Number of Miners Increases.

How the country's cry for gold—backed by a booming price—echoed in the mines and on the desert, spurring fortune seekers, was reflected in the boom and bustle of the California lodes. Since 1930 more men each year have been gold seekers. The lure was heightened Jan. 31 this year when President Roosevelt set the price of gold up to $35 a troy ounce.

Carrying on in the manner of the old prospectors are individual small operators who, with burro or antique auto, search mountains and deserts for gold. Their number, about 5,000 in normal times, has grown to an estimated 15,000 in the last year or two.

WARNS OF EGG SHORTAGE DUE TO HEN SALES

Mounting egg prices and a grave shortage in laying poultry impend for next spring, Frank Priebe, president of the Institute of American Poultry Industries, warned yesterday.

Central west farmers are selling their poultry "at an alarming rate" because of high costs and the relative low prices for eggs, Priebe said. The condition, he said, "has reached such proportions in the last week as to become a serious concern to the entire industry."

"Unless farmers realize at once the folly of their present frenzied marketing program all the pullets and new stock that may be on hand next spring will be unable to supply the normal requirements of the nation," Priebe warned.

STEEL OUTPUT SOARS DESPITE YULE INFLUENCE

Production Rises 4 Points to 37.5%.

Despite holiday influences, demand for iron and steel was sufficiently strong last week to lift operations 4 points to 37½ per cent of production capacity, according to the magazine Steel. Comparatively little capacity will be taken off this week with most producers planning to shut down only one day over Christmas.

"This reversal of the customary year-end trend," the journal says, "finds full-finished steel output, mainly for automobile requirements, at 48 per cent. In northern Ohio sheet mills reached a new high for the year at 75 to 85 per cent. Operations in the tin plate industry, also running a contra seasonal course, are up 5 points to 50 per cent."

Auto Activity Broadens.

The automobile industry is rapidly getting under way with new models, the review continues. Output last week was 34,000 cars, or 10,000 above the preceding week. Chevrolet's schedule is reported to call for 120,000 cars next week, while Ford Motor Car company is expected to equal or exceed this figure.

"One of the market's chief supports is demand from agricultural implement manufacturers, who have completed their best year since 1930 and are preparing for more substantial improvement," the magazine states. "A better farm financial position has encouraged some leading makers to accumulate iron and steel stocks to carry them far into 1935. One shipment of 400 tractors has been made into the southern Indiana farm belt."

Awards Total 11,168 Tons.

Structural shape awards last week amounted to 11,168 tons. Awards of 5,000 tons of plates and sheets were made for various navy yards. The scrap market is quieter with some further price increases in Chicago. The review states that scrap and pig iron shipments for the month will be substantially above November, an unusual occurence.

Operations during the week advanced 5 points to 64 per cent at Cleveland, 10 to 80 at Wheeling, 2 to 26 at Pittsburgh, 1 to 36½ in Chicago, 2½ to 22 in eastern Pennsylvania, 13 to 37 at Buffalo, 3 to 50 in New England, and 2 to 41 at Youngstown. The rate at Detroit held at 59 per cent of capacity while Birmingham was 2½ points lower at 30 per cent.

Youngstown Activity Buoyant.

In trade circles it is said that steel operations in the Youngstown district this week will be higher than for any other Christmas week in several years, including the big year of 1929. Excluding the Christmas holiday, the rate is placed at 45 per cent, compared with 40 per cent last week and 39 per cent in the preceding week.

The journal's iron and steel price composite advanced 2 cents to $32.46 a ton, due to increases in scrap prices. The scrap index was 13 cents higher at $11.25 while the finished steel composite remained at $54 a ton.

Cost of Living Declines Slightly in November

New York, Dec. 23.—The slight decline in the cost of living during November marked the second month in which there was a downward trend, according to the monthly report of the National Industrial Conference board, whose index stood on Nov. 30 at 80.8 compared with 80.9 at the end of October and 77.8 in November last year.

United States District Court—Southern District of New York

In the Matter of Paramount Publix Corporation,

Debtor,

In Consolidated Proceedings for Reorganization of a Corporation, No. 56,763.

To the Creditors and Stockholders of the above-named Debtor, the Creditors of Paramount Broadway Corporation and all other Interested Persons:

Paramount Publix Corporation having filed in the above entitled proceedings its petition verified December 3, 1934, stating that it desires to propose, pursuant to Section 77B of the Federal Bankruptcy Act, the "Plan of Reorganization of Paramount Publix Corporation, including (as a part thereof) a Plan of Reorganization of Paramount Broadway Corporation, dated November 28, 1934" (hereinafter called the Plan), a copy of which is annexed to said petition,

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Court has made an order, dated December 3, 1934, requiring all creditors and stockholders of the Debtor, and the Trustees of the estate of the Debtor, and said Paramount Broadway Corporation and all creditors and stockholders thereof, to show cause at a hearing to be held in Room 235 of the United States Court Rooms and Post Office Building, corner of Broadway and Park Row, Borough of Manhattan, New York, N. Y., on December 27, 1934, at 10:00 o'clock A. M., or as soon thereafter as the matter can be heard, and at which said Plan may be proposed pursuant to Section 77B, why the Court should not (a) make such order as the Court deems proper dividing the creditors of the Debtor into classes according to the nature of their respective claims and interests for the purposes of said Plan and its acceptance; (b) find that said Plan is fair and equitable and does not discriminate unfairly in favor of any class of creditors or the stockholders, is feasible and complies with the relevant provisions of said Section 77B; (c) confirm said Plan upon the filing in the above proceedings of acceptances by or on behalf of the creditors and stockholders required by said Section 77B; and (d) grant such further relief as may be equitable.

Said hearing may be adjourned from time to time without further notice otherwise than by announcement at the hearing or any adjournment thereof.

Printed copies of said Plan are available to any creditor, stockholder or other interested person upon application to the Debtor at its office, Room 805, Paramount Building, Times Square, New York City.

Published by order of Said Court.

GRAIN PRICES DECLINE; TRADE UNUSUALLY DULL

Holiday Lethargy Is Rule Throughout World.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The grain markets of the world reached a near stalemate last week. Business in all countries was at low holiday ebb and in the absence of a constant flow of speculation prices followed the natural course by sagging moderately.

As the year draws to a close the future course of grain prices in this country and abroad is a matter of sharp controversy. Those who believe that the trend in wheat and other grains is higher have plenty of evidence to prove their case. Equally impressive factors can be shown to prove that prices have reached their peak and from now on will probably decline gradually.

Conditions Favorable Here.

In the United States conditions are distinctly favorable to higher prices if foreign influences are ignored. The fact remains, however, that foreign conditions exert an important influence on grain prices in this country. While America may maintain a price level higher than the rest of the world it cannot make itself independent of foreign price influences.

Currently wheat importing countries of the world are laggard in their purchases. The movement toward national self-sufficiency is displaying its results. Countries which normally depend on other nations for the bulk of their wheat supplies have either produced enough to supply their own needs or they have materially reduced their import requirements.

Canada Has Record Surplus.

Canada is sitting on top of the biggest wheat surplus in her history and still she insists on maintaining a policy of artificially high prices which has effectively choked off her foreign markets. Argentine and Australian wheat crops are now being harvested and will soon move into the world market with little competition from Canada. The United States has enough wheat to supply her own needs and still have a surplus margin when the next crop is ready.

The key to the question is the demand during the next few months from European countries. Unless they loosen up their purse strings and buy more foreign wheat than they have been doing, it does not appear reasonable the price situation will show much improvement.

Chicago Prices Decline.

In Chicago last week wheat prices declined moderately along with other grains. Trading was the dullest in many weeks. The following table shows the range for the week in principal grain futures:

RESTORE SMOKE CORNER ON FLOOR OF MARKET HERE

Members of the Chicago Stock exchange are now enjoying a new "smoking lounge" behind a railing in one corner of the trading floor as a result of economy efforts. This is as it was before the boom days, when the exchange decided it was cramped for room, installed phone booths in the space, and sent members to an adjoining room for smoking.

Economy recently led the exchange to discontinue the trans-lux tickers in the members' room, but there was marked dissatisfaction with the arrangement, for members wished to sit, smoke, and watch market quotations at the same time.

If they stayed on the trading floor they could not smoke, due to strict rules of the exchange, similar to the one forbidding stiff straw hats to prevent traders from being gouged in the eye, for example. If they retired to the adjoining room they could smoke and sit, but could not watch the market.
